SOME FLASHES FROM DR. LYON'S SERMONS

Many people in our churches don't think it is dignified to be enthusiastic, but they'll have plenty of time to be dignified after they are dead.

If a preacher can't put snap into his preaching let him go over in the corner and sit down.

I have often thought how much good some people would do if they would just wake up.

I have just as much respect for a gambler in the slums as I have for the gambler in the parlor.

Many a society woman will rave about a meeting of this kind because of the excitement who will work herself into an awful frenzy over a game of five hundred, bridge or rummy.

Many a first class business man is only a fourth class Christian.

The greatest need of the church today is a baptism of enthusiasm.

As soon as a church is a mutual admiration society it had better nail up its door.

If the devil is dead he has left a lot of orphans.

There never was a time when the church was so rich and so stingy as now.

Being a Christian is like riding a bicycle, you have to keep going on or you'll soon be going off.

he is now engaged in a series of meetings in Lima, Ohio.

TESTING SUPPORTING POWER OF THE CANTILEVER BALCONY AT FORT WAYNE'S NEW PALACE THEATER.

In order to insure that the Cantilever balcony at the new Palace theatre is perfectly safe and that it will support the weight that the builders guarantee fifteen tons of sand was placed at the center and left there twelve hours. There are no pillars and the nearest support to the point at which the sand is located is the outer walls which are twenty-two feet away. The sand was placed on a space eight by ten feet square at the center of the front of the balcony where it would naturally cause the greatest strain.

OTHERS WILL STAY IN RACE

Rivals of Bedwell for the Speakership Deny That They Will Retire.

REPUBLICANS TO NAME WARSAW MAN

Much Interest Centering About House Caucuses at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—There was great interest today in the democratic house caucus which meets tonight when a candidate for speaker will be named. There are already rumors that Charles H. Bedwell, of Sullivan, who has the indorsement of Governor Ralston, would not have any opposition when the caucus met, but the other candidates, Mason J. Niblack, of Vincennes, John C. Branamann, of Brownstown, and Fred L. Feick, of Garrett, said they were in the race.

Also Wants Vindication

Since the election of Wade Freese as secretary of the senate was claimed to be a vindication of him, Niblack's friends were urging his nomination for speaker on the same ground, as he was one of those indicted by the Marion county grand jury.

There was one rumor that Branamann would withdraw from the race and be made floor leader of the house. This was denied, however, by the Brownstown candidate.

The republican members of both houses will also hold separate caucuses tonight. Jesse Eschbach, of Warsaw, will be selected the republican candidate for speaker, and Senator Arthur R.

WOMEN AGAIN ASK WILSON'S SUPPORT

Washington, Jan. 6.—To obtain President Wilson's support of a constitutional amendment for nation wide woman suffrage was the object of a call today at the white house of nearly one hundred democratic women, many of them voters, whom the president had arranged to see. The amendment will be voted on in the house January 12 and the call on the president marks the opening of the final effort of the suffragists at the present session of congress.

LODGE IN ATTACK ON MEXICAN POLICY

Says Error Began With Refusal to Recognize Gen. Huerta.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Senator Lodge attacked President Wilson's Mexican policy in the senate today during a review of the urgent deficiency bill. The error of the administration's course, he said, had begun with the refusal to recognize Gen. Huerta on moral ground, rather than on broader international ground which it could have been based.

"The spectacle of the United States at war with Victoriano Huerta," said Senator Lodge, "was not a pleasing one for Americans to contemplate."

FLEMING WILL DINE DEMOCRATIC SOLONS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—Senator Stephen B. Fleming, of Fort Wayne, will give a dinner tonight for the democratic members of the legislature at the Claypool hotel. Plates will be laid for 110 persons. Governor Ralston and Lieut. Gov. O'Neill have also been invited.

Senator Fleming says the dinner has no political significance and that no legislative plans will be discussed. There are no set speeches on the program, but it is expected Governor Ralston will be called on for a brief address.

SAYS NORTH SHOULD CLEAN UP AT HOME

Washington, Jan. 6.—Dr. A. J. McKelway, southern secretary of the national child labor committee, and David Clark, a Charlotte, N. C. editor, had a lively clash in today's session of the 11th annual conference on child labor. Clark declared that until northern states had cleaned up their back rooms, gambling and vice dens, and Sunday theaters they had no right to complain that children under 13 years were permitted to work in cotton mills.

"Plainly speaking, it is none of their business," said he, referring to complaints from Massachusetts and New York, "to demand that we clean up our act."

SCORES PUT NEAR DEATH

Hundreds Are Overcome by Smoke in New York Subway Fire.

EARLY REPORTS HAD MANY DEAD

Passengers in Wild Panic to Escape Suffocation as Rescuers Come.

New York, Jan. 6.—More than 100 persons were overcome by smoke, cut by flying glass, bruised and otherwise injured in a fire aboard a train in the subway at the height of the rush hours this morning.

In the panic and confusion which ensued police headquarters issued a report that twelve persons had lost their lives, but this later proved to be unfounded, and only one known death was recorded.

The entire fire fighting force of Manhattan, every ambulance in the borough and every policeman that could be found were brought to the scene.

The fact that scores of persons were unconscious led to the early report that many had been killed. Later Police Commissioner Woods and Fire Chief Kenon announced that so far as they knew there had been no fatalities.

A surgeon attached to the Polytechnic hospital reported that one injured woman had died in an ambulance on her way to the hospital. Two hundred persons in all were taken to the Polytechnic, the surgeon said but as he knew, with spirit in his eye.

SENATOR SHERMAN TO SPEAK

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—United States Senator Lawrence W. Sherman, of Illinois, today wired acceptance to speak here on the night of Jan. 29, under the auspices of the Indiana Republican Editorial association. The announcement was made by L. W. Hensley, secretary of the republican state central committee. G. W. Hinman, president of Marietta college, Marietta, Ohio, will speak at the banquet of the association on the evening of January 28.

Western Ohio Coal Operators Adopt The Plan.

RUSSIAN BLOW TO THE TURK IS STAGGERING

Germans Appear to Have Checked the Advance of French Forces in Upper Alsace.

London, Jan. 6.—(12:30 p. m.)—The crushing blow the Russians appear to have dealt the Turks in the Caucasus, and the further advance of the French in Alsace on the road to Muehlhausen, continue to hold the foreground in the war news today in the absence of any other important development east or west.

It is felt in England that the reported rout of the Turkish invaders of the Caucasus, with the defeat of their plan to seize the Russian fortress at Kars, gives the Ottoman forces such a set back that the much discussed invasion of Egypt is now virtually out of the question.

Petrograd reports that the Turkish army defeated at Ardahan (40 miles northwest of Kars), which is distinct from the forces reported to have been crushed or captured at Sari Kamysh, was today completely surrounded and being harassed by Russian cavalry and "doomed to inevitable extermination."

While there has been virtually no change to the west of Warsaw it is the opinion of British observers of events that the Russian general staff is giving many indications of an intention to strike a heavy blow in Hungary.

BLOW UP GERMAN TRENCHES. French Use Mine as Preliminary to Sharp Attack.

Paris, Jan. 6.—(2:40 p. m.)—An official statement was given out in Paris this afternoon as follows: "In Belgium the enemy delivered, but without success, two attacks in the region of the Dimes and to the southeast of St. Georges."

"On the rest of the route to the north of the Lys and from the Lys to the Oise there has been nothing except artillery fighting."

"In the valley of the Aisne and in the sector of Rheims our batteries gained the upper hand over those of the enemy, reducing them to silence. At a point northwest of Rheims it is reported that a certain of our troops have made an advance of about 100 yards."

"In the Argonne there developed a very spirited action which permitted us to retake 300 yards of trenches in the forest of La Grappe at the same place where there was recently a slight giving way, as previously reported. From Baginelle and from Fontaine Madame there were delivered two violent German attacks, each of which was repulsed. A complete German regiment was engaged in each movement."

"Near the ravine of Courte Chaussee we blew up by exploding a mine 800 yards of German trenches, half of which we subsequently occupied."

SAY FRENCH KILL THEIR OWN.

Seem Indifferent in Bombardment, is Berlin Statement.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—The German military

Today's War News Given in Summary.

A German trench nearly half a mile long in the Argonne region was blown up by the allies according to today's official statement from Paris. The French then made an infantry attack and captured half of the trench. During this charge a grandson of the Italian patriot Garibaldi was killed. The recent death in action of another grandson was said in Rome to have reawakened the war spirit in Italy.

Aside from the fighting in the Argonne activity is limited chiefly to upper Alsace where the Germans seem to have checked the French advance. The loss of one position to the Germans is admitted.

The Berlin war office states that the French are bombarding towns to the rear of the German line "and seeming indifferent to the killing of their own countrymen and to the destruction of French homes." The capture of several trenches from the allies is reported.

Against two of the three nations she is fighting, Russia apparently has scored heavily. To the victory over the Austrians last week is added, according to the claims of Petrograd, the rout of two of the three Turkish columns which invaded Russian Caucasus. Latest reports from the Russian military authorities are that the defeat of the Turks was complete and that the Turkish army was in a state of panic.

SALOON MAN AND BARTENDER HELD

Sullivan, Ind., Jan. 6.—Walker Wilson, whose saloon was among several destroyed by dynamite at Hymers near here recently and George Halberstadt his bartender, are held in jail here in separate cells and it is believed the latter has given the authorities important evidence concerning the dynamiting.

The men were arrested following the holding of a court of inquiry at Hymers and which Halberstadt testified, and he was spirited to jail here because of fear of a hostile demonstration at Hymers. The specific charge against the men is that they burned the Wilson saloon.

Lauck, a statistician, who took the witness stand yesterday and continued today.

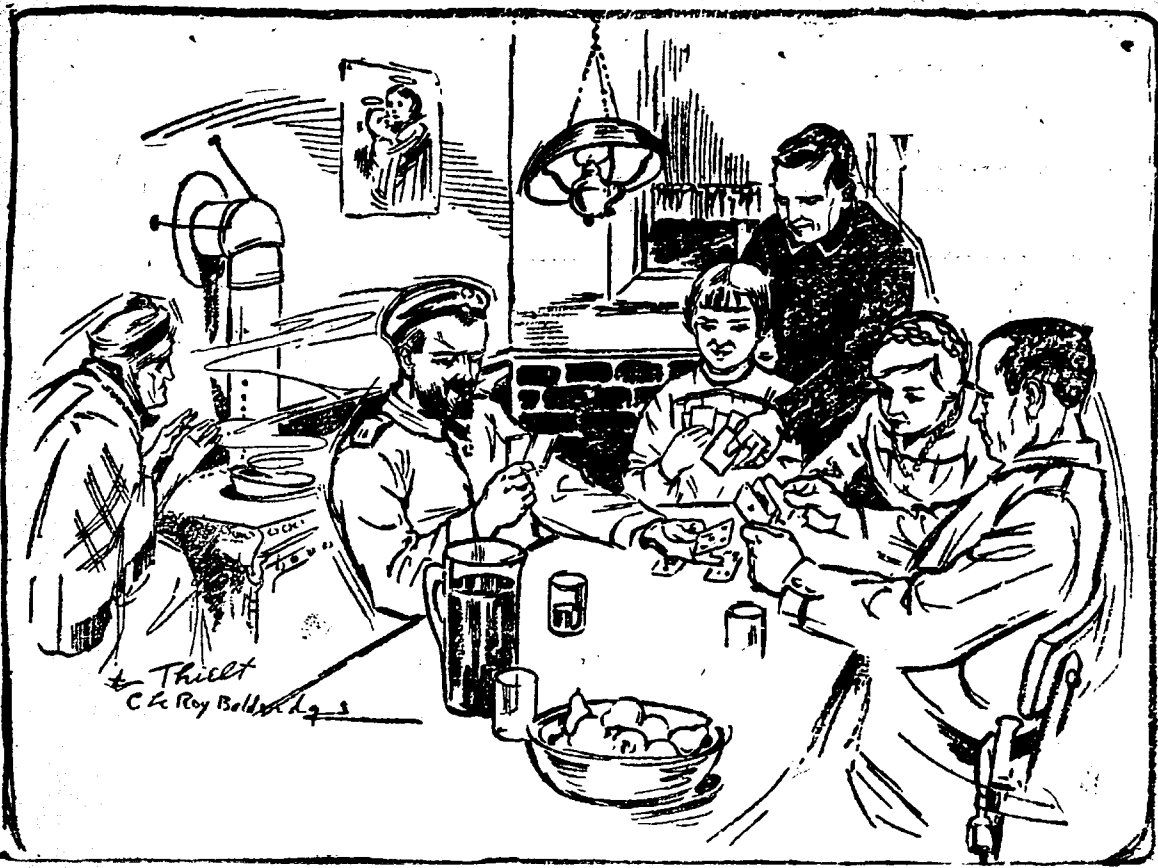

FRANCE DEPOSITS GOLD BARS HERE

New York, Jan. 6.—For account of the Bank of France, Lazard Freres today deposited with the First National bank of this city, $2,000,000 gold bars recently taken from the assay office. This unique transaction, which is said to be the first of its kind so far as the Bank of France is concerned, is a direct outcome of the foreign financial situation. In effect this operation constitutes the establishing of a credit in this country by the French government.

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY—FLEMISH GIRLS HAVE GERMAN SOLDIERS FOR PARTNERS AT CARDS.

WHILE A PRISONER IN A BELGIAN HOME NEAR ROULERS, I WATCH GERMAN SOLDIERS PLAY CARDS WITH BELGIAN GIRLS. BY C. LEROY BALDRIDGE.

While at the front near Roulers I was made prisoner and sent back under guard to Thiel for examination. I sketched the above scene under the eye of a sentry. The soldiers understood no Flemish and the girls no German, but that didn't interfere with card games which they taught each other. By the stove sat an old woman who had two sons with the Belgian troops. One of the girls also had a brother fighting. Sometimes she would sit silently at her cards and, when reproached by her German partner for inactivity, would say that she was thinking about her brother.

VERY RETICENT AS TO A CONFERENCE

Military Preparedness is Discussed at Home of Garrison.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Members of the cabinet and leaders in congress were reticent today concerning the details of the conference at Secretary Garrison's home last night in which they participated when military preparedness of the United States was discussed. While all of those present had been enjoined to refrain from discussing what transpired at the conference it was declared no definite conclusions had been reached.

Plans for co-operation between the executive and legislative departments on military and naval affairs, with particular reference to appropriations for the coming year and the carrying out of a general policy for increasing the efficiency of the military arm of the government were considered. A participant said that while no definite plans had been agreed upon those present were unanimous that every possible effort should be made in congress to bring the army and navy up to the highest standard of efficiency that could be produced with the resources available. The financial condition of the government was discussed according to Senator Chamberlain, who added that no proposals were offered for radical or extraordinary changes in the military or naval forces, the condition of both having been considered generally satisfactory. He said it was the understanding that the bills he had introduced in the senate effecting the navy establishment would be pressed.

MACHINE POLITICS GIVEN A DRUBBING

T. F. Thieme at Washington Attacks the Proposed Amendments.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Theodore F. Thieme, president and general manager of the Fort Wayne Knitting mills, was the principal speaker before the national conference on popular government, yesterday afternoon. He discussed the proposed amendments to the Indiana constitution.

Mr. Thieme suggested that Indiana was in a close race with Pennsylvania and New York for last place on the line of progress as to popular government. He showed the situation that is now confronting the voters of Indiana. The legislature of 1911 usurped, through its political machine, the right of the people to make a new constitution, and the document consisting of a series of twenty amendments was given the title of "Tom Marshall's constitution."

People Lose Their Rights.
"The supreme court of the state and of the United States," said Mr. Thieme, "declared the document unconstitutional because it deprived the people of their inherent right to frame their own constitution. The writers of this 'Tom Marshall constitution' thereupon prepared a series of twenty-two amendments which were passed by the legislature of 1913 and will be again submitted to the legislature of 1915. These twenty-two amendments are practically the Marshall constitution, only worse."

"The people will be asked now to give the legislature the authority to frame twenty-two amendments which the supreme court decided the legislature could not do. The political machine is going over the head of the supreme court and asks the people to give them a power which the supreme court has held belonged to the people. The same political combination submitted a constitutional convention bill, which was linked up with the $2,000,000 centennial appropriation bill and, during the campaign, last November, the convention bill was attacked by the combined forces of the public utilities and of liquor interests and defeated. The bill had no opportunity—no fair trial; it was a fraud and a part of the conspiracy to defraud the people of their right to make a constitution."

"These twenty-two amendments are vicious reactionary, a conspiracy against the people and should be rejected as a whole."

Branch, N. Y., is annoyed because porcupines have taken to invading the village streets in numbers.

FEAR TO ANNOUNCE MADE IN U.S.A. GOODS

Pittsburg, Jan. 6.—The "Made in America" exhibit, to have been held in Carnegie institute here, has been cancelled by the art society of Pittsburg, its sponsor, because, it was declared, American manufacturers feared to let the country know their wares were made in the United States.

The small number of articles presented for exhibition caused the society to seek the reason and brought from one of the important manufacturers the admission that he did not wish the fact spread abroad that his products were not made in Europe because of the "popular, though erroneous impression that European manufacturers are superior."

Other manufacturers are said to have taken the same view.

Our Great January Clearance Sale

Will Commence Thursday, January 7th

You have been waiting for it, so be on hand the opening day. The extraordinary bargains of past sales have been more than equaled, and in many instances surpassed for this year's offerings in the January Clearance Sale. All Winter Merchandise, whether in large or small lots, is included with the more staple goods, at prices that need no argument to induce you to buy. A Clearance sale that is ruthless in cutting and slashing prices, utterly ignoring actual cost or real value. This page of "Spokesmen" is part—a small part—of the hundreds of matchless values that await you all over the store. Come Thursday, come every day. YOU SAVE ON EVERYTHING YOU BUY HERE.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Psalm 6:1-10.

1 O Lord, rebuke me not in thine anger, neither chasten me in thy hot displeasure.
 2 Have mercy upon me, O Lord; for I am weak: O Lord, heal me; for my bones are vexed.
 3 My soul is also sore vexed: but thou, O Lord, how long?
 4 Return, O Lord, deliver my soul: oh save me for thy mercies' sake.
 5 For in death there is no remembrance of thee: in the grave who shall give thee thanks?
 6 I am weary with my groaning; all the night make I my bed to swim; I water my couch with my tears.
 7 Mine eye is consumed because of grief; it waxeth old because of all mine enemies.
 8 Depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity; for the Lord hath heard the voice of my weeping.
 9 The Lord hath heard my supplication; the Lord will receive my prayer.
 10 Let all mine enemies be ashamed and sore vexed: let them return and be ashamed suddenly.

Fighting the Amendments

Evidence is rapidly accumulating to show definitely that the recent defeat of the proposal for a constitutional convention in Indiana did not settle the question, and that the twenty-two amendments to come before the legislature for action at the coming session are going to have very rough sledding. The fight upon them is so vigorous and so well organized that it will have to be reckoned with.

Opposition is, of course, based not so much on the amendments of themselves as in the fact that their adoption would serve to delay if not defeat altogether the plan for a state constitution which would provide for home rule in cities, equal suffrage, the initiative and referendum and other phases of modern state government. This was forcefully set forth in a recent address by Theodore F. Thieme, of Fort Wayne, before the conference on popular government at Washington. Another militant attack is that which is being made by the Woman's Franchise League of Indiana.

The ladies are denouncing the proposed amendment which limits the elective franchise to male citizens only as an "insult to the women of Indiana" and a reflection on the justice of Indiana men, and they are taking an equally forceful and vigorous stand against many other proposals in Senator Stotsenberg's list. It is the pronounced conviction of most men who have given the problem study that any system of attempting to remedy the defects of the present constitution by patching will be a sorry failure. Indiana's needs in a governmental way can be met adequately only by an entirely new state charter.

The proposal to extend the boundary lines of Wayne township so that the city may be entirely within its limits instead of being apportioned among four townships as at present has much to recommend it and it should be consummated soon. The change will do away with an endless confusion in the matter of taxpaying and at election time. It is much preferable to the creation of an additional township, for with twenty civil divisions already, Allen county is sufficiently supplied with townships. When the present township lines were created it could not, of course, be foreseen that Fort Wayne would spread itself across so many of them. The condition is purely the result of modern growth, and it is one which the proposed change will relieve.

An Indianapolis man who beat his wife because on his return from work he found that she was attending the "movies," and that neither fire nor supper were in evidence at the family domicile, has just been discharged by the court before which he was haled on an assault and battery charge. Husbands who may be tempted to do likewise under similar circumstances, however, are cautioned that the case in point must not be accepted as a final and definite interpretation of the law. Some judges are "movie" fans, like a large proportion of other mortals.

Assurances from Washington to the effect that Indiana republicans will next year nominate Charles W. Fairbanks for governor and James E. Watson for senator, will doubtless be highly gratifying to members of the party in this state. It means so much to have a perplexing problem off one's mind, out of the way and in no danger of requiring further attention.

South Bend has again revived the project to annex the city of Mishawaka and thus become a city of 80,000 inhabitants. Just how Mishawaka relishes the prospect of being swallowed in a single gulp by the larger neighbor at her elbow, there is no evidence at hand to show.

Incidentally, the Pennsylvania railroad has asked for bids on some 170,000 tons of steel rails which it will require during the present year. This is but one of a good many straws that are just now showing how the business wind is beginning to blow again.

ALL LOSS AND NO GAIN.

(Saturday Evening Post.)

A battle has become a new thing. In all previous experience the cases where a battle was fought for more than a day in any year are comparatively rare. The typical campaign consisted of a march, some jockeying for position, and a desperate clash, in which usually a per cent. of the population of the respective belligerents was engaged and which endured at most for three or four days. Two such clashes, which added the year's campaign of the fighting almost continuously for more than four months. Multiply the number of men under fire by the number of days, and very likely we have already had as much actual fighting as in the five bloodiest years of Napoleon. And up to this writing the result is a mere deadlock.

Thanks to modern improvements, it is now possible to throw virtually the whole allied-banded male population of a country on a two-hundred-mile battle line within a fortnight. With aircraft, which are in constant use, the

No Money Is Only Excuse for Poor Teeth In Days of Good Dentistry.

Irene Estelle Hough

DON'T HAVE ANY OF YOUR FRONT TEETH FILLED WITH GOLD.

(By Idaho McGlone Gibson)

"It's all very well to insist on smiling," said a friend to me the other day who had been reading these beauty stories, the morals of which have been pointed by portraits of Miss Irene Hough, judged the most beautiful girl in America, "but what shall a girl do who does not have good teeth?"

I answered most emphatically that in this day of wonderful and painless dentistry there is no excuse for a girl having bad teeth.

The late Richard Mansfield said very often that one of the greatest essentials to the actor was a set of good teeth. He insisted that they not only added to the actor's appearance but that he could articulate better if he had all his teeth.

Don't by any possibility have any of your front teeth filled with gold. (Thank heaven that horrible fashion went out with Queen Victoria.) If you are unfortunate enough to have a cavity in one of your front teeth have it filled with cement or porcelain that matches it in color.

If you have your teeth cleaned carefully twice each year by a professional most dentists claim that, unless you have a long sickness, your teeth can be kept from decay.

Remember that a toothbrush is much more essential to beauty than a powder puff and a smile is more effective than the rouge pot. If you don't believe this consult your mirror.

THE WRONG REMEDY.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Former Senator Bourne, of Oregon, although now personally uninterested, retains the senatorial view on patronage and suggests that since it is a manifest impossibility for the president to select personally the most desirable men for over 11,000 offices out of probably 100,000 applicants, that the remedy is to make the postmasters, collectors of internal revenue and customs, registers and receivers of land offices, district attorneys and United States marshals elective offices and add them to the ballots.

This method would probably be preferred by his former colleagues in the senate who are now at loggerheads with the president over appointments. Their affiliations with the State organizations would be relied upon to put their candidates over. Objection is raised, however, that the ballot is long enough already and that reform should shewen rather than lengthen it. Also that the popular election of postmasters, etc., would not conduce to the efficiency or discipline of the postal and other government departments, both because the political workers would see that they got the jobs for their friends and because the local officeholders thus elected would hold themselves responsible to the organization that landed them in the jobs and not to the responsible departments at Washington.

If Mr. Bourne is really desirous of suggesting a remedy why not suggest the obvious one of abandoning the system of political patronage altogether by transferring the appointments to the civil service? Why should some postmasters be selected for politics and others for merit?

German Officer Wins Important Battles

Gen. von Boyadov

Here's the latest picture of General von Schaffer Boyadov, valiant soldier and one of the bravest commanders in the Kaiser's service.

General von Boyadov, commander of the Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—Wade H. Free of Anderson, was nominated for secretary of the senate at a caucus here last night of democratic members of the upper branch of the 1915 legislature which convenes Thursday. Harry B. Skillman, of Indianapolis, was named for assistant secretary. Will A. Yarling, of Shelbyville, was elected caucus chairman and Ralph C. Thomas, of Auburn, for principal doorkeeper. Fred Van Nuy, of Anderson, was named president pro tempore.

The defeat of Senator Gleen Van Auker, of Auburn, for caucus chairman by Senator Yarling, of Shelbyville, and the renomination of Wade Free as secretary over the protest of Governor Ralston furnished the only surprises of the meeting.

The election of Senator Yarling was unexpected in some quarters as it had been announced before the caucus that there would be no opposition to Senator Van Auker's candidacy. It is understood the vote on this office furnished the closest contest of the caucus.

Free was among the legislators indicated and freed recently from the Marion county grand jury's investigation of the 1913 legislature. Governor Ralston recently issued a statement in which he opposed Free's candidacy for the secretaryship. Free held the same office in the 1913 legislature.

Auditor of State Dale Crittberger and a delegation of Anderson democrats, headed by former Senator Netterville, were said to be active supporters of Free's candidacy.

Senator Fred Van Nuy as president pro tem will be majority floor leader. The slate nominated by the democrats last night will be elected without a hitch as the democratic party has a comfortable margin of control in both branches of the legislature.

Lieutenant Governor O'Neill addressed the caucus, which was held in his office, urging economy be practiced and explaining that it would be necessary to keep down the number of employees of the senate to a minimum. He referred to the charges of extravagance that have been made concerning the 1913 session of the assembly. He said that the 1913 session of the senate, over which he presided, did fifty per cent. more work than any previous session and employed only six more persons. Other members discussed the approaching session and there seemed to be unanimity of opinion that the senate should be as economical as possible.

A committee consisting of Senators Stephen B. Fleming, of Fort Wayne; Edward P. Elmer, of Seymour; and Jacob C. Kolsem of Terre Haute was named to select employees of the senate and to oversee as to expenditures. This committee is known as the "patronage committee." The members will meet to-day and select assistant door keepers and clerks.

The caucus was called to order by the lieutenant governor, who presided. Thomas L. Neal, of Lebanon, was named temporary secretary and later gave way to Senator Chester A. McCormick, of North Judson, who was made permanent secretary. Senator John F. Adams, of Clinton, and Senator Levi P. Harlan, of Indianapolis, were the only democratic senators not present.

WHASH A LADY TO DO WHENSH SHE'S ROBBED OF HER SHEESH?

Chicago, Jan. 5.—"Heesh gosh my sheesh, hesh gosh my gol' sheesh," moaned the woman as tears rained down her sorrow-lined face.
 "Ain't got 'em; never touched 'em," shrieked the man in demoniacal rage and his "coises" rent the air.
 "Shut up, ye fool," yelled the policeman, laying his "mashonag" on the man's cocc with severity. "Will you let the woman tell me what's lost?"
 The woman seemed dumb with terror or with remorse. But a long and bony finger was lifted tragically to her mouth. Empty! Nothing there but dark, yawning trenches!

When the sad tale was told in police court a merciless judge sentenced the woman to see a dentist and have the new ones riveted down so that joyriding couldn't shake them out. It cost the man $5 to be suspected of stealing a lady's "sheesh."

Folsom left the city last week and has been at the bedside of his parent ever since.

That pedestrians on rural roads wear white patches on the back of their clothes at night, and that backs of wagons be painted white as a protection against automobiles, has been seriously proposed in England.

The hour of the wedding was at half past 8 o'clock and the hundred guests arrived in time to exchange greetings with the bride and groom.

The musicians for the evening, Miss Carrie Olds, violinist, and Mrs. C. A. Horton, harpist, were screened from view in the reception hall by palms and they played previous to the appearance of the bride and groom.

The bride was escorted by her father, Mr. A. W. Heit, and the groom by his best man, Mr. H. W. Fee. The bride wore a white crepe de chene gown with full circular skirts edged with ermine and a touch of chiffon and lace about the bodice. Both the attendants to the bride carried leghorn hats filled with Aaron Ward roses. The bride appeared with her father and she was really a dream of bridal beauty. Her gown was fashioned along simple lines of an exquisite material of cream white crepe duchess, made with train and trimmed with real fillet lace. The bride veil was edged with real duchess lace fashioned into a winged cap for the head and the bridal bouquet was a beautiful shower of lilies of the valley tied with a wide lace scarf. The bride was given away by her father and plighted her troth with a ring. Rev. H. B. Master, of the First Presbyterian church, of which both bride and groom are members, was the officiating minister. Mr. William Mershon, of Sankaw, Mich., was best man. The musicians played a gay program of music as congratulations were showered upon the wedded couple and the guests were invited to the dining room by assisting young women, Misses Ruth and Helen Caldwell and Irma Poole. A collation was served the guests and a little later the bride and groom appeared in their traveling suits and left the house. For an hour or so Mr. and Mrs. Fee remained at the home of a friend, but early this morning they left for a trip to Indianapolis, West Baden and Chicago and will be away about two weeks. For traveling the bride is wearing a blue broadcloth suit with fancy chiffon blouse and a black velvet hat trimmed with white feathers. Pink and white with the green of southern smilax were the decorative colors of the wedding. The assisting young girls wore pink gowns and the bride's mother presented a handsome appearance and wore as a finishing touch to her black satin and jet gown a corsage of deep pink orchids. Mrs. Fee, mother of the groom, was gown in black and a pink rose mingled with the lace of the bodice, also suggested this favored color of the bride. The Misses Flick had charge of

EXPERT GIVES "SCORE CARD" FOR THE IDEAL HUSBAND.

DOTTED LINE SHOWS WHERE LAUREL WREATH REALLY BELONGS ACCORDING TO MRS. LAWRENCE.

"But as to this ideal husband that every girl seeks and some never find, he isn't necessarily a man of ideal character, but if he pleases his wife he is her ideal, and that's all there's about it. On her vote he is elected to the ideal husband class and it's for her to keep him there."

"If men were not so matter-of-fact in their attitude toward the women they marry, it would be much easier for wives to make their husbands into ideal husbands. Men tire so quickly of romance. Married men seem to be positively ashamed to be tender or love-like after marriage."

"In their counting days they squander money and time and almost work miracles to win a wife. Then when they get married they seem to think, 'Well, she's mine now. No matter how I behave, it's all the same to Mary Ann. But it isn't all the same to Mary Ann, nor to Vere de Vere. Mr. Husband thinks he has 'caught the car' and he quits running, but the car keeps moving right on, and he had better keep on a running or it will get away from him."

"The ideal husband and the ideal wife should be chums and good fellows. When the husband spends an evening with friends of his bachelor days his wife doesn't nag about it, because an occasional 'evening out' is one of the privileges of the ideal husband."

"The ideal husband really shouldn't drink at all, but if he does take a drink now and then his wife shouldn't nag him about it."

"The ideal husband is not a grinch. He's just a good fellow with a few forgivable faults and a great many traits that command respect and love. He doesn't try to be an angel, because he knows that nothing makes a sensible wife more irritable than the whir of wings."

AT THE EMPRESS.

The present bill at the Empress theater is making an emphatic hit with the patrons of that popular theater. The bill has all kinds of enticing bits and is of the pleasing kind from start to finish. The headline act, that of the Three Bennett Sisters, is a hummer of an act. The Bennett Sisters are real acrobats and as they are also mighty attractive young ladies, their act is exceedingly entertaining.

The big laugh act of the bill is the act of Rockwell and Woods, two young comedians who certainly know how to make everybody laugh and laugh heartily. Rockwell and Woods are getting more laughs than any other act that has been seen at the Empress this season.

The opening number on the bill is also hummer. It is a skating act presented by Collier and DeWilde, an attractive young lady and a young man. They are certainly wonders on skate.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

Edward Abeles in "The Million."

Edward Abeles, the foremost light comedian in America, comes to the Jefferson today in the starring role of Henry W. Savage's great comedy success, "The Million." This is the first of the paramount pictures shown at the Jefferson of a comic nature, and the production lives up to the unapproachable paramount producing standards in every way. "The Million" is not by any means a hedge-podge of slap-stuck comedy, but a play depending upon legitimate comic situations for its humor it contains. Situations of a highly absurd nature follow each other with breath-taking rapidity, and there is no respite from the overwhelmingly funny methods employed by that finished farceur, Abeles.

In the story Abeles is called upon to impersonate no less than six different characters, and the rapidity with which he fits from one identity-destroying costume to another is a constant source of amused wonder. "Gertie the Dinosaur," a series of ten thousand hand-drawn pictures of a fantastical nature drawn by Windsor McKay, the noted cartoonist, will be another feature.

AT THE COLONIAL.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM.

Colonial Presents Two Attractions Today.

An excellent production of thrilling incidents, scenes and exciting situations which comes to the Colonial today is "The Aviator Spy." This play is shown in four parts and many spectacular scenes are introduced which make this one of the most thrilling dramas ever shown in Fort Wayne.

An added attraction today is a quaint drama of the romance of a young artist and a fisherman, "The Storms of Life." A land quarrel, a disowned son, a lost memory, a romance in a fishing village, a painting and a misunderstanding are the storms that disturb the elements in this pacific drama of novel situations and strong character portrayals.

Tomorrow.

A varied program will be presented at the Colonial tomorrow. "Human Wolves," a thrilling drama in five parts, and an excellent one-reel comedy will be the attractions.

"Runaway June" Serial.

The first installment of the wonderful "Runaway June" serial, written by George Randolph Chester, will appear soon in the columns of the Journal-Gazette. This serial will come to the Colonial in pictures on Wednesday, January 13th, and will prove a delight to all who see it.

AT THE LYRIC.

"The Littlest Rebel" at the Lyric Today

The Lyric management secured a great feature for today, "The Littlest Rebel," in six big acts, with an all star Broadway cast. This is a tense and dramatic play full of heart interest with every detail carried out which made it so successful on the stage. It is one of the most beautiful stories ever told.

"Fire and Sword" Thursday.

The attraction at the Lyric on Thursday will be the thrilling and spectacular production, "Fire and Sword," in six acts. This is a stupendous photo drama of love, war and adventure of the orient, with an all star American cast supported by one thousand native Arabs, United States marines and cavalry.

MINCE MEAT.

(By Caroline Coe.)

Boil three pounds of lean fresh beef until very tender; allow to cool in the stock. When perfectly cold put through the meat grinder. Chop one-half pound of beef suet, and mix with the beef; peel and chop one-half peck of sour apples; chop one-half pound of seeded raisins and shred one-half pound of citron; add one pint of molasses and one pint of syrup left from pickled peaches or pears; add one and a half pounds of brown sugar; one tablespoonful each of cloves and ginger; two tablespoonfuls of cinnamon; one heaping tablespoonful of salt, one grated nutmeg.

Mix all together and put over slow fire to cook. Add one pound of raisins that have not been chopped and one pound of currants; cook until the apples are soft, and the whole is thoroughly cooked. It will scorch easily and must be stirred very often. Put up in glass jars while hot and seal the same as fruit.

WHIZZ! WHIRR!—EVERY ONE'S BEEN SKATING IN NEW YORK.

CLAIRE CASSELL.

The best of all winter sports has come into its own again—this winter everybody skates, and the girl who tangles and the girl who "trots" has made way for the girl who can skim the ice on skates.

The first nip of skating weather brought Miss Claire Cassell, the New York skating champion, to the risks, and her daily exhibitions are a feature of New York's brief season of winter sports.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

To make the toughest steak tender put three tablespoonfuls of olive oil and one tablespoonful of vinegar in a flat dish, lay the steak in this for half an hour, turn and leave for another half hour, wipe dry and cook in a hot pan.

In cutting down the cost of living try my recipe for baked codfish, which is very good. One tencup codfish, picked fine; two cups mashed potatoes, two cups sweet milk, two tablespoonfuls butter, two eggs (beaten light), a little pepper. Mix thoroughly. Bake one-half hour.

Silk handkerchiefs should be washed in a warm lather made with pure soap. This should be blue, as should the rinsing water. Roll up tightly in a cloth and iron the handkerchiefs between linen or they will turn yellow.

If you want to get your money's worth when using the oven of the gas range arrange a combination of articles to cook at one time. When you wish to roast a small piece of meat (four or five pounds) you have room for at least two other dishes and shelf space for baking potatoes around the small roasting pan.

Dried fruit, already soaked, is delicious baked. The combination when baking might be roasted meat, potatoes, bread, dried prunes or apricots, or baked apple or brown betty.

It's a Simple Thing to Acquire Fair Throat.

(By Idah McGlone Gibson)

Many women write and ask: "How shall I develop my throat and bust?" There is one very simple exercise that, taken together with deep breathing, will, if persisted in, give any woman who is not in delicate health a fine throat and bust.

Miss Irene Hough kindly consented to pose with her hands in first position. Stand on the balls of your feet, throw your head and chin up. This will pull up your abdomen and chest. Take a long, deep breath and, while your lungs are full, bring your hands tightly closed up to your chest.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA.

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburg Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, pour a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

Dr. Lyon's Sermon on Tuesday Evening

THE NEW, OLD CHRISTIANITY.

The Acts 20:24. "But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God."

The apostle Paul had just finished his third evangelistic tour. He had come to Miletus and had sent up to Ephesus for the officers of the church to come to meet him for a last conference. During this visit the Ephesian friends endeavored to persuade him from going up to Jerusalem, for they said, Paul, as you have been going about the country, in your evangelistic work, you have spoken so plainly and pointedly that you have aroused bitter opposition and made many enemies who are threatening your life. The center of this opposition is at Jerusalem. If you go there the chances are they will kill you. Paul replied, "The Holy Spirit bears witness in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me." Then came ringing out the words of our text, "But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself." Paul stands forth as a type of the early Christians, the Christianity of the first century.

It is a glorious thing to march to victory to the tune of martial music and the waving of plumes and banners, but far greater still, to toil on amidst privation and danger, knowing that a cessation of earnest endeavor would mean an end of trials, but continuing steadfastly in the course, with a feeling of peace and joy. This was the spirit of the early Christians. I wish tonight that we might analyze the secret of their power and find in them an impulse to move us as Christian workers to nobler effort and endeavor.

There were three special elements in the lives of these early Christians. We can well covet and emulate the greatness of their power. The first was their spirit of enthusiasm. There was nothing temporary or local in this quality. This zeal of the early Christians was evident first of all in the holy city of Jerusalem, but it did not stop there. It spread over all Judea, Samaria, and Galilee. It crossed over into Europe. This enthusiasm was evident among the mountains of Macedonia, upon the plains of Gaul, amid the commerce of Corinth, yes, even to the very gates of the imperial city of Rome. More than this, like the flowers that grow up on the mountain side above the timber line, in the region of frosts and snows, we find a little company of earnest Christian disciples in the palace of that most wicked and licentious of Roman rulers, even of Nero himself, sending a message to the churches of the east—"The saints of Caesar's household salute you." There was nothing that could dampen or destroy their ardor. They were cast into dungeons, and dens of wild beasts, they were burned at the stake, but others gladly leaped into the breach. They served God with a heroism and devotion that has not been surpassed in twenty centuries.

Oh, that we might see a similar spirit in our day. The greatest need of the church is a baptism of enthusiasm. By enthusiasm I mean nothing temporary or sensational, nothing that like a sky rocket goes up with a great "swish" then comes down a dry, dead stick, nothing of the momentary brilliance of the sky rocket or meteor, but rather the steadfast shining of the sun. Emerson well said, "No great cause was ever carried to a successful conclusion without enthusiasm." Many a first-class business man is only a fourth-class Christian. In politics and finance, he is full of life and energy, but in his religion he is dull and listless and dead. Many society women will flutter with excitement all the afternoon and half the night over bridge whist or five hundred, and if she ever goes to prayer meeting, she will sit as dumb as an oyster. Oh, for people that will devote their time and their energies to something that is worth their while! But some one says, "Are you not afraid of zeal without knowledge?" Yes, but I am more afraid of knowledge without zeal. If you have got knowledge and you have a large load of power, you can scrape up enough pebbles in the street and put them into the barrel and hit something; but if you merely ram down in your gun a hard, cold bullet without any powder back of it, you can hit nothing. Any system of education in school, college or seminary that takes the life and fire out of the student or the preacher is worse than a failure. If a preacher cannot throw his whole heart and soul into a sermon, he had better go back in a corner and sit down. It is a supreme moment for any man when he has the privilege to stand in the pulpit, for a half hour, between the living and the dead. It is well to be a pillar in the church but not to be a sleeper in the church. Beecher once said to his janitor, "If you see a man going to sleep, wake him up." "Wake whom up?" "The man!" "No, the preacher!" If dullness and laziness are inexcusable anywhere it is in the pulpit. Worse than inexcusable, it is criminal! If the average man in business did not put more energy in his work than the average Christian puts into his religion, he would be a bankrupt inside of sixty days.

But not only did the early Christian have a spirit of zeal, but also of personal endeavor. Said an early historian, "One of the remarkable things about that band of Nazarenes is that each one feels personal responsibility for the building up of their cause. Would that this might be said of the modern church! There are many churches that have, in these days but two active workers—the pastor and the janitor. Last year the churches of this country reported a net increase of less than 2 per cent. That is, it took more than fifty professed Christians to convert one soul. Supposing the superintendent of a life insurance company had in his employ 100 agents going out to write life insurance, and at the close of the year the whole one hundred would bring in but two policies. What would he do? You say he would discharge the whole bunch. It is a wonder to me that God has not gotten disgusted with and discharged all of us long ago. Many a church is like a man with a crying baby. 'Simply holding its own,' like riding a rocking horse, there is a great deal of activity but very little advancement. The proprietor of a lubricating factory in the east, after running a year, was asked, 'Where do you sell the product?' Said he, 'We do not sell it at all.' 'What do you do with it then?' was asked. 'We use it,' said he, 'to oil the machinery with.' The church should not merely be a hospital, but a hive, not a place to coddle the saints, but a place to save the lost. Whenever any church becomes merely a social club, a society for ethical culture, it had better nail up its doors. That church is dead and ought to be buried.

Moreover, the early Christians had the spirit of separateness. It was this fact that first of all brought on their persecution. The heathen world wanted them to put a statue of Jesus in the Pantheon along with the images of Mars, Mercury, Jupiter and Minerva, but they refused. Oh, said the heathen, now be liberal. We will make a compromise with you. If you will come into our festivals for the worship of Bacchus and Venus, then we will go into your service for the worship of Jesus. The Christians replied, "We will not do it." Then they said you are fanatical and bigoted and you need to be disciplined. That was the beginning of the era of persecution.

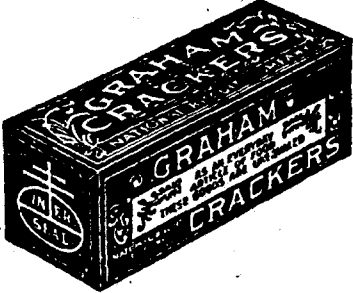

Why is it that there are no more people today that are being persecuted for the faith? I will tell you the secret. If the vicious and the ungodly decided to persecute, they would not know for the life of them whom to persecute. The average church member is living such a neutral, negative, colorless life that you can distinguish no difference between him and the unbeliever. The greatest hindrance to a revival is not the active antagonism of the openly wicked and vicious, it is the lukewarmness and indifference of the average professed Christian. You could not get a man to leave the rocks and hills of old New England and come out to the fertile prairies of Illinois or Iowa, if he thought he had to work just as hard to grow a bushel of wheat or corn as he did back there among the stumps and stones. Why does he make the move? It is because he thinks there is a difference in the two regions. You could not get a resident of northern Minnesota or Michigan to go down to southern Florida or California if he thought it was just as cold at Miami or San Diego as it was at St. Paul or Duluth. He goes because he knows there is a marked difference between them. So it is with us, there is a strong inertia in human lives, an unwillingness to change from our present condition unless there is some great incentive.

Many seem to think that if we can make the church just like the world, then all the world will flock into membership with the church. Never was there made a greater mistake. The higher the standard of the college, the stricter the requirements for entrance. It ought to be equally so in religion. You often see many religious organizations in the membership of which are both the pure and the impure, the Godly and the ungodly and from what they say and do, you can distinguish no difference. I challenge anyone to discover any difference between them.

Here are two men walking up to the polls on election day, arm in arm. One is a church officer and the other is a saloon-keeper. You ask the saloon-keeper, "Where are you going when you die?" He replies, "I expect to go to hell." The Bible says no drunkard will inherit the kingdom of heaven, so certainly we who are making drunkards cannot. You ask the church officer, "Where do you expect to go when you die?" He is indignant at your question. He says, "I am a church officer, I am going to heaven, of course." But when you look at their ballots you see that both these men are voting the same ticket. If you are voting for the same candidates and for the same measures as the vicious and the ungodly, you are going to exactly the same place in the hereafter. "Wherefore, get ye out from among the man and be ye separate to the Lord and then I will be a Father to you, and ye shall be My sons and daughters," said the Lord God Almighty.

Why did the early Christians have these three elements of enthusiasm, personal endeavor and separateness. It was due to three causes. First, they believed something and believed it with all their hearts. There was no doubt in their minds about Jesus being what He claimed to be, the crucified and risen Son of God. Many of them had seen Jesus, if not they had talked with others who had. To promote a great cause, you must be backed up by a great creed. Creed and character have the relationship of cause and effect. What you believe makes you what you are. Amosites make poor martyrs. Some folks I know ought to make good martyrs, they are dry enough to burn. It is not until you believe something with all your heart, believe it so strongly that you are willing to die for it, have you anything worth living for. There is a great difference between opinions and convictions. Opinions are things that you hold, but convictions are things that you hold you. Many in these days are boasting of their liberalism. I believe in a liberal religion, a religion that is as high as heaven, as broad as the universe, and deep as the unfathomable love of God. But I would like to hear some one emphasize depth as well as breadth. Some folks are getting so broad that they are very shallow. A shot gun scatters over a good deal more territory than a rifle, but it will not penetrate nearly as deep.

In the next place, the early Christians had lost hope in other agencies for the salvation of the world. If the Augustan age in Rome, in which they lived, was not the greatest in the world's history, it was second only to the age of Pericles in Athens, the wealthiest, the wickedest, the most literary, the most learned and the most licentious upon which the sun has ever shone. These early Christians had learned the lesson that many moderns have not learned, that it takes more than excellent surroundings to save a soul. I believe in the value of sociology as well as theology, I believe in making conditions for human life as favorable as possible. But merely by giving people soup and soap and taking the sewer gas out of their nostrils you are not going to bring salvation. When our first parents wandered from God in the favorable environment of the Garden of Eden, it knocked the environment higher than a kite.

Furthermore, these early Christians lived in the light of eternity. They had a spirit of other-worldliness. They were looking for an eternal reward. Not till one begins to build beyond the stars is he fit to live here on this earth. They did not care whether they were counted among the noted and the great, they were members of the divine aristocracy; princes and princesses of the divine kingdom. It was little to them whether they lived in cottages or palaces, for they knew they had mansions not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

The time came when the zeal of the early church began to wane. When Christianity was poor it was pure, when it became rich and popular it began to go down. When Constantine the Great made Christianity the religion of the empire, the nobility, who before had sneered at and persecuted the Nazarenes, thinking now that it was popular, flocking to its membership in the church. The result was disastrous to spirituality. There is a great danger today that wealth and popularity may prove detrimental and destructive to religion. It is a great cause for congratulation that the church is as popular as it is. One of the first questions that applicants are asked frequently is, "Do you belong to a church?" Said one young man to me, "I never knew before that church membership helped a man in business." I replied, "It often helps him too much in business. And the result is that many join the church for financial, political and social rather than spiritual reasons." One society leader said to me, "No one can be a member of our social set unless she is a good standing in some church." She belonged to the cream of society. Some of these folks are almost cold and stiff enough to be called the ice-cream. The church today with all of her wealth and prosperity, may become like Samson with his head in Delilah's lap, shorn of its power and yet knowing not that the Spirit of God has departed.

Never was there a time when the church was any richer or any stingier than it is today. Nine million dollars go into the pockets of professed Christians in America every twenty-four hours, and never was such a small percentage of their incomes given for religious purposes. The mission secretaries of all denominations are constantly compelled to beg for money enough to keep the work going in multitudes of needy fields. This country spent last year more for gum than for the gospel. The men in our churches paid more for tobacco than they did for religion. If a man spends more on gasoline for joy rides than he does for Christian work, no matter what church he belongs to, he needs to be converted. The time was when some of you lived, perhaps, in a small house in the country. The circuit rider would come around once a month and hold services. You would sweep that little church or school house; and build the fires on a cold winter morning; you would give the preacher the best room in the house and the last dollar you had toward his salary. But now you have moved to town, learned to play bridge, sent your children to dancing school and tried to break into society and you have little time or money for God's work or workers. The richer you have become the tighter you have pulled your purse strings and your soul has withered and shriveled up to the size of a mustard seed. Aren't you ashamed of yourself? I saw a sign upon a pillar in a big church out on the coast which read, "Our denomination gave sixty cents per capita for missions last year." Either give more than one-sixth of a cent a day for the sending of the gospel around the earth or else stop singing, "Christ for the world, we sing." In the language of the street, "Either put up or shut up!"

We now see signs of the dawning of a brighter day. The church has been trying every other means to build up its work, and has failed; now people are coming back to the gospel. They find that what we must have more religion, or very soon we will have vastly less. Being a Christian is like riding a bicycle; you must either go on or you will go off.

GIRLS! HAVE BEAUTIFUL, LUSTROUS, FLUFFY HAIR—25 CENT DANDERINE

No more dandruff or falling hair; but you—A real surprise awaits you.

To be possessed of a head of heavy beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet—really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.—Adv.

O-OW! CORPSES! SPO-O-KS!—GO WHILE THE GOING IS GOOD.

Clinton, Ill., Jan. 6.—A pink striped shirt, maybe a few silk socks was the "haul" Sam Hawkins, smoke-tinted gentleman, hoped to make when he frisked the small Chicago drummer's suit case. Sam's no graveyard burglar.

He made a quick getaway with the grip into the alley. But "ghosts of Bill Johnson." Did any one see Sam Hawkins make his exit from the alley. He didn't have the suit case with him. He left it behind him—also he left behind a half dozen clammy cold legs, and a various assortment of white, gray and human framework.

Sam had sure picked a dead one. It was a line of artificial limbs that feel drummer "drummed" and that swell looking bag had nothing in it more cheering than wax legs and arms.

There was nothing for a "culled" man to do under the circumstance but run. Sam ran. He's running yet as far as the Clinton coppers know.

WON AND LOST MILLIONS ON RACETRACKS; STILL WEARS "LUCKY" OLD BEAVER HAT

Most Picturesque Figure of Paddock Has Been Arrested Fifty-Seven Times for Fast Driving.

San Francisco, Jan. 3.—He sits often in the foyer of the Palace hotel here, in a big arm chair—a man of medium size with a conspicuous, big white beaver hat resting on his knee, accepting the attention he excites much as a king accepts his sight to rule.

He is "White Hat" Daniel McCarthy, who has won and lost more than a million dollars on the American turf, now 32 years old, although you'd set him down for 40.

The palmy days of racing have left in their wake no more picturesque figure than this man, who is known on every racing course from California to Maine.

"White Hat" McCarthy took to fast horses when very young and has never quit them. In San Francisco alone he has been arrested fifty-seven times for fast driving. He continues to drive a speedy pair, Sydney R. and F. W. P., a 2:30 span, although he is now immune from arrest.

His predilection for pranks is bound up in some of his numerous "phobias." Once he left a horse unattended on the street, after having been repeatedly warned against it. The animal, although speedy, was gentle as a kitten. At a neighboring "ham-and" joint McCarthy had a very large doughnut specially cooked to order. Trying it to a strand of black thread he fastened it to the horse's bit like a hitching weight and left him standing there.

When the officer on the beat discovered the horse he walked for McCarthy and placed him under arrest.

"One good joke deserves another," chanted the officer.

"WHITE HAT" MCCARTHY.

McCarthy kept the peace until haled before the magistrate, and then argued his case on the ground that the doughnut was "a sinker" and sufficient to anchor down even the most fiery steed.

The judge showed his joking spirit in turn by fining "White Hat" handsomely. McCarthy took it as quite a tribute to his comedy genius, and went his way chuckling.

"White Hat" doesn't remember just when he began racing horses. He was in the trotting game early and owned the famous mare Venus, from whose line came Lou Dillon, track king, whose 1:58 1/4 was a record until reduced to 1:55 by Uhlman. He was also owner of Dexter Prince, for which he refused $30,000.

McCarthy's first big winning was at Washington park in 1887, when he captured the American derby with S. H. Todd at 50 to 1, the purse being $15,000. In 1891 he made another "killing" with Sorrento by winning the July stake at Long Branch.

Just before this race McCarthy strolled into the betting ring and found his nag posted at 80 to 1 against.

"Give me $200 on Sorrento," he drawled laconically to the bookmaker.

"Want some more?" challenged the latter, accommodating him.

"Yep, $200 more," was the reply.

"Make it $12,000 to $400," coolly responded Burton, the bookmaker. Then he promptly marked Sorrento up at 35 to 1 against.

In all McCarthy won $45,000 on that race.

He believes racing will return to its own again, and he believes that when it does he will amass another fortune.

"I believe," he said, "that the game will thrive again. The percentages should go to the state, and with the pari mutuel and auction pools racing must be on the square."

FEDERALS HANG UP VICTORY IN FIRST

Lyceum Basket Ball Team

Off to Great Start in Opening Game.

The Lyceum Federals made their debut last night before a large crowd in their opening game with the Corby hall team of Notre Dame and they finished the game a good five points ahead of their opponents. The Corby team outplayed them twenty pounds to the man but what the Federals lacked in weight they made up in speed and at no time was the outcome of the contest doubtful. There was an element of roughness but it only served to make the game more interesting and detracted nothing from it. The visitors used the same players that went up against the Zanesville bunch, and it must be admitted that Corby puts out some basketball team.

The glass backstops, so much talked of, were not used in last night's game owing to the carelessness of erection, but they will be in place by the time of the next game. A record crowd was in attendance, both the Lyceum followers and the Corby hall partisans, and they rooted hard for their respective teams.

Immediately after the tip-off Miller dropped one in giving the locals first blood, and a short time later Loos scored the second one, giving the Federals four. Thus the score stood until some admirable teamwork on the part of the visitors tied the score and a lucky shot gave them a two-point lead. Miller repeated with two more which left the athletes from South Bend two behind, but in the last few minutes of the half Kirkland scored his first basket, tying the score. The half ended 8 to 8 with Corby still surprised at the easy proposition they expected to run up against.

The first five minutes of the second period was uneventful and neither side seemed able to find the basket but finally Fitzgerald fouled and Miller broke the tie by a successful free throw. Corby now woke up and got wise to what was going on. A short time later he brought the locals' goal and after several futile tries he scored, gaining a one point lead on the Federals. Soon they followed with a couple more and things began to look dark for the Lyceums but the combination of Loos to Flaherty to Miller gave a goal and after the tip-off the same triple pass netted another one. Then Flaherty got one in from long range and soon things were again running smoothly for the locals. Blee, encouraged by his teammates' success, made the at-tempt and scored another for the Federals. A foul and two more baskets finished the scoring for the locals and a foul and another lucky basket put an end to Corby's gaining.

Miller, the star Lyceum forward, played the best game last night of all his basketball career. He was everywhere at once and his accuracy in basket shooting was what enabled the Federals to wallop the boys from Notre Dame. Flaherty and Loos showed well and the three mentioned form one of the strongest combinations working on a basketball court.

Some of the basketball teams from the smaller towns are showing class in their performances and the fact has stirred up a lot of enthusiasm in the particular towns to which they belong. Their showing has also created a lot of curiosity in Fort Wayne and patrons of the game are ready for most any sort of surprises as players unknown to the basketball public, with little opportunity for training and practice and working under handicaps that have been truly discouraging have landed into the glare of the spotlight and remained there.

Ossian has played here once and has obtained a blue of the sort of opposition it can expect. On this occasion it met the Concordia club and was defeated.

Then the men went back home and began working on the weak spots and determined after a practice or two that they could cope with Fort Wayne players and this brought a request for a game with St. Paul.

The St. Paul team will have Wambach and Gerdner working out in front, Trehr will play center and Im-scher and Scheiman will do guard duty.

As a preliminary the club will offer the St. Paul Juniors and the Trojans and the two clubs are capable of putting on a pretty scrappy sort of a curtain raiser.

Walter Kennedy will be the referee and the seats are on sale at the St. Paul auditorium, Schreyer's cigar store and the Koshling's drug store.

FULLERTON SEES STAR SECOND BASEMAN IN PHELAN—A COMING EVER.

Cub Bench Warmer Has Makings of Brilliant Infielder—His Career Almost Ruined by Bad Management.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton.)

Here is a prediction: Arthur Phelan will be one of the best infielders in America and so rated before the end of this season. Phelan was down at Fort Meyers, Fla., when he read that Manager Bresnahan was looking for a second baseman and he at once wrote to President Thomas saying:

"Don't you and Roger overlook me while casting around for a second baseman. If you get a new man be sure to get a real good one or I will be forced to beat him out of his job."

That letter is enough. Phelan has found confidence in himself and he will be the second baseman—and one of the best. Last year his case was almost a tragedy. His career came near being ruined by bad management. Phelan came to the Cubs from Cincinnati. Two months after he was with the team he remarked to me: "I've learned more baseball playing alongside Evers three weeks than I ever learned in two years at Cincinnati."

I spoke to Evers of it and he remarked: "Phelan is coming at top speed. You can see him improving. He is bound to be one of the best men in the business."

Unfortunately for Phelan O'Day got the club and Evers the can. O'Day brought with him prejudices against Phelan held over from his Cincinnati experience. It was laughable to see the Cubs scouring America for an infielder—with the best man in the business who was available sitting on their bench. Three National league managers were waiting for a chance to grab Phelan if the Cubs asked waivers—and not until the little fellow asserted himself did the management realize what they had.

OSSIAN WANTS TRY IN LOCAL CIRCLES

Another of the Small Towns

Anxious to Break Into Basket Ball.

Are the Ossian Independents of the same class in basketball circles as Zanesville and South Whitley?

This will be answered on Thursday evening of this week when the players meet the St. Paul five at St. Paul's auditorium and make their bow to the Fort Wayne public.

Some of the basketball teams from the smaller towns are showing class in their performances and the fact has stirred up a lot of enthusiasm in the particular towns to which they belong. BOSTON TEAMS ARE PICKED FOR FLAGS

Braves and Red Sox Are Likely Looking on the Early Dope.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Boston may have a world's series all to itself next fall. For the first time since Chicago enjoyed the honor of pulling off a real world's championship between its own Cubs and White Sox there is a better than even chance that another city may enjoy the same honor. The two Boston teams are favorites in their own leagues for next year's pennants.

The Red Sox are regarded as the most likely team in the American league, and the wise ones figure that the Braves should be able to repeat last year's victory in the National league. The only other city that ever has looked as if it had a chance for such an honor is Philadelphia. Three years ago, when the Phillies were making their strenuous bid for the National league leadership, it looked very much as if that city would win the flag in the two leagues, for the Athletics were then at the top of their game.

Bill Carrigan and his Red Sox are the envy of every manager in the American league. The runners-up in last year's race look like the real goods for the coming season because of the explosions which shattered the $100,000 machine of the Mackmen. The Boston men should be a little stronger, if anything, than they were last year.

While there is nothing certain in baseball, the dope at present points to the Red Sox as the likely winners of next year's pennant on last year's showing. Accidents may shatter the prospects but if Carrigan can keep his men going at the same pace they set last summer there is little doubt about the result. A slow start last spring kept the team out of the pennant last fall, for it was pretty generally conceded last September that if the Red Sox had had two weeks more they would have overtaken the Athletics, even though Connie Mack had all of his star players in the game.

Carrigan should be able to start where his team left off last fall. Owner Joe Lammie, of the Boston club, is a new man in the game, but he has shown himself a good baseball man by giving his manager every backing possible. Connie Mack last fall predicted that the pennant next year would go to the Red Sox.

The Braves, of course, are the favorites by long odds for the National league honors. Johnny Evers and his followers will be harder to beat next season than they were last because of the confidence instilled into the young players. Stallings and his Braves will need to fight quite as hard as at times to come out ahead every club in the league will be looking to beat the champions, while last season there was none of that stubborn resistance which always comes to the champions.

While it may not be quite so easy for the Braves to win in their league as it will be for the Red Sox, there is a big percentage in favor of the Braves. The Giants will hardly be as good a team as last year unless Manager McGraw makes some changes and lands fresh men for the winter speed is on the wane.

The Cubs should be a stronger team with Roger Bresnahan in the manager's position and during the fight in every game. The Pirates also should be able to make a much better showing than they did last year so that the Braves will be under heavy pressure to beat all through the season.

It is long odds that two teams will win the pennant through a season of intense interest and that the Braves and Red Sox will be the well

OFFER BIG PURSES FOR AUTO DRIVERS

Quarter of Million Probably Will Be Hung Up for Speed Demons.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—At least $200,000, conservatively estimated, will be offered in prize money this year for automobile racing, with the possibility that this amount may be increased to $400,000 before the season is out. Indianapolis, as usual, heads the list with a guaranteed cash purse of $50,000, and accessory prizes and trophies aggregating $25,000 more. The sure purses, carefully computed, seem to be as follows, in the order of their importance:

Indianapolis	$50,000
Six City	25,000
Omaha	25,000
Tacoma	15,000
Venice	15,000
Vanderbilt	10,000
Grand Prize	10,000

Los Angeles-Phoenix	10,000
Oklahoma City	10,000
Galesburg	5,000
Galveston	5,000
Uxtontown Hill climb	5,000

Total $205,000

Other purses which may be added, provided the plans of their promoters are realized, are Chicago $50,000, New York $50,000, Minneapolis $50,000, Detroit, $25,000, and Los Angeles $10,000, together with minor offerings by dirt tracks such as Kalamazoo, Peoria, Grand Rapids, etc., from $2,500 on down. Altogether the prospects are such that even the most doubting Thomas cannot refrain from entertaining the most sanguine opinion as to the future of the auto racing game.

An eight-cylinder racing car, the first of its kind, will be entered in the next Indianapolis 500-mile race May 29, if the plans of Arthur Klein, America's youngest registered driver, go through as scheduled. The car is of 870 cubic inches piston displacement, and only 1,750 pounds weight. Its estimated speed is over 110 miles an hour. A similar car, the twelve cylinder car of Jean Chas, sags, holds the world's record of 109.85 miles an hour, so that with an experienced driver like Klein, who scored second and third in the Tacoma Potlatch and Mantamarathon contests respectively, the new machine may be expected to make an excellent entrant.

Billy Carlson, first entrant in the next Indianapolis 600 mile race, is now a benedict, his bride being Miss Margaret Mazzini, daughter of an old Grandee family of Santa Ana, Cal.

Board Is Not Going to Give Up Hanna Street to Railroad.

The board of works has received with some anxiety a report that Hanna street property owners are preparing to visit the board next Friday as an indignation committee to voice a stern protest against the vacating of the crossing of their street at the Pennsylvania and Wabash railway tracks. Friday is the day fixed for the hearing of the Wabash railroad on the track elevation resolutions, as they affect that road, and for the postponed hearing of the Pennsylvania railroad on the resolutions that relate to track elevation at Lafayette and Hanna streets. Aroused by the statement that the Pennsylvania road would like to have the Hanna street crossing abandoned in order to make practicable the separation of its grade from the Wabash railroad, the Hanna street people are said to be getting ready to present themselves before the board at Friday's hearing to voice their indignation over such a proposal. The board hopes to be able before Friday to assure the property owners on Hanna street that no such proposal is before the board, that there is no purpose to consider such a proposal and that the threatened indignation meeting would be wholly useless and without point. The only matters that will be considered are the track elevation resolutions, including those that provide for grade separation at Hanna street from both the Pennsylvania and Wabash railroads. The resolutions deal with the relocation of grades made necessary by track elevation and contain no allusion even remotely to an abandonment of the Hanna street crossing. After the board has confirmed the resolutions they must go to the city council to be ratified and that body is not bound to approve the resolutions unless satisfied with them. The board of works has stated that abandonment of Hanna street is out of the question and will not be entertained, should such a proposal come formally before it.

WILL HOLD ANOTHER MEETING.

Opponents of Weisser Park Assessments to Meet in Smart School.

Another meeting of the opponents of the plan to enlarge Weisser park and to assess property owners in the southeast park district for the cost, will be held Friday night and the assembly room of James H. Smart school, on Pontiac street, will be the place. Those hostile to the plan to enlarge the park are holding much correspondence and the meeting is expected to be a very interesting one.

the improvement. George Lew president and Mayor Hosey, Frank E. Singrey, of the board of works, and Councilman Peter A. Offenloch, of the seventh ward were among those whose presence was conspicuous. When, in response to Mayor Hosey's request for an expression of sentiment, the chairman asked all those opposed to the park board's plan to raise their hands, sixty-four hands were counted. By a vote that was unanimous resolutions were adopted asking for repeal of the present park board law. Mayor Hosey made a brief address in which he said he was not presuming to advise the people of the southeast park district and would not in any wise interfere with the park board's plans if a majority of the people of the district favored them, but that if a majority did not he would go as far as he could to support public sentiment in the district. Attorney Otto E. Fuebner, one of the leaders of the opposition, addressed the meeting and said that the $3.50 average of assessments would be but a small part of what the people of the district would have finally to pay for the improvement. Mr. Offenloch and Mr. Singrey spoke briefly.

ERROR IN STATE REPORTS.

Accounting Board Reveals Figures of City Lighting Plant.

Mayor Hosey has discovered that in the fourth annual report of the department of inspection and supervision of public utilities of Indiana, commonly known as the state accounting board, an egregious blunder has crept into the figures showing the operation of the city electric light and power works. The figures in the report show that for 1912 there were earnings of $120,551.37, with an operating cost of $88,531.53, and that for 1913 there were earnings of $118,352.54 and an operating cost of $165,113.80. According to these figures there was a deficit of $46,763.26 in 1913. As a matter of fact there was a big surplus of revenues over expenses, just as there was in 1912, notwithstanding a huge expenditure for additional equipment and line extensions. Mayor Hosey will inquire how the blunder occurred. His pride in the financial prosperity of the municipal lighting plant since it was established during his administration makes him uncommonly sensitive to any misrepresentations that it has lost money.

RISING WATER WORRIES BOARD.

The rise of the rivers due to the rains and rains have renewed anxiety in the bosom of the board of works on account of the unfinished state of the Hanna street retaining wall. Until the wall is completed the water will be impossible, and a big tide in the river would probably do much damage to the Hanna street.

CRACKERJACK.

I was at the Lyon meeting last night for the first time and I think it was a crackerjack—Harry P. Fletcher, one of the proprietors of the Patterson-Fletcher Clothing Store.

One hundred and twenty-three men, actual count, attended the first men's meeting Wednesday morning at the Patterson-Fletcher clothing store, on Calhoun street.

Mr. H. H. Pitzer declared it to be the first meeting of the kind he had attended. He said it was not often that merchants had provided such convenience. However, it was worth Mr. Pitzer's while, for immediately after the meeting Loren G. Jones, of the Lyon street, purchased a new suit of clothes, and was in the selection by Mr. Pitzer.

store, wondering what was going on. Many of them stepped in to find out for themselves and did not leave until the meeting was over. Mr. Jones sang a solo, "He Will Not Let Me Fall."

Mr. Pitzer spoke for about twenty minutes on the things worth while and not worth while. The things not worth while, the speaker said, are: Laziness, dishonesty, greed and selfishness, while the things most worth while are: Industry, honesty, generosity and unselfishness.

The morning men's meeting Thursday will be held at the store of the C. C. Schlatter Hardware company, at Clinton and Columbia streets.

INSTALLED THE FIRST ARC LAMP

"Billy" Driftmeyer Tells of Beginning of Our Lighting System.

H. W. Driftmeyer, known better among his friends as "Billy" Driftmeyer, has retired from the employ of the Fort Wayne Electric works after a service of over thirty-two years. His retirement at this time is on account of a defect in hearing, which more or less interfered with his work, though he is not an old man. Mr. Driftmeyer's career as an electrician and employee of the Electric works dates from July 11, 1881, when Mr. Hicks and Mr. Jenney brought a one light Langley arc dynamo and one lamp to Fort Wayne for exhibition purposes and to sell the state rights of manufacture for Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, and Mr. Driftmeyer has the distinction of helping to install the machinery and to start up the first electric arc lamp ever seen in Fort Wayne. His connection with that industry since is synonymous to the history of the electric works in this city. The story is best told by Mr. Driftmeyer and it is as follows:

"At the time Mr. Hicks and Mr. Jenney brought the Langley dynamo and lamp to Fort Wayne, I was in the employ of the Evans, McDonald Wholesale Dry Goods and Notions company, also manufacturers of overalls and jackets. Mr. Hicks applied to the above firm for use of power to demonstrate the arc light outfit, and his request was granted. Mr. McDonald instructed Mr. John Kieess and myself to give Mr. Hicks all the help possible. As I had been the engineer at the overall plant a long time most of the work was left to me. As it did not take much pulley shifting or field adjusting, the plant was ready for private try-out on June 12th, 1881. At this time it was to some extent a private exhibition with closed doors, as information had been received to the effect that the Brush Electric Light company's agent was on the ground to stall the exhibition by serving an injunction on the Langley company for infringement of patent right. The second exhibition which was for the public was made the following week when the file records of the Fort Wayne Sentinel of July 20th, 1881, stated that about 1,500 to 2,000 people witnessed the exhibition, and that Mr. H. G. Olds, Mr. McDonald, Mr. J. P. Evans and Mr. F. A. Randall had organized a company to take over the manufacture of same. "During August I made several exhibition runs, also during fair week in September and during the dark hours of winter afternoons. After August, 1881, I had charge of the dynamo and lamp making runs for exhibition. Mr. McDonald was the moving spirit and was developing a new arc lamp and dynamo designed by Mr. Charles Jenney. The Langley lamp really was a power lamp, while the new Jenney lamp was a series lamp. The new work was done in part at the present Fort Wayne Machine company's plant and the Olds Wagon works repair shop. Mr. Charles Olds, of 1240 Washington boulevard west, was part owner of the above machine shop.

"I put in considerable extra time during the fall and winter helping develop the outfit. In the early part of 1882 a permanent shop was equipped with one 8 H.P. engine (Old Gazette engine), two lathes, one drill press and a grind stone, and the building of the first four-light dynamo and lamps of the Charles Jenney design was started. This was a vertical dynamo and was a great improvement on the former Langley machine. Mr. McDonald was getting very active at the time, hustling for purchasers and making exhibitions at Goshen, Indianapolis and Louisville, Ky. Early in June, 1882, the first paid commercial arc lamp was ready for business. When started the service was $1.00 per lamp, per night, from dark to 10:30 p. m.

"The first temporary private light plant was at Library hall, city. The plant consisted of four lights, driven by a traction engine. I put this in and ran it ten days."

"On June 26th, 1882, I took a permanent position in the shop working on everything. In September I took over the running of the dynamo and arc lamps at night, which was four lamps. I worked from September to February all day and until 12 o'clock at night, putting in forty-five days time in one month. Mr. McDonald thought that too much work and put me on a monthly pay roll in February, 1883, and I have not lost one full pay since. About this time the new shop and power house were ready at the foot of Wells street and the Nickel Plate railroad. A new ten light dynamo had been developed and was put in use at the power house, making a total of fourteen arc lamps. I had charge of the power end and testing of lamps and dynamos. "This was a busy summer. Mr. McDonald having received the contract for lighting the Louisville exposition grounds with seventy-five lamps, also Goshen, Elkhart, Peoria and Dixley & Co., at Indianapolis. The fall of 1883 I was sent to Louisville, Ky., to make a test run on dynamo and lamps, and the Jenney company received a gold medal for the apparatus. That fall I started on construction work and had charge of all exhibition work for Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Pittsburg, Chicago and other places, and also putting in new lighting plants. I followed the American Opera company, doing all stage lighting with temporary plant. I designed the first two 200 light incandescent dynamos and had only two weeks to do it. Mr. McDonald would take contracts regardless of requirements and put me many times up in the air on account of not having the dynamos, lamps and supplies, and no doubt this made me bold, for I have been on exhibition lighting contracts that I worked day and night on the grounds for forty days, and one time I was hit on the head by a wooden pulley bursting and had a private hospital right in the power plant, just to keep it going."

This period of the Jenney Arc Light manufacture was a trying time, especially up to 1887. Such poor apparatus as I had at that time, that is, the dynamo, and all the time making big jumps from South Carolina to Seattle, from Salem, Mass., to South Dakota, just to keep things going and get payments for sold apparatus or an acceptance of same. At one time I was called off a job at New London, Conn., on a hurry order. Mr. McDonald had sold at Paris, Ill., two 20-light dynamos and lamps, and all construction work. The dynamos were to be self-regulating. When the plant was finished, the dynamo was not self-regulating and some $28,000 was held up, and the Jenney company were threatened with foreclosure. Mr. McDonald met me at Toledo, Ohio, and told me his troubles and asked me what I could do to build a regulator. I got home on Friday night and worked until the next Tuesday, hardly stopping to sleep, and had the regulator on those two dynamos by Sunday night. He received the delayed payment Tuesday and left Wednesday for Indianapolis, and that night he laid out a spread at the hotel that put five of us out, remembering that we were on the go for thirty-six hours.

There were many ups and downs, some amusing and some discouraging. At one time he sold a six light arc dynamo to a nephew of Mr. Cannon, of Danville, Ill., promising Mr. Cannon that the small engine he had, which was about 1-3 h. p., would drive the dynamo, which required at least 10 h. p. Well, I got on the ground the day that they were to start the plant. There had been a big notice in the paper and excursions on the railroad to see the new light. When I saw the outfit I knew there would have to be some hustling to find power. The only thing available was three old scrap traction engines at a machine shop. I had one of them brought in and it was no good. When we got steam on the second one we found it to be the same and the third did run about forty minutes, but we did not need it any longer for most of the people were too drunk to see any light.

At another time I was at New Post, Ark., waiting for a steamboat saw-mill to arrive to place an electric light plant on it. I was waiting for a few days, the weather being disagreeable, when an officer put me under arrest as he had gone through my room and found a lot of my working tools in my grip, and thought they were burglar tools.

During the thirty years of construction work I never had an employee hurt on any job, have had no suits and only damaged one piece of apparatus, because of this saving in a trench while I was working. Under a 200 h. p. traction engine on a shaft. At this time I was field collector only and one section was sent, then I was sent to the power house.

ords. Mr. C. L. Olds is the only person now living that I came in contact with during the early days of the Jenney Electric Light company, and Mr. John Kieess, who has known me ever since I started to work. "I know that I drew the first pay from Mr. McDonald as a laborer for services in exhibiting the Langley arc apparatus. I lost three months' back pay the last time the Fort Wayne Electric works failed."

Harvey Crane, the head of the construction department, under whom Mr. Driftmeyer worked for so many years, said this morning that he was one of the best men in the force. "He is not only an expert in his line of work, but is most agreeable in a social way. He does whatever is required of him and has a way of doing it that makes one think he is carrying out instructions, though he may be far from it. His vast experience and superior knowledge of the work he performed made him a most valuable employee and the Fort Wayne Electric works' management realizes this fact."

Majestic theater this evening, when he will deliver his famous lecture, "Old Lim Jucklin." Invitations to this most excellent entertainment were issued through the pay envelope system, the same as is the earnings of the employees at the factory, and in importance it ranks second in the minds of all the employees to the cash distribution and with some was received even more joyfully. Preceding Mr. Read's lecture, there will be a musical half hour by Mrs. Edith Baillie, soprano, and Earle Thompson, baritone, which will be enjoyed by the audience. This feature will begin at 7:30 and continue until 8.

Wednesday's program opened with an address of welcome by S. F. Bowser, president of the company, and response by G. H. Reuben, of San Francisco. A. Z. Mr. Rodman and Mr. Gallwey spoke on "Store Lines"; Mr. Hance and C. M. Carpenter on "Paint Oil Line," and Mr. Evans and Mr. Walker on "Dry Cleaners' Line."

At the afternoon session, which began at 2 o'clock, S. B. Bechtel, the general manager, outlined the plans for 1915. The program for Thursday forenoon will include an address by W. G. Zahrt, assistant general manager, on "The Plans for 1915," and a repetition of the talks of Messrs. Rodman, Gallwey, Hance, C. M. Carpenter, Evans and Walker, the subject handled being considered of a great deal of importance. At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon E. J. Little, district manager of Fort Wayne, will read a paper on "The Bowser Sales Proposition." This will be followed by a lecture by Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, president of the American Institute, Philadelphia, Pa. This lecture will be followed by Dr. Krebs answering questions with a view of making his lecture more applicable to the Bowser sales.

Thursday evening will be devoted entirely to pleasure in which there will be games of various kinds and a general social time, with opportunity for interchange of reminiscences.

BIG MOVEMENT OF GRAIN.

The only railway running through Fort Wayne that is busy nowadays is the Nickel Plate, over which the last shipments of grain are passing. It comes from the elevators in Chicago and is taken to Baltimore, where it is loaded on steamers for export. It is stated that the Nickel Plate is handling this kind of freight to the limit of its power; that more would be handled were there more engines. The Pennsylvania had a solid train of grain cars for Baltimore last night, probably for export also.

HANDLING MUCH GRAIN.

The Pennsylvania is hauling an average of 100 car loads of grain through Fort Wayne per day at present. Most of the grain is sent to Baltimore, where it is loaded on steamers for export to the European countries. Occasionally the movement is heavy enough to be made up in solid trains, which run through on a schedule nearly equal to that of the passenger trains. Such a train passed through the city last night.

PUTTING UP ICE.

The summer's supply of ice for the Nickel Plate trains is being stored at Bellevue. It is estimated that 500 car loads will be put in the ice houses. The ice is being cut from the bay at Sandusky and is said to be of excellent quality.

DERANGED BY HINDU CULT, DEVOTEE BLOWS UP TEMPLE.

The Hindu Temple That Was Wrecked and (inset) Picture of Swami Trigunatita

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—Brooding madness, inspired in one of its devotees by the teachings of Oriental philosophy, recently wrecked the oldest Hindu temple in America here, took toll of his own life and injured Swami Trigunatita and a dozen women worshippers when Louis Vavra, student of the occult, exploded a bomb during the devotionals.

Surrounded chiefly by women socially prominent, whom he has converted to his teachings, Swami Trigunatita, the East Indian priest, was expounding the mysticism of Vedas when the fanatic tramped heavily down the aisle of the temple.

He had the bomb concealed under his hat, which he carried in his hand. For a moment the worshippers saw him hold aloft an object resembling a football, while the intruder grimaced at the dark-hued priest and his disciples. Then he hurled it at the feet of the Swami and a blinding flash shattered the structure, leaving his own dismembered body in the circle of injured.

The Hindu temple which was the scene of the explosion is the first to be erected in America. It was founded by the priest who was injured by the fanatic's bomb. It is minaretted, being modeled after bits from the great Taj Mahal of Agra, India; after the famous temple at Benares, and after Hindu convent, Mohammedan mosque and Christian church, in a curious architectural medley.

The operation was successful and the young man will soon be at work again.

The twenty-one boys of the senior class who were sent home Tuesday morning by Prof. Louis Ward because they wore lurid red flannel shirts and flaring white neckties returned to school Wednesday morning.

Study, who again told them they would not be permitted to wear their class colors. The matter is now a closed incident, however, the boys being only too glad to get back.

Explosive Coughs Fairly Rack You to Pieces

Foley's Honey and Tar is Just Like Oil on Troubled Waters for these Violent Racking Coughs.

They rasp and strain your throat, tear at your chest and lungs, congest the blood in your neck and head, almost strangle you, leave you weak and fairly exhausted. Often they are a symptom of such grave diseases as bronchitis, pleurisy, pneumonia—even tuberculosis.

"Oh for a bottle of FOLEY'S HONEY and TAR to stop this awful coughing."

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND spreads a healing, soothing coating as it slides down the raw inflamed throat. It loosens the cough, brings the phlegm up easily. Takes away tight feeling across the chest, and loosens the every breathing and hoarseness. A bottle of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR for you, writes: "One of my customers came to me with a very bad cough and said he was coughing so violently that he could not sleep. I sent him down and gave him a bottle of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR, and in 10 minutes he was sleeping. He had been unable to sleep for three months, due to this cough. He says FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR relieved him of this trouble."

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR, writes: "I had a very bad cough and cold and was almost puffed away. I got a bottle of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR and used it frequently, when having a very bad cough and cold and it really did me good. I am now entirely well and my cold is gone."

CORRECT POSITIONS for SOCIAL DANCERS

by ANNA PAVLOVA

MISS PAVLOVA AND HER PARTNER ILLUSTRATING THE "CLOSED POSITION"

MISS PAVLOVA AND HER PARTNER ILLUSTRATING THE "WALK AROUND POSITION"

MISS PAVLOVA AND HER PARTNER ILLUSTRATING THE "WALK AROUND POSITION"

MISS PAVLOVA AND HER PARTNER ILLUSTRATING THE "WALK AROUND POSITION"

To select the correct from the incorrect is the distinguishing sign of the good social dancer. It may be done instinctively, or through the exercise of care. But however it is accomplished, those who look on never fail to comment favorably.

The social dancer who executes steps and figures with ease, with grace and without exaggerations is the one who appears to best advantage to others; who shows respectful consideration for his partner and who deserves the utmost satisfaction from his own efforts. This is true, also, of the lady, who should at all hazards preserve her feminine dignity and attractiveness.

Is there anything more to be admired than a couple on a dancing floor that moves rhythmically with the pulsations of the music, without needless effort? I have seen such dancing, where each partner maintained an erect attitude wherever possible, and where the shoulders and arms were held quietly as they should be. I have likewise observed such a couple going through evolution after evolution with bodily ease and grace, never descending to the practices of the poor dancer by so much as the fraction of an inch.

Before starting for America this Fall I posed before the photograph camera with my partner, M. Ivan Chusheva, for several positions, the correctness of which is important to dancers. Three of these positions are "open" and two are "closed." I selected them because each one is frequently used in several of the dances now in vogue.

I want, first of all, to call attention to the pictures that are numbered one and two. They show the dancers preparing to come into a closed position, and the actual accomplishment of that position. Dancers should remember that right preparation is the greatest help to later accomplishment, and this surely is so in this instance.

So, when ready to begin a waltz, or any other dance requiring a closed position, instead of starting without definite purpose to make a beginning, each dancer should approach the other with deliberation and erect body and in strict time to the music. As the partners draw nearer and touch hands they will be enabled to assume such an attitude as is shown in photograph number one.

The second photograph presents the dancers in the closed position, and its careful scrutiny discloses some important details that are of value to good dancing. One is that the cavalier does not hold his lady too close either for appearance sake or dancing ease. In the attitude assumed by myself and my partner we are sufficiently free, in every physical way, to dance with the utmost ease and grace.

It is not always easy to assume the half-open position, as seen in photograph number three, because there are many things to be done with precise correctness. The torso must be inclined slightly yet be comparatively erect; the elevated arm, for graceful effectiveness, cannot be extended too high, nor should the feet be noticeably far apart.

Nicety of balance and bearing in other often-used open positions may be seen in the photographs numbered four and five, the former showing the beginning of the "walk around," which is used in one of the new social dances I have originated, and the latter the start of the "circular turn," performed alone by the lady with the assistance of her escort.

Social dancers who observe these details shown in the five photographs may always be sure of two things—that they will appear to advantage and that their movements may be made according to artistic principles.

DANCER BELIEVES TALENT INHERITED.

MISS GEORGENE HARVEY.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—In her own grace and conceded talent, Miss Georgene Harvey, of Berkeley, Cal., daughter of a line of distinguished ancestors, believes she has proven her contention that the ability to express art and personality through motion is inherited.

She now bids fair to eclipse in terpsichorean art her mother, known to the professional stage of this country and Europe as Clarissa, and her grandmother, Mme. N.Y. Theatrical Letter by Norman

LYDIA LOPOKOVA, IN "JUST HERSELF."

New York, Jan. 6.—Broadway welcomed a new star this week—Lydia Lopokova, Russian dancer, who has learned to be a really and truly actress, and whose name now adorns the Playhouse, blazoned in costly electric lights.

Harrison Grey, Fiske is the manager who had sufficient faith in the little dancer's capabilities to give her the necessary schooling. The play in which she is presented is called "Just Herself." The title is descriptive—the place was built for Miss Lopokova, and she has exactly embodied, of course, opportunities for her to dance. In these it must be said, she is at her best. But she is very young and very pretty, and she has plenty of opportunity to develop her beauty.

Most of it is tiresome. The costumes are two crises, badly built up, and when they are reached, the dancer is illington does some fine acting, and five-minute thrills that almost all the play's faults. Violet and Aubrey Smith give her excellent support.

The holidays have witnessed an epidemic of musical shows, one of which will undoubtedly attract quite a while in "Helen." The same writer and stage manager, Cohen, and in which he and his partner are the star performers. Back to his dancing, and he is generally well liked.

DR LYON IN FIRST AFTERNOON MEETING

Fort Wayne, also will be here. Ministers within a radius of fifty miles of Fort Wayne are invited to attend, the services of the conference being to glorify the revival spirit in this section.

Friday night a delegation from the city will attend the Lyon meeting at the tabernacle, 1123 West Wayne street, 1123 West Wayne street, 1123 West Wayne street.

day at the Pennsylvania round house, fifty-seven men being present. Mr. Bristow spoke and Mr. Upson sang and played. Weekly meetings will be held here every Wednesday between 12:30 and 1 o'clock.

A song service is held every noon at the Fort Wayne Electric works. A piano has been donated by the Packard company for the use of the men.

Indifferent Members Scored.
Indifferent church members were given a scorching Tuesday evening by Dr. Lyon on the third night of the tabernacle meetings. He said there was little difference today between the conduct of the church member and the non-church member.

The evangelist also attacked various methods adopted by many churches to raise money. "You never knew of a person in your life won to Christ by a lottery game, bazar or an ice cream social," he said. "Wednesday night Dr. Lyon will give a series of sermons on the commandments."

"I am going to begin to hammer hard tomorrow," the evangelist announced Tuesday evening. "I serve notice now."

Total Collection.
The collection Tuesday night amounted to $106.48 as follows:

Stew	244	$ 2.44
Nickels	387	18.35
Dimes	520	52.00
Quarters	323	8.08
Half-dollars	5	2.50
Dollars	3	3.00
Checks	1	20.00
Totals	1,170	$106.48

The total collection since the meetings started Sunday morning is $1,379.81. Another wonderful song service under the direction of Mr. Jones will begin Tuesday evening. As usual the preachers, moonbeams and sunbeams and others were asked to sing alone. Mr. Jones announced that on Wednesday night he would ask the reporters at the press table to sing alone.

Delegation From Decatur.
A delegation of sixty people came over from Decatur in a special car and occupied seats reserved for them near the front. The ministers who accompanied the delegation were: J. H. Killing, Evangelical church; D. T. Stephenson, Methodist Episcopal; T. H. Harman, United Brethren; W. H. Gleiser, Presbyterian; and Floyd Rogers, Baptist.

A tabernacle meeting is soon to start in Decatur under the leadership of Evangelist Honeywell, whom Dr. Lyon said he knew very well. Mr. Jones asked the delegation to stand so that everyone in the tabernacle could see them, which they did, amid applause. Then he asked them what song would they like to have sung and somebody suggested "Tell Us." Mr. Jones asked the married folks to sing. Then he asked all folks who wanted to be married to sing alone. At first there was a man and woman who sang a few lines but soon lost their nerve and did not finish.

The opening prayer was given by Rev. W. H. Gleiser, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Decatur and president of the minister's alliance at that place. He asked that the meetings may cause men to see life as they have not seen it before and to cause them to hear a voice they have never heard before. He asked for a great blessing in Fort Wayne during the next six weeks.

One of the features of the meeting Tuesday night was the special number by the choir consisting of about 600 voices entitled, "All Hail Immanuel." The big tabernacle was made to ring and there was tremendous applause.

Song Written by a Reporter.

Following the scripture reading by Dr. Lyon Mr. Jones sang as a solo: "Because His Name is Jesus." Mr. Jones explained that the words to the song were written by a newspaper reporter who had been an infidel. He had reported a series of revival meetings and had rejected the appeal of the evangelist to the last. The next day after the close of the meetings his body was found, death having come to him suddenly and without warning, and on his person was found the words which E. O. Exell has since set to music.

Dr. Lyon again lauded the newspapers of the city. He spoke of the editorials that had appeared in regard to the meetings and urged the people to send the papers broadcast over the country.

Quarter Night.
While dime night was observed Tuesday night Dr. Lyon announced that Wednesday night would be quarter night. He said that there was about an average of one out of every five or six who attended Monday night's meeting who had contributed. The evangelist noticed that the boys seated in the front rows were contributing and congratulated them for doing so.

He announced that there had been good reports from the various morning prayer meetings. He asked that these meetings not be held over half an hour. "When you pass a house where a prayer meeting is being held, don't stop to knock either before or after you get in," he urged.

The New, Old Christianity.
Dr. Lyon spoke Tuesday night on the subject of "The New, Old Christianity," pronounced by many as the best sermon he has delivered since the meetings began. At times the evangelist would almost fall to the floor in emphasizing a point and the next moment was leaping high into the air.

The evangelist said that there are many society women who will rave about a meeting of this kind because there might be some excitement, who will work herself into a frenzy over a game of five hundred, bridge or rum.

"I have just as much respect for the gambler in the slum as I have for the gambler in the parlor," he added. He said he would like to see as much enthusiasm in the churches as there is in the slums. He said that he would like to see as much enthusiasm in the churches as there is in the slums. He said that he would like to see as much enthusiasm in the churches as there is in the slums.

ligion of Jesus Christ and the Apostle Paul.

"We are on the eve of the greatest religious awakening the world has ever known," he said. Following a dramatic close of his sermon the congregation was asked to sing "Rescue the Perishing."

Personal Workers' Meeting.
Following the regular meeting the personal workers gathered in the front of the tabernacle for a conference with Dr. Lyon. Between 500 and 600 remained. Dr. Lyon said that the success of the campaign does not depend so much on the preaching or the singing as it does in the personal work. He urged every Christian to learn how to do personal work. When he asked how many had been led to Christ by a personal worker practically every hand went up.

Cards on which the names of those from whom the worker is to pray were distributed. On the cards is printed the following: "I covenant to pray at least once a day by name and labor for the following persons that they may be saved before our union campaign closes." The evangelist urged that both sides of the cards be filled. Personal workers' meetings will be held every other night. The personal workers were also urged to get a copy of a little book entitled, "Without Excuse," which answers almost every argument that may be presented for not making a public decision for Christ.

Led by a Girl.
There were four persons in attendance at a prayer meeting Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Nancy Hill, residing on Lillie street. Miss Helen Swaim, 15 years old, led the service. Each of the four persons in attendance took part.

Great preparations are being made for the boys' and girls' meeting Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the tabernacle. Mr. Jones has promised to perform a number of tricks, being a magician as well as a musician.

Good Street Car Service.
Splendid street car service is being provided by the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company. To facilitate matters two men have been stationed outside of the tabernacle at the close of the meetings to announce the different cars.

New features will be added from time to time to make the meetings more interesting and to provide something different. Dr. Lyon is not a quitter and is a hard worker. As a matter of fact he seems to grow in strength as the meetings progress. While he is a worker, he expects others to work as well. Every Christian has something to do. When things are not moving along just as he believes they should, he doesn't hesitate to criticize and try and remedy the trouble.

Frequent meetings are to be held with the executive committee, at which time matters pertaining to the meetings will be discussed at length.

Boys' Meeting.
The boys of Fort Wayne have caught the revival spirit. Tuesday afternoon the boys began coming to the tabernacle as early as 3 o'clock. The call had been made through the daily press and announcements made in the various churches and from the tabernacle pulpit last Sunday that boys would be needed to put out ten thousand door-knocker advertisements for Dr. Lyon's sermons on January 8, 7 and 8. Clifford Hutchison, chairman of the distributing section of the publicity committee, had charge of the distribution to the boys of the hangers. He had originally divided the city into fifteen sections and had thought that he might have trouble in having that many boys respond. Instead of not having enough boys, it became a question of knowing what to do with the boys who came. By actual count by Rev. Edward H. Clifford, of the East Creighton Avenue Church of Christ, who assisted Mr. Hutchison, there were over seventy boys who came to the big tabernacle.

Car Fare Refused.
Mr. Hutchison suggested to the boys that he would pay their car fare to their respective districts. This suggestion was disdainfully refused. "No," said one boy, "we've got legs and we can walk." The first boy was started at 3:15 and the last boy left at 4:45. Some of the boys were newsworthy and had to sell their papers before going to their districts.

The suggestion was made by a member of the Lyon party present in the tabernacle to the boy to whom was assigned Lake avenue, the street upon which the Lyon residence is located, that he not only hang the door knob hanger, but that he open the door and give an invitation to the party to attend the meeting tonight.

Occupied Reserved Seats.
The "door knob hangers" not the pieces of cardboard with the faces for the door knobs, but the boys who did the "hanging," occupied reserved seats in the front section directly in front of the pulpit. Just before the sermon Dr. Lyon made reference to the boys and their work.

Names of Boys.
The boys who aided in distributing the door knob hangers, and who were present last night were: Alton Woods, Edwin Kircher, Herman Cox, Robert Nipper, Clair Bennett, Oscar Watts, Paul Troub, Hugh Kiefer, Thurlie Whirlidge, Ellsworth Burnside, Fletcher Green, Emil Green, Paul Eckenbarger, Fred Ransbottom, Kenneth George, Edward Walck, Glenn Burchard, Ernest Green, John Crane, Carl Dutton, Cyril Culp, Edward Siebold and Fred Chapman.

Women's Meeting.
Mrs. Barr and Mrs. Jones met with a large committee of ladies at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday afternoon, to arrange for the women's work of the city.

The following are the women chosen as chairman of the various departments and they will select their helpers from the church women: President, Mrs. Thibodeau; secretary, Mrs. Jacobs; chairman of committees, parlor meetings, Mrs. E. J. Evans; store, Mrs. B. P. Moorman; factory, Mrs. A. H. Perfect; Thursday, Mrs. J. R. Meriwether; and Mrs. Wagner; transportation, Mrs. Jacobs; music, Mrs. Staphord; professional, Dr. Calvin. Another meeting will be held on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

there is widespread discontent with the present system and that a majority of the people of the state favor a law equalizing assessments on personal property.

The so-called Stotsenberg constitutional amendment, which authorizes classification of property for assessment, will be up for consideration. This measure provides for the abolition of the general property tax as the foundation of the state's taxing powers. In the event of its approval by the coming legislature it will go to the people for ratification. It was passed by the 1913 legislature.

Equitable distribution of taxes is the primary object of all agitation for tax reform say leaders in the propaganda. It is argued that under the present system that the tendency has been for investors to buy exempted municipal securities and thereby escape the payment of taxes on tangible property.

Many eminent men and people of distinction all over the country were present at the funeral services of Rector Schick, whose demise occurred Sunday morning. Dan, of St. Louis, delivered a sermon in the German and English languages, respectively. Each minister paid due tribute to the man for whom the services were being held and told in brief words the many accomplishments he attained during his life. COLORED CLUB IS RAIDED BY POLICE

Rich Brown and Two Score Patrons Thrown Into a Panic by Cops.

The city court Wednesday morning resembled a stated meeting of the Major G. Will Wilson Afro-American Republican club. Rich Brown, manager of the Eclipse Athletic club, on Calhoun street, and more than a score of his patrons who were present when Captain Richard Kelly and a squad of police raided the place at 10:30 Tuesday night, were present along with another score of interested colored friends. Brown was charged in two affidavits with selling liquor without a license and with keeping a place where liquors were sold in violation of the law. Brown's attorney, Frank A. Emrick, secured a continuance until Friday morning and Brown's bond was fixed at $300 for each charge. Jim Stewart, Joe Alsop, Harry Murray, Charles Watson and Charles J. Morgan, negroes, were held under bond of $25 each as witnesses. A dozen other men and half a dozen women, all colored, who were caught in the raid, were booked as witnesses, but were allowed to go on their promise to be present Friday morning. The Eclipse Athletic club was thronged with colored folk when the raid came off. Upstairs and downstairs the rooms were a scene of animation. Beer and whisky were being swilled and the officers seized some of both as evidence. Twenty-three colored men and women were corralled by the officers, but not all of whom were present when the police arrived were gathered in. From a second story window half a score of men leaped to the roof of a shed in the rear and thence to the ground, making their escape. The place has been under police surveillance for some time under suspicion that an illegal traffic in drinks was going on under the guise of a club. Brown was called to the police headquarters some days ago and questioned by Chief Lenz, who told the negro that his club could not run. The order was not obeyed and the raid was the consequence. The Crescent club occupies the rooms formerly used by the Macelline inn, a restaurant for colored people, on Calhoun street, just south of Grand.

Other City Court Cases.
Ed Mulcahy, who came here from Angola and got pickled, was locked up for another day to get him sober.

John O'Neal, held for loitering, is believed to be demented and his case was continued until the 12th inst.

Stephen Dunn, a magazine solicitor, who was down and out when the police found him, was turned loose.

TAKEN TO SOUTH BEND.
John P. Cox, the young insurance agent who was arrested Tuesday by Detective Sergeants Pappert and Spillner, was taken to South Bend Wednesday morning by an officer from this place. He is wanted there for forgery. Cox recently came here from South Bend.

Woman May Have Been Assaulted.
Eugene Cook was sent to jail in default of $100 bond to await appearance for trial Saturday morning on a drunk charge, and meanwhile the police will try to ascertain if he did not commit an assault on Bertha Evans, aged 34, who was found at 10 o'clock Tuesday night suffering from a badly fractured hip at 441 East Berry street. A call was sent to the station for the patrol wagon to take an injured woman to the hospital, but the patrol wagon did not arrive until the time Evans' condition became serious and Randall Evans, her husband, called a doctor to attend to her.

Widow of Fels Will Continue His Work

Mrs. Joseph Fels

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 6.—The work of Joseph Fels, single-tax advocate, did not end with his death. Mrs. Mary Fels, who shared her husband's social interests during his life, but kept always in the background, has taken his place and she will carry on his plans for the betterment of social conditions.

Mrs. Fels is now making an extended tour in the west in the interests of the single-tax doctrine.

Every available fireman that could be spared was called on to help. Fire Commissioner Adamson, who resumed personal charge of the situation, sent men scurrying throughout the city with orders to bring every pulmotor available to the scene.

Congestion, the like of which the city has seldom seen, prevailed at almost every subway station. At the Brooklyn bridge the Manhattan entrance was choked by tens of thousands. For fifty minutes detachments of police reserves struggled with the crowds there before order could be restored. Elevated trains and surface cars were packed to overflowing all over the city with the throngs that were turned away from the subway.

Sixty persons were taken in an unconscious condition from the scene of the fire to the Flower hospital. Other hospitals received many victims, as well. Ventilator gratings were taken up from the sidewalks around the Fiftieth and Fifty-ninth street stations and many of the injured were removed in this manner.

Fire Commissioner Adamson received reports from battalion chiefs to the effect that the fire was confined to two subway cars, that several persons had been killed and a great many injured and overcome.

Through Blinding Smoke. All manhole covers were removed as well as the gratings. In the openings thus made firemen placed their hose. Other squads of firemen crawled down through the blinding smoke that poured from the tunnel and worked in relays. Through the smoke that rolled up from the manholes could be seen the red flames below.

The fire started in a train between the 50th and 59th street stations. Some of the hundreds of passengers wedged tight in the cars said afterwards that it started with an explosion and that the train came almost immediately to a standstill. Aboard the train there was a frantic rush for the end of the cars.

this one exception, none had been fatally injured.

Due to Collision.

Unofficial reports gave the cause of the fire as a collision between express trains. At the time of the fire the subway contained smoke from a previous fire, extinguished only a few minutes before at the Spring street station.

It was shortly before 9:30 o'clock that wisps of smoke began to curl from the manholes along Broadway between the two stations. The spot where the fire burned fiercest was opposite Fifty-sixth street. Hampered in their efforts to reach the blaze the firemen dug into the pavement with their axes. They succeeded in making a hole above the subway at 53rd street.

Flames From a Crater.

From this opening belched a volume of smoke and flames as if from a crater. Hose was directed through the opening and even hand extinguishers were used.

For ten blocks the streets were lined with the ambulances that came from all over the city. A cordon thrown around Broadway by the police held in check tens of thousands of spectators.

The transportation tie up resulting from the fire spread to the Bronx and to Brooklyn and tens of thousands of persons struggled at elevated railway and subway stations in these boroughs in an effort to reach Manhattan.

Beginning the Rescue.

As the fire began to cool long streams of firemen, each carrying in his arms an unconscious victim, entered the two stations. They were taken to the outer air and the firemen went back for more.

Baffled in attempts to reach the victims who lay close to the burning cars, Inspector Egan of the bureau of combustibles, dispatched messengers by automobiles for dynamite. He said that he would use this, if necessary to rip up the streets and thus afford the firemen an entrance through which they could work unhindered.

For the first time in the history of the fire department a special alarm called out firemen and battalion chiefs without apparatus to fight the flames and care for the injured.

It Came Suddenly.

The early tie up was sudden. Trains came slowly to a standstill and remained stationary, some of them between stations. Smoke from burning insulation at the Spring street station filled the subway for blocks. A mile away the fumes affected throngs of passengers who crowded the station platforms.

All along the line the sale of tickets was stopped. Surface cars and elevator trains were badly congested and all subway stations were filled to overflowing with struggling crowds. Many persons, imprisoned on trains stalled between stations were overcome by smoke, and taken out unconscious, by the police.

The tie up started at 8 o'clock this morning, the beginning of the rush hour. An hour and a half later a slow express service was started, only to be halted by the discovery of fire. Three alarms were turned in. Eight ambulances were sent to the scene. More were called for immediately.

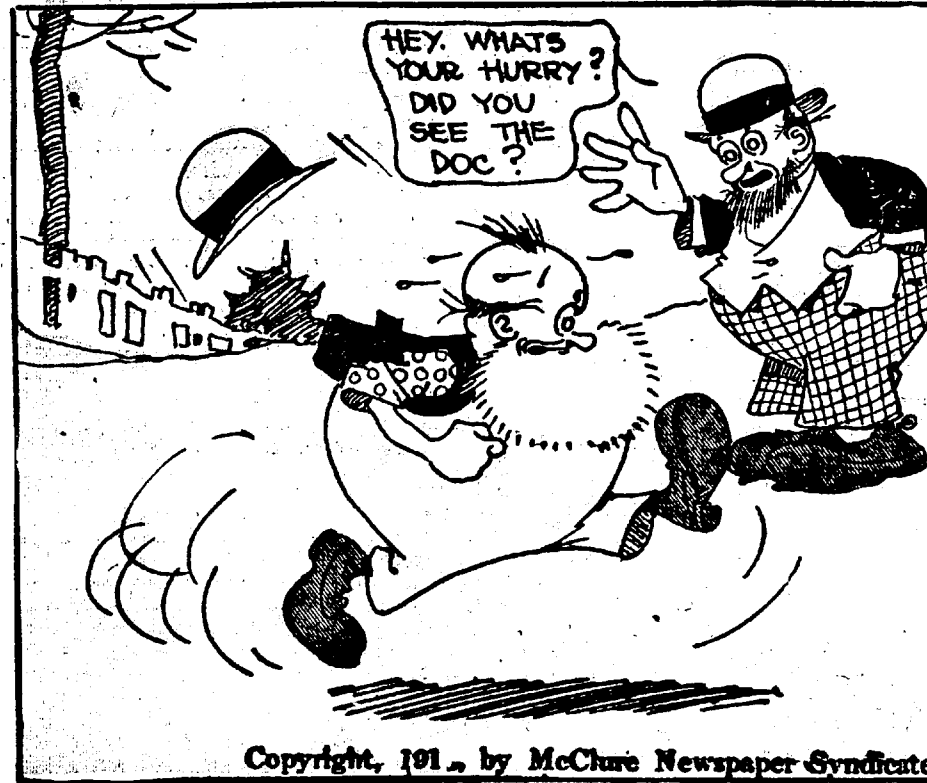

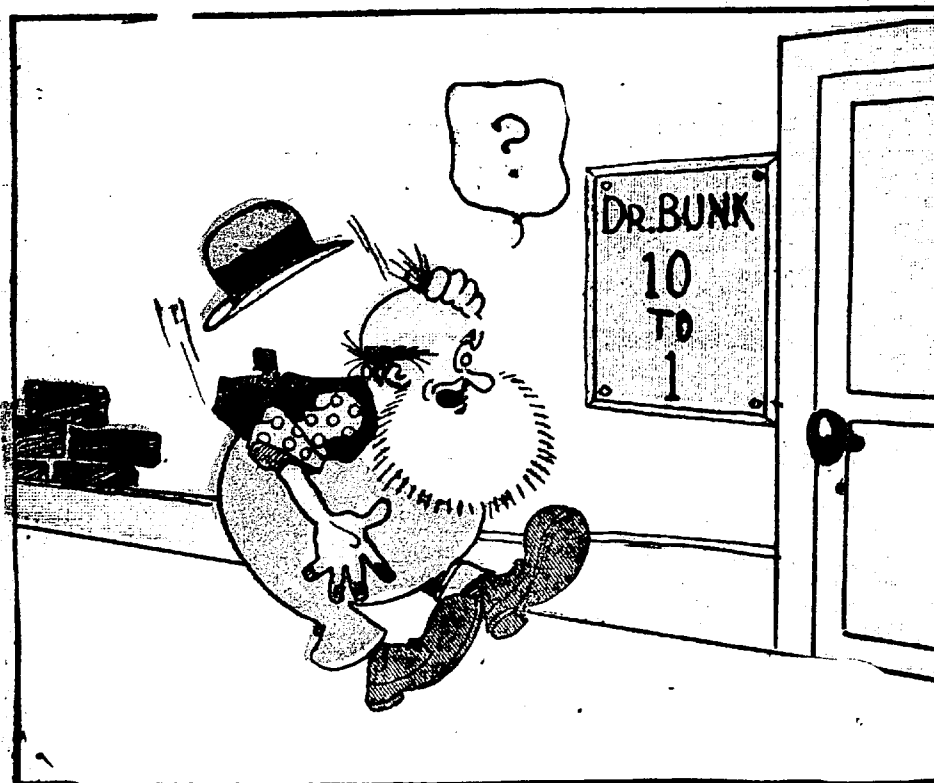

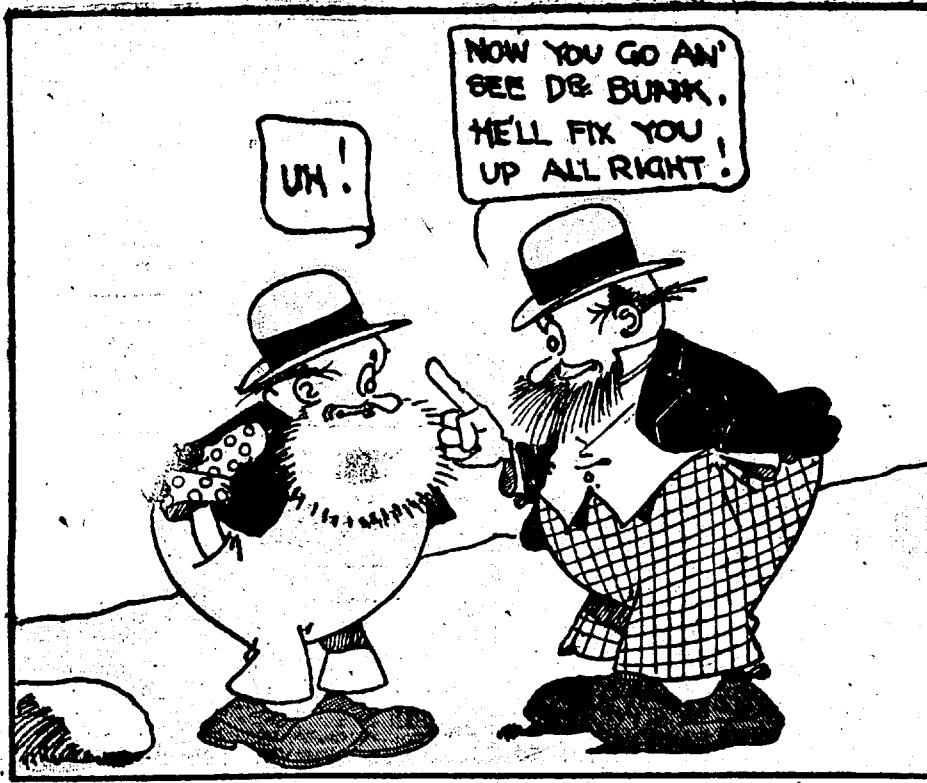

Carry Out Victims.

From trains stalled between stations firemen emerged bearing unconscious

Judges of the California appellate court, of superior courts and Chief of Police Sebastian have heartily endorsed the creation of this new tribunal and the appointment of Mrs. Bullock as unofficial magistrate.

Both Judge White and Mrs. Bullock expect this court to be a great aid in securing a justice that does not affront humane considerations in connection with the cases of women and juveniles charged with misdemeanors. One of the most prolific sources of confirmed criminality, they point out, is the practice of compelling women defendants to face a crowd of morbidly curious men in the courtroom, there to reveal their lapse if guilty, or to be ogled and looked at askance if innocent.

Mrs. Bullock is a graduate of the University of Southern California law school and has practiced in criminal courts extensively.

SOME FLASHES FROM DR. LYON'S SERMONS

Many people in our churches don't think it is dignified to be enthusiastic, but they'll have plenty of time to be dignified after they are dead.

If a preacher can't put snap into his preaching let him go over in the corner and sit down.

I have often thought how much good some people would do if they would just wake up.

I have just as much respect for a gambler in the slums as I have for the gambler in the parlor.

Many a society woman will rave about a meeting of this kind because of the excitement who will work herself into an awful frenzy over a game of five hundred, bridge or rum.

Many a first class business man is only a fourth class Christian.

The greatest need of the church today is a baptism of enthusiasm.

As soon as a church is a mutual admiration society it had better nail up its door.

If the devil is dead he has left a lot of orphans.

There never was a time when the church was so rich and so stingy as now.

Being a Christian is like riding a bicycle, you have to keep going on or you'll soon be going off.

he is now engaged in a series of meetings in Lima, Ohio.

The sand was placed on a space eight by ten feet square at the center of the front of the balcony where it would naturally cause the greatest strain.

OTHERS WILL STAY IN RACE

Rivals of Bedwell for the Speakership Deny That They Will Retire.

REPUBLICANS TO NAME WARSAW MAN

Much Interest Centering About House Caucuses at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—There was great interest today in the democratic house caucus which meets tonight when a candidate for speaker will be named. There are already rumors that Charles H. Bedwell, of Sullivan, who has the indorsement of Governor Ralston, would not have any opposition when the caucus met, but the other candidates, Mason J. Niblack, of Vincennes, John C. Branamann, of Brownstown, and Fred L. Feick, of Garrett, said they were in the race.

Also Wants Vindication. Since the election of Wade Free as secretary of the senate was claimed to be a vindication of him, Niblack's friends were urging his nomination for speaker on the same ground, as he was one of those indicted by the Marion county grand jury.

There was one rumor that Branamann would withdraw from the race and be made floor leader of the house. This was denied, however, by the Brownstown candidate.

The republican members of both houses will also hold separate caucuses tonight. Jesse Eschbach, of Warsaw, will be selected the republican candidate for speaker, and Senator Arthur R.

LODGE IN ATTACK ON MEXICAN POLICY

Says Error Began With Refusal to Recognize Gen. Huerta.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Senator Lodge attacked President Wilson's Mexican policy in the senate today during a review of the urgent deficiency bill. The error of the administration's course, he said, had begun with the refusal to recognize Gen. Huerta on moral ground, rather than on broader international ground which is could have been based.

"The spectacle of the United States at war with Victoriano Huerta," said Senator Lodge, "was not a pleasing one for Americans to contemplate."

Of the occupation of Vera Cruz Senator Lodge said he had been told the president's agents had advised him there would be no resistance. When it came, he added, "the administration didn't seem to have much stomach for the unexpected fight and took shelter beneath the A. B. C. mediation."

With the departure of Huerta, Senator Lodge said the object of the president had been accomplished, but the policy of the United States had not advanced one step.

FLEMING WILL DINE DEMOCRATIC SOLONS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 6.—Senator Stephen B. Fleming, of Fort Wayne, will give a dinner tonight for the democratic members of the legislature at the Claypool hotel. Plates will be laid for 110 persons. Governor Ralston and Lieut. Gov. O'Neill have also been invited.

Senator Fleming says the dinner has no political significance and that no legislative plans will be discussed. There are no set speeches on the program, but it is expected Governor Ralston will be called on for a brief address.

SAYS NORTH SHOULD CLEAN UP AT HOME

Washington, Jan. 6.—Dr. A. J. McKelway, southern secretary of the national child labor committee, and David Clark, a Charlotte, N. C. editor, had a lively clash in today's session of the 11th annual conference on child labor. Clark declared that until northern states had cleaned up their back rooms, gambling and vice dens and Sunday theaters they had no right to complain that children under 13 years were permitted to work in cotton mills.

"Plainly speaking, it is none of their business," said he, referring to complaints from Massachusetts and New York. He charged representatives of the committee with misrepresenting facts in the south, declared against national child labor legislation and urged the delegates to clean up affairs in their home state before taking part in the affairs of others.

Passengers in Wild Panic to Escape Suffocation as Rescuers Come.

New York, Jan. 6.—More than 100 persons were overcome by smoke, cut by flying glass, bruised and otherwise injured in a fire aboard a train in the subway at the height of the rush hours this morning.

In the panic and confusion which ensued police headquarters issued a report that twelve persons had lost their lives, but this later proved to be unfounded, and only one known death was recorded.

The entire fire fighting force of Manhattan, every ambulance in the borough and every policeman that could be found were brought to the scene.

The fact that scores of persons were unconscious led to the early report that many had been killed. Later Police Commissioner Woods and Fire Chief Kenlon announced that so far as they knew there had been no fatalities.

A surgeon attached to the Polyclinic hospital reported that one injured woman had died in an ambulance on her way to the hospital. Two hundred persons in all were taken to the Polyclinic, the surgeon said but as far as he knew, with

Germans Appear to Have Checked the Advance of French Forces in Upper Alsace.

London, Jan. 6.—(12:30 p. m.)—The crushing blow the Russians appear to have dealt the Turks in the Caucasus, and the further advance of the French in Alsace on the road to Muehhausen, continue to hold the foreground in the war news today in the absence of any other important development east or west.

It is felt in England that the reported rout of the Turkish invaders of the Caucasus, with the defeat of their plan to seize the Russian fortress at Kars, gives the Ottoman forces such a set back that the much discussed invasion of Egypt is now virtually out of the question.

Petrograd reports that the Turkish army defeated at Ardahan (40 miles northwest of Kars,) which is distinct from the forces reported to have been crushed or captured at Sari Kumysh, was today completely surrounded and being harassed by Russian cavalry and "doomed to inevitable extermination."

While there has been virtually no change to the west of Warsaw it is the opinion of British observers of events that the Russian general staff is giving many indications of an intention to strike a heavy blow in Hungary.

BLOW UP GERMAN TRENCHES.

French Use Mine as Preliminary to Sharp Attack.

Paris, Jan. 6.—(2:40 p. m.)—An official statement was given out in Paris this afternoon as follows: "In Belgium the enemy delivered, but without success, two attacks in the region of the Dunes and to the southeast of St. Georges."

"On the rest of the route to the north of the Lys and from the Lys to the Oise there has been nothing except artillery fighting."

"In the valley of the Aisne and in the sector of Rheims our batteries gained the upper hand over those of the enemy, reducing them to silence. At a point northwest of Rheims it is reported that a certain of our troops have made an advance of about 100 yards."

"In the Argonne there developed a very spirited action which permitted us to retake 300 yards of trenches in the forest of La Grurie at the same place where there was recently a slight giving way, as previously reported. From Baginella and from Fontaine Madame there were delivered two violent German attacks, each of which was repulsed. A complete German regiment was engaged in each movement."

"Near the mine of Courtois Chaussee we blew up by exploding a mine 800 yards of German trenches, half of which we subsequently occupied."

SAY FRENCH KILL THEIR OWN.

Seem Indifferent in Bombardment, is Berlin Statement.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—The German military authorities today gave out a statement on the progress of the war as follows:

"In the western area of the war the French continued yesterday their systematic bombardment of villages situated behind our front. They seem indifferent to the killing of their own countrymen and to the destruction of French homes. In any event this bombardment causes us very little trouble."

"At Souain and in the forest of Argonne we captured several of the enemy's trenches and made prisoners of two officers and 200 men."

"The French again obtained a foothold early yesterday on the much fought for height west of Sonnenheim (Cernay) in upper Alsace, but they were again driven off after a strong bayonet attack. They have not dared to attempt further advances. Fifty Alpine Chasseurs were taken prisoners by us."

SALOON MAN AND BARTENDER HELD

Sullivan, Ind., Jan. 6.—Walker Wilson, whose saloon was among several destroyed by dynamite at Hymers near here recently and George Halberstadt his bartender, are held in jail here in separate cells and it is believed the latter has given the authorities important evidence concerning the dynamiting.

The men were arrested following the holding of a court of inquiry at Hymers and which Halberstadt testified, and he was spirited to jail here because of fear of a hostile demonstration at Hymers. The specific charge against the men is that they burned the Wilson saloon.

Oregon, Ill., Jan. 6.—Fleeing under cover of darkness from the little fishing shack on an island in the Rock river where they had defied efforts of deputy sheriffs to dislodge them, Joseph Boyer, said to be a parole convict, and a man said to be his brother-in-law, Harry Sniffler, today were pursued into a six thousand acre forest south of the river.

The two men were armed and in capturing had driven the officers from the island with threats to shoot if an attempt was made to arrest them.

MRS. LOREN Q. JONES

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY—FLEMISH GIRLS HAVE GERMAN SOLDIERS FOR PARTNERS AT CARDS.

WHILE A PRISONER IN A BELGIAN HOME NEAR ROULERS, I WATCH GERMAN SOLDIERS PLAY CARDS WITH BELGIAN GIRLS. BY C. LEROY BALDRIDGE.

While at the front near Roulers I was made prisoner and sent back under guard to Thiel for examination. I sketched the above scene under the eye of a sentry. The soldiers understood no Flemish and the girls no German, but that didn't interfere with card games which they taught each other. By the stove sat an old woman who had two sons with the Belgian troops. One of the girls also had a brother fighting. Sometimes she would sit silently at her cards and, when reproached by her German partner for inactivity, would say that she was thinking about her brother.

VERY RETICENT AS TO A CONFERENCE

Military Preparedness is Discussed at Home of Garrison.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Members of the cabinet and leaders in congress were reticent today concerning the details of the conference at Secretary Garrison's home last night in which they participated when military preparedness of the United States was discussed. While all of those present had been enjoined to refrain from discussing what transpired at the conference it was declared no definite conclusions had been reached.

Plans for co-operation between the executive and legislative departments on military and naval affairs, with particular reference to appropriations for the coming year and the carrying out of a general policy for increasing the efficiency of the military arm of the government were considered. A participant said that while no definite plans had been agreed upon those present were unanimous that every possible effort should be made in congress to bring the army and navy up to the highest standard of efficiency that could be produced with the resources available. The financial condition of the government was discussed according to Senator Chamberlain, who added that no proposals were offered for radical or extraordinary changes in the military or naval forces. The condition of both having been considered generally satisfactory. He said it was the understanding that the bills he had introduced in the senate affecting the navy establishment would be pressed.

MACHINE POLITICS GIVEN A DRUBBING

T. F. Thieme at Washington Attacks the Proposed Amendments.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Theodore F. Thieme, president and general manager of the Fort Wayne Knitting mills, was the principal speaker before the national conference on popular government, yesterday afternoon. He discussed the proposed amendments to the Indiana constitution.

Mr. Thieme suggested that Indiana was in a close race with Pennsylvania and New York for last place on the line of progress as to popular government. He showed the situation that is now confronting the voters of Indiana. The legislature of 1911 usurped, through its political machine, the right of the people to make a new constitution, and the document consisting of a series of twenty amendments was given the title of "Tom Marshall's constitution."

People Lose Their Rights. "The supreme court of the state and of the United States," said Mr. Thieme, "declared the document unconstitutional because it deprived the people of their inalienable right to frame their own constitution. The writers of this 'Tom Marshall constitution' thereupon prepared a series of twenty-two amendments which were passed by the legislature of 1913 and will be again submitted to the legislature of 1915. These twenty-two amendments are practically the Marshall constitution, only worse."

"The people will be asked now to give the legislature the authority to frame twenty-two amendments which the supreme court decided the legislature could not do. The political machine is going over the head of the supreme court and asks the people to give them a power which the supreme court has held belonged to the people. The same political combination submitted a constitutional convention bill, which was linked up with the $2,000,000 centennial appropriation bill and, during the campaign, last November, the convention bill was attacked by the combined forces of the public utilities and of liquor interests and defeated. The bill had no opportunity—no fair trial; it was a fraud and a part of the conspiracy to defraud the people of their right to make a constitution."

"These twenty-two amendments are vicious reactionary, a conspiracy against the people and should be rejected as a whole."

Branch, N. Y., is annoyed because purveyors have taken to invading the village streets in numbers.

FEAR TO ANNOUNCE MADE IN U.S.A. GOODS

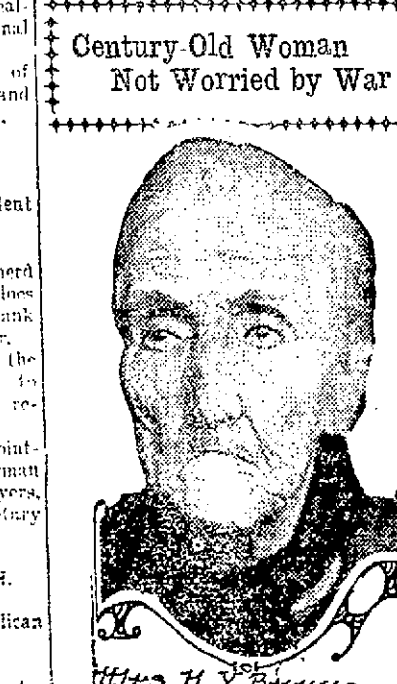

Pittsburg, Jan. 6.—The "Made in America" exhibit, to have been held in Carnegie institute here, has been cancelled by the art society of Pittsburg, its sponsor, because, it was declared, American manufacturers feared to let the country know their wares were made in the United States.

The small number of articles presented for exhibition caused the society to seek the reason and brought from one of the important manufacturers the admission that he did not wish the fact spread abroad that his products were not made in Europe because of the "popular, though erroneous impression that European manufactures are superior."

Other manufacturers are said to have taken the same view.

Mohammedanism is the recognized religion of the Turkish race, and the Sultan as caliph, is the supreme head. Over 2,000 mosques are provided for worship.

Century Old Woman Not Worried by War

Mrs. H. Y. Burns.

Houston, Tex., Jan. 5.—Mrs. Narcissa Varbough Burns of Houston isn't much impressed by the world-war. War is commonplace to her—she has seen 108 years of it.

When the aged woman was a child the United States and England fought the war of 1812; as a pioneer in Texas she saw many border battles; she saw the civil war and the war with Mexico. "I have seen many wars," declares Mrs. Burns, "but I never expected to see anything like this terrible war in Europe."

TRACTION COMPANY TO RUN SPECIAL CAR

Delegation Going to Indianapolis to Hear President Wilson.

For the accommodation of Fort Wayne citizens who wish to hear President Woodrow Wilson at Indianapolis, Friday, a special car will be run over the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company's line leaving the station promptly at 7 o'clock, Friday morning. The car will go through to Indianapolis without stopping, taking four hours for the trip.

The car will leave the terminal station at Indianapolis at 5:30 Friday evening, after the president has completed his address. The rate will be $3.40 for the round trip. A committee of local democrats were informed Tuesday afternoon that one of the company's newest cars would be placed at the disposal of the Fort Wayne contingent.

Those desiring to go can make reservations by calling upon E. G. Hoffman or E. C. Miller.

KILLS WIFE; SHOOT BOARDER, THEN SELF

Boarders at the same house were unable to assign any cause for the shooting. All three bodies were found lying on the floor of the room.

DEADLOCK IN PROSPECT. Wet and Dry Issue Stumbling Block in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—With the wet and dry issue the stumbling block to harmony the 49th general assembly promised a speakership deadlock in the house and a bitter fight between the republicans and democrats for the organization of the senate.

TWO CARS SIDESWIPE CAUSING ACCIDENT

As a result of a limited car on the Bluffton division of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company sideswiped a local car standing on the siding at Yoder, the vestibules of both cars were smashed about 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Officials of the company say that the local car did not get onto the siding far enough. The traction car was in charge of Motorman Armstrong and Conductor Shideler and the local car was in charge of Motorman Gallagher and Conductor Lanco. Fred Clump, a passenger on the limited car, suffered two broken ribs and had to be taken to the Hope hospital. The other passengers were badly shaken and frightened.

Misses Nellie and Florence Bryant who have been students in the University of Berlin, Germany, for four years, sailed for this country on Monday of this week, from Genoa. Civil government and the violin have been their respective studies. The Misses Bryant are cousins of Dr. W. B. Blackstone and are expected in this city directly after their arrival in New York.

Mrs. Josephine Heit Forter has received a cablegram stating that her daughter, Miss Edith, who has been in Berlin, Germany, studying the piano, sailed from Genoa, Italy, today, for home. Miss Forter has been abroad for two years and five months. She first planned to leave in time to get home for Christmas, but could not make arrangements to do so.

Fee-Heit.

Miss Edna Heit and Mr. Herbert Wayne Fee were united in marriage on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Heit, of Fairfield avenue. The house of the wedding was at half past 8 o'clock and the hundred guests arrived in time to exchange greetings with Mr. and Mrs. Heit and Mrs. Nellie Cuthbert Fee, mother of the groom. The musicians for the evening, Miss Carlisle Olds, violinist, and Mrs. C. A. Horton, harpist, were screened from view in the reception hall by palms and they played previous to the appearance of the bride and groom. The bride, wearing a gown of white crepe de chine with a train and a white ribbon to stretch them from the bay window to the foot of the stairs. Little Edna was in a sheer white frock of lace and hand embroidered tulle with pink ribbons for her hair and sash, and Master Buster Walter in black velvet with collar, cuffs and tiny vest of white attracted equally as much attention. Then appeared the matron of honor, Mrs. Frank Walter, the groom's sister, followed by the honor maid, Miss Constance Keping, the bride's most intimate girl friend. These were dressed in gowns of the same material, flesh color crepe de chine with full circular skirts edged with ermine and a touch of chiffon and lace about the bodice. Both the attendants to the bride carried leghorn hats filled with Arden Ward roses. The bride appeared with her father and she was really a dream of bridal beauty. Her gown was fashioned along simple lines of an exquisite material of cream white crepe de chine, made with train and trimmed with real fillet lace. The bridal veil was edged with real duchesse lace fashioned into a winged cap for the head and the bride bouquet was a beautiful shower of lilies of the valley tied with a wide lace scarf. The bride was given away by her father and plighted her troth with a ring. Rev. H. B. Master, of the First Presbyterian church, of which both bride and groom are members, was the officiating minister. Mr. William Meschon, of Sui-naw, Mich., was best man. The musicians played a gay program of music as congratulations were showered upon the wedded couple and the guests were invited to the dining room by assisting young women, Misses Ruth and Helen Caldwell and Irma Poole. A collation was served the guests and a little later the bride and groom appeared in their traveling suits and left the house. For an hour or so Mr. and Mrs. Fee remained at the home of a friend, but early this morning they left for a trip to Indianapolis, West Baden and Chicago and will be away about two weeks. For traveling the bride is wearing a blue broadcloth suit with fawn trimmings and a black velvet hat trimmed with white feathers. Pink and white with the green of southern smilax were the decorative colors of the wedding. The assisting young girls wore pink gowns and the bride's mother presented a handsome appearance and wore as a finishing touch to her black satin and light gown a corsage of deep pink orchids. Mrs. Fee, mother of the groom, was crowned in black and a pink rose mingled with the lace of the bodice, also suggested this favored color of the bride. The Misses Flick had charge of

EXPERT GIVES "SCORE CARD" FOR THE IDEAL HUSBAND.

DOTTED LINE SHOWS WHERE LAUREL WREATH REALLY BELONGS ACCORDING TO MRS. LAWRENCE.

"But as to this ideal husband that every girl seeks and some never find, he isn't necessarily a man of ideal character, but if he pleases his wife he's her ideal, and that's all there's about it. On her vote he is elected to the ideal husband class and it's for her to keep him there."

"If men were not so matter-of-fact in their attitude toward the women they marry, it would be much easier for wives to make their husbands into ideal husbands. Men tire so quickly of romance. Married men seem to be positively ashamed to be tender or lover-like after marriage."

"In their courtship days they squander money and time and almost work miracles to win a wife. Then when they get married they seem to think, 'Well, she's mine now. No matter how I behave, it's all the same to Mary Ann.' But it isn't all the same to Mary Ann, nor to Vere de Vere. Mr. Husband thinks he has 'toughed the car' and he quits running, but the car keeps moving right on, and he had better keep on re-running or it will get away from him."

"The ideal husband and the ideal wife should be drama and goal fellows. When the husband spends an evening with friends of his bachelor days his wife doesn't nag about it, because an occasional 'revolving out' is one of the privileges of the ideal husband."

"The ideal husband really shouldn't drink at all, but if he does take a drink now and then his wife shouldn't nag him about it."

"The ideal husband is not a grouch. He's just a good fellow with a few forgettable faults and a great many traits that command respect and love. He doesn't try to be an angel, because he knows that nothing makes a sensible wife more irritable than the whir of wings."

(By Honor Fanning)

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 6.—And now comes Mrs. Josephine Lawrence to "gift" the laurel crown from the head of the ideal husband.

And what does Mrs. Josephine Lawrence, superintendent of Social Service of Cook county, Illinois, official go-between in domestic squabbles, do with the looted laurels? She twines them gracefully about the brow of the plain, every-day wife—the woman who makes the ideal husband.

"If a man's an ideal husband give credit for his perfection to his wife," says Mrs. Lawrence.

"A man is just about the kind of a husband his good wife makes him. There are exceptions, of course, to this rule, but they only prove its truth. There are impossible men and incapable, foolish women. Between them they ruin a great many homes and slatter a great many romances."

The beautiful decorations emphasized in baskets of pink and white roses placed on the piano, in the dining room and mingled with the smilax that formed a bow-like background for the bride party during the marriage service. After they return from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Fee will be at home with Mr. and Mrs. Heit for two or three months, then they will go to house-keeping. Mr. Fee is the only son of Mrs. Nellie C. Fee. He is at the head of the H. W. Fee Advertising agency and is making a success of his work. Originally Mr. Fee expected to do forestry work and with that aim in view he attended school at Baltimore. For the school he was a polytechnic forestry school and went to a polytechnic forestry school at Darmstadt, Germany. The bride is an attractive and much admired member of society.

PRATT-WELLMAN.

Mr. Charles C. Pratt, of this city, and Miss Emma E. Wellmann of New Haven, were married at half past 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church by Rev. Edward Montgomery. The bride's two sisters witnessed the marriage service. The groom is employed in the transformer department of the Fort Wayne Electric works.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

BILLY WATSON'S BEEF TRUST BEAUTIES

Madam Clark, the Flying Dutchman, George L. McFarland an eccentric Celt, Fred Reese, the sweet voiced singer, Yvonne Berger, a prima donna, Jennie Gladstone, a statuesque brunette, Evelyn Ferris, a dainty soubrette, Rosina, a marvelous danseuse and a large chorus go to make up the roster of the Billy Watson's Beef Trust Beauties, the attraction at the Majestic for 3 days with daily matinees opening Thursday. The Watsons shows hold an enviable reputation as up to date bright snappy burlesque organizations. Special scenery and elaborate costuming play no small part in the company. This is without doubt the one show you will talk about.

SCHUMANN-HEINK'S PROTEGES.

Madam Schumann-Heink has had many proteges, but it must be said that in every case the success of the young hopefuls has not always been noteworthy. The failure in most cases resulted from the incurable conceit of the budding singers. Speaking of experience she has had in acting as a benefactor to these young women, the famous contralto once remarked:

"I once obtained a fine role for a young soprano in Bayreuth; she had the necessary artistic requirements, but her unreasonable demands and undue conceit soon ended her reign in the Festival House. Madam Cosima Wagner, the noted wife of the great composer, became exasperated at the petty vanities of the girl. All the greatest singers in the world cast an engagement at Bayreuth, but this 'Miss Vain' complained of the arduous rehearsals, refused to wear

AT THE EMPRESS.

The present bill at the Empress theater is making an emphatic hit with the patrons of that popular theater. The bill has all kinds of enticing bits and is of the pleasing kind from start to finish. The headline act, that of the Three Bennett Sisters, is a hummer of an act. The Bennett Sisters are real acrobats and as they are also mighty attractive young ladies, their act is exceedingly entertaining.

The big laugh act of the bill is the act of Rockwell and Woods, two young comedians who certainly know how to make everybody laugh and laugh heartily. Rockwell and Woods are getting more laughs than any other act that has been seen at the Empress this season.

The opening number on the bill is also a hummer. It is a skating act presented by Collier and DeWilde, an attractive young lady and a young man. They are certainly wonders on skates.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

Edward Abeles in "The Million."

Edward Abeles, the foremost light comedian in America, comes to the Jefferson today in the starring role of Henry W. Savage's great comedy success, "The Million." This is the first of the paramount pictures shown at the Jefferson of a comic nature, and the production lives up to the unapproachable paramount producing standards in every way. "The Million" is not by any means a hodge-podge of slap-stick comedy, but a play depending upon legitimate comic situations for the humor it contains. Situations of a highly absurd nature follow each other with breath-taking rapidity, and there is no respite from the overwhelmingly funny methods employed by that finished farceur, Abeles.

In the story Abeles is called upon to impersonate no less than six different characters, and the rapidity with which he flits from one identity-destroying costume to another is a constant source of amused wonder. "Gertie the Dinosaur" a series of ten thousand hand-drawn pictures of a fantastical nature drawn by Windsor McKay, the noted cartoonist, will be another feature.

AT THE COLONIAL.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM.

Colonial Presents Two Attractions Today.

An excellent production of thrilling incidents, scenes and exciting situations, which comes to the Colonial today is "The Aviator Spy." This play is shown in four parts and many spectacular scenes are introduced which make this one of the most thrilling dramas ever shown in Fort Wayne.

An added attraction today is a quaint drama of the romance of a young artist and a fisherman, "The Storms of Life." A land quarrel, a drowned son, a lost memory, a romance in a fishing village, a painting and a misunderstanding are the storms that disturb the elements in this Pacific drama of novel situations and strong character portrayals.

Tomorrow.

A varied program will be presented at the Colonial tomorrow. "Human Wolves," a thrilling drama in five parts, and an excellent one-reel comedy will be the attractions.

"Runaway June" Serial.

The first installment of the wonderful "Runaway June" serial, written by George Randolph Chester, will appear soon in the columns of the Journal-Gazette. This serial will come to the Colonial in pictures on Wednesday, January 14th, and will prove a delight to all who see it.

AT THE LYRIC.

(By Caroline Cox)

Boil three pounds of lean fresh beef until very tender; allow to cool in the stock. When perfectly cold put through the meat grinder. Chop one-half pound of beef suet, and mix with the beef; add one cup of onion, one cup of raisins and one cup of currants; add one cup of molasses and one pint of syrup left from pickled peaches or pears; add one and a half pounds of brown sugar; one tablespoonful each of cloves and ginger; two tablespoonfuls of cinnamon; one heaping tablespoonful of salt. One grated nutmeg.

Mix all together and put over slow fire to cook. Add one pound of raisins that have not been chopped and one pound of currants; cook until the apples are soft, and the whole is thoroughly cooked. WHIZZ! WHIRR!—EVERY ONE'S BEEN SKATING IN NEW YORK.

CLAIRE CASSELL.

The best of all winter sports has come into its own again—this winter everybody skates, and the girl who tangles and the girl who "trots" has made way for the girl who can skim the ice on skates.

The first up of skating weather brought Miss Claire Cassell, the New York skating champion, to the rink, and her daily exhibitions are a feature of New York's brief season of winter sports.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

To make the toughest steak tender put three tablespoonfuls of olive oil and one tablespoonful of vinegar in a flat dish, lay the steak in this for half an hour, turn and leave for another half hour, wipe dry and cook in a hot pan.

In cutting down the cost of living try any recipe for baked codfish, which is very good: One teaspoon codfish, pickled fine; two cups mashed potatoes, two cups sweet milk, two tablespoonfuls butter, two eggs (beaten light), a little pepper. Mix thoroughly. Bake one-half hour.

Silk handkerchiefs should be washed in a warm lather made with pure soap. This should be blue, as should the rinsing water. Roll up tightly in a cloth and iron the handkerchiefs between linen or they will turn yellow.

If you want to get your money's worth when using the oven of the gas range arrange a combination of articles to cook at one time. When you wish to roast a small piece of meat (four or five pounds) you have room for at least two other dishes and still space for baking potatoes around the small roasting pan.

Dried fruit, already soaked, is delicious baked. The combination when baking might be roasted meat, potatoes, bread, dried prunes or apricots, or baked apple or brown betty.

It's a Simple Thing to Acquire Fair Throat.

(By Idah McGlone Gibson)

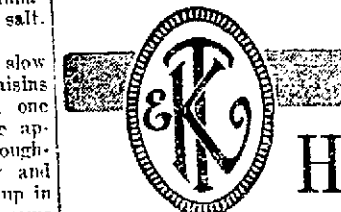

Many women write and ask: "How shall I develop my throat and lungs?" There is one very simple exercise that, taken together with deep breathing, will, if persisted in, give any woman who is not in delicate health a fine throat and lungs.

Miss Irene Hough kindly consented to pose with her hands in first position. Stand on the balls of your feet. Throw your head and chin up. This will pull up your abdomen and chest. Take a long, deep breath and, while your lungs are full, bring your hands tightly closed up to your chest.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA.

Get a small package of Hamburg Brewed Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburg Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

HEADACHE OR GLASSES? With most of us it is a choice between the two. Improper vision, eye strain and the like affect the nerves of the entire forehead. It costs nothing to find out if eyes are the cause of your headache. And it will cost little to stop it.

Dr. Lyon's Sermon on Tuesday Evening

THE NEW, OLD CHRISTIANITY.

The Acts 20:24. "But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God."

The apostle Paul had just finished his third evangelistic tour. He had come to Miletus and had sent up to Ephesus for the officers of the church to come to meet him for a last conference. During this visit the Ephesian friends endeavored to persuade him from going out to Jerusalem, for they said, Paul, as you have been going about the country, in your evangelistic work, you have spoken so plainly and pointedly that you have aroused bitter opposition and made many enemies who are threatening your life. The center of this opposition is at Jerusalem. If you go there the chances are they will kill you. Paul replied, "The Holy Spirit bears witness in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me." Then came ringing out the words of our text, "But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself." Paul stands forth as a type of the early Christians, the Christianity of the first century.

It is a glorious thing to march to victory to the tune of martial music and the waving of plumes and banners, but far greater still, to toil on amidst privation and danger, knowing that a cessation of earnest endeavor would mean an end of trials, but continuing steadfastly in the course, with a feeling of peace and joy. This was the spirit of the early Christians. I wish tonight that we might analyze the secret of their power and find in them an impulse to move us as Christian workers to nobler effort and endeavor.

There were three special elements in the lives of these early Christians. We can well covet and emulate the greatness of their power. The first was their spirit of enthusiasm. There was nothing temporary or local in this quality. This zeal of the early Christians was evident first of all in the holy city of Jerusalem, but it did not stop there. It spread over all Judea, Samaria and Galilee. It crossed over into Europe. This enthusiasm was evident among the mountains of Macedonia, upon the plains of Gaul, amid the commerce of Corinth, yes, even to the very gates of the imperial city of Rome. More than this, like the flowers that grow up on the mountain side above the timber line, in the region of frosts and snows, we find a little company of earnest Christian disciples in the palace of that most wicked and licentious of Roman rulers, even of Nero himself, sending a message to the churches of the east—"The saints of Caesar's household salute you." There was nothing that could dampen or destroy their ardor. They were cast into dungeons, and dens of wild beasts, but they gladly leaped into the stake. They served God with a heroism and devotion that has not been surpassed in twenty centuries.

Oh, that we might see a similar spirit in our own day. The greatest need of the church is a baptism of enthusiasm. By enthusiasm I mean nothing temporary or sensational, nothing that like a sky rocket goes up with a great "swish" then comes down a dry, dead stick, nothing of the momentary brilliance of the sky rocket or meteor, but rather the steadfast shining of the sun. Emerson well said, "No great cause was ever carried to a successful conclusion without enthusiasm." Many a first-class business man is only a fourth-class Christian. In politics and finance, he is full of life and energy, but in his religion he is dull and listless and dead. Many society women will flutter with excitement all the afternoon and half the night over bridge whist or five hundred, and if she ever does go to prayer meeting, she will sit as dumb as an oryster. Oh, for people that will devote their time and their energies to something that is worth their while! But some one says, "Are you not afraid of zeal without knowledge?" Yes, but I am more afraid of knowledge without zeal. If you have a gun charged with a large load of powder, you can scrape up enough pebbles in the street and put them into the barrel and hit something; but if you merely ram down in your gun a hard, cold bullet without any powder back of it, you can hit nothing. Any system of education in school, college or seminary that takes the life and fire out of the student or the preacher is worse than a failure. If a preacher cannot throw his whole heart and soul into a sermon, he had better go back in a corner and sit down. It is a supreme moment for any man when he has the privilege to stand in the pulpit, for a half hour, between the living and the dead. It is well to be a pillar in the church, but do not be a sleeper in the church. Beecher once said to his janitor, "If you see a man going to sleep, wake him up." "Wake whom up?" "The man?" "No, the preacher!" If dullness and laziness are inexcusable anywhere it is in the pulpit. Worse than inexcusable, it is criminal! If the average man in business did not put more energy in his work than the average Christian puts into his religion, it would be a bankrupt inside of sixty days.

But not only did the early Christian have a spirit of zeal, but also of personal endeavor. Said an early historian, "One of the remarkable things about that band of Nazarenes is that each one feels personal responsibility for the building up of their cause. Would that this might be said of the modern church! There are many churches that have, in these days but two active workers—the pastor and the janitor. Last year the churches of this country reported a net increase of less than 2 per cent. That is, it took more than fifty professed Christians to convert one soul. Supposing the superintendent of a life insurance company had in his employ 100 agents going out to write life insurance, and at the close of the year the whole one hundred would bring in but two policies. What would he do? You say he would discharge the whole bunch. It is a wonder to me that God has not gotten disgusted with and discharged all of us long ago. In the regular church activity, or rather inactivity, in some cities last year, the converts cost more than four hundred dollars apiece. If a business plant did not pay a big dividend on the investment than many churches are doing, they would have been declared a flat failure long ago.

Do you know that more than seven thousand churches last year in two great religious denominations reported not a single accession. Supposing there were seven thousand flour mills in this state that had great buildlings, fine machinery, steam up, engines running and wheels turning, but during the entire year the whole seven thousand did not grind a single pound of flour! What would you say of their usefulness? It is just as much the business of the church to save souls as it is of a flouring mill to grind wheat. Many a church is like a man with a crying baby. "Simply holding its own" is like riding a reeking horse, there is a great deal of activity but very little advancement. The proprietor of a lubricating factory in the east, after running a year, was asked, "Where do you sell the product?" Said he, "We do not sell it at all." "What do you do with it then?" was asked. "We use it," said he. "To oil the machinery with." The church should not merely be a hospital, but a hive, not a place to coddle the saints, but a place to save the lost. Whenever any church becomes merely a social club, a society for ethical culture, it had better nail up its doors. That church is dead and ought to be buried.

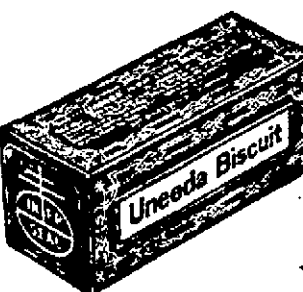

Moreover, the early Christians had the spirit of separateness. It was this fact that first of all brought on them persecution. The heathen world wanted them to put a statue of Jesus in the Pantheon along with the images of Mars, Mercury, Jupiter and Minerva, but they refused. Oh, said the heathen, now be liberal. We will make a compromise with you. If you will come into our festivals for the worship of Bacchus and Venus, then we will go into your service for the worship of Jesus. The Christians replied, "We will not do it." Then they said they were fanatical and bigoted and you need to be disciplined. That was the beginning of the era of persecution.

Why is it that there are no more people today that are being persecuted for their piety? I will tell you the secret. If the vicious and the ungodly decided to persecute, they would not know for the life of them whom to persecute. The average church member is living such a neutral, negative, colorless life that you can distinguish no difference between him and the unbeliever. The greatest hindrance to the openly wicked and vicious, it is the lukewarmness and indifference of the average professed Christian. You could not get a man to leave the rocks and hills of old New England and come out to the fertile prairies of Illinois or Iowa, if he thought he had to work just as hard to grow a bushel of wheat or corn as he did back there among the stumps and stones. Why does he make the move? It is because he thinks there is a difference in the two regions. You could not get a resident of northern Minnesota or Michigan to go down to southern Florida, or California if he thought it was just as cold at Miami or San Diego as it was at St. Paul or Duluth. He goes because he knows there is a marked difference between them. So it is with us, there is a strong inertia in human lives, an unwillingness to change from our present condition unless there is some great incentive.

Many seem to think that if we can make the church just like the world then all the world will flock into membership with the church. Never was there made a greater mistake. The higher the standard of the college, the stricter the requirements for entrance. It ought to be equally so in religion. You often see many religious organizations in the membership of which are both the pure and the impure, the Godly and the ungodly and from what they say and

There are two men walking up to the polls on election day, arm in arm. One is a church officer and the other is a saloon-keeper. You ask the saloon-keeper, "Where are you going when you die?" He replies, "I expect to go to hell. The Bible says no drunkard will inherit the kingdom of heaven, so certainly we who are making drunkards cannot." You ask the church officer, "Where do you expect to go when you die?" He is indignant at your question. He says, "I am a church officer. I am going to heaven, of course." But when you look at their ballots you see that both these men are voting the same ticket. If you are voting for the same candidates and for the same measures as the vicious and the ungodly, you are going to exactly the same place in the hereafter. "Wherefore, get ye out from among the mass be ye separate to the Lord and then I will be a Father to the Lord, and ye shall be My sons and daughters," said the Lord God Almighty.

Why did the early Christians have these three elements of enthusiasm, personal endeavor and separateness. It was due to three causes. First, they believed something and believed it with all their hearts. There was no doubt in their minds about Jesus being what He claimed to be, the crucified and risen Son of God. Many of them had seen Jesus, if not they had talked with others who had. To promote a great cause, who must be backed up by a great creed. Creed and character have the relationship of cause and effect. What you believe makes you what you are. Agnostics make poor martyrs. Some folks I know want to make good martyrs, they are dry enough to burn. It is not until you believe something with all your heart, believe it so strongly that you are willing to die for it, have you anything worth living for. There is a great difference between opinions and convictions. Opinions are things that you hold, but convictions are things that hold you. Many in these days are boosting of their liberalism. I believe in a liberal religion, a religion that is as high as heaven, as broad as the universe, and deep as the unfathomable love of God. But I would like to hear some one emphasize depth as well as breadth. Some folks are getting so broad that they are very shallow. A shot gun scatters over a good deal more territory than a rifle, but it will not penetrate nearly as deep.

In the next place, the early Christians had lost hope in other agencies for the salvation of the world. If the Augustan age in Rome, in which they lived, was not the greatest in the world's history, it was second only to the age of Pericles in Athens, the wealthiest, the wickedest, the most literary, the most learned and the most licentious upon which the sun has ever shone. These early Christians had learned the lesson that many moderns have not learned, that it takes more than excellent surroundings to save a soul. I believe in the value of sociology as well as theology. I believe in making conditions for human life as favorable as possible. But merely by giving people soup and soap and taking the sewer gas out of their nostrils you are not going to bring salvation. When our first parents wandered from God in the favorable environment of the Garden of Eden, it knocked the environment theory higher than a kite.

Furthermore, these early Christians lived in the light of eternity. They had a spirit of other-worldliness. They were looking for an eternal reward. Not till one begins to build beyond the stars is he fit to live here on this earth. They did not care whether they were counted among the noted and the great, they were members of the divine aristocracy; princes and princesses of the divine kingdom. It was little to them whether they lived in cottages or palaces, for they knew they had mansions not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

The time came when the zeal of the early church began to wane. When Christianity was poor it was pure, when it became rich and popular it began to go down. When Constantine the Great made Christianity the religion of the empire, the nobility, who before had sneered at and persecuted the Nazarenes, thinking now that it was popular, docked into membership in the church. The result was disastrous to spirituality. There is a great danger today that wealth and popularity may prove detrimental and destructive to religion. It is a great cause for congratulation that the church is as popular as it is. One of the first questions that applicants for important and responsible positions are asked frequently is, "Do you belong to a church?" Said one young man to me, "I never knew before that church membership helped a man in business." I replied, "It often helps him too much in business. And the result is that many join the church for financial, political and social rather than spiritual reasons. One society leader said to me, 'No one can be a member of our social set unless she is in good standing in some church.' She belonged to the cream of society. Some of these folks are almost cold and stiff enough to be called the ice-cream. The church today with all of her wealth and prosperity, may become like Samson with his head in Delilah's lap, shorn of its power and yet knowing not that the Spirit of God has departed.

Never was there a time when the church was any richer or any stinger than it is today. Nine million dollars go into the pockets of professed Christians in America every twenty-four hours, and never was such a small percentage of their incomes given for religious purposes. The mission societies of all denominations are constantly compelled to beg for money enough to keep the work going in multitudes of needy fields. This country spent last year more for gum than for the gospel. The men in our churches paid more for tobacco than they did for religion. If a man spends more on gasoline for joy rides than he does for Christian work, no matter what church he belongs to, he needs to be converted. The time was when some of you lived, perhaps, in a small house in the country. The circuit rider would come around once a month and hold services. You would sweep that little church or school house, and build the fires on a cold winter morning; you would give the preacher the best room in the house and the last dollar you had toward his salary. But now you have moved to town, learned to play bridge, sent your children to dancing school and tried to break into society, and you have little time or money for God's work or workers. The richer you have become the tighter you have pulled your purse strings and your soul has withered and shriveled up to the size of a mustard seed. Aren't you ashamed of yourself? I saw a sign upon a pillar in a big church out on the coast which read, "Our denomination gave sixty cents per capita for missions last year." Either give more than one-sixth of a cent a day for the sending of the gospel around the earth or else stop singing, "Christ for the world, we sing." In the language of the street, "Either put up or shut up!"

We now see signs of the dawning of a brighter day. The church has been trying every other means to build up its work, and has failed; now people are coming back to the gospel. They find that we must have more religion, or very soon we will have vastly less. Being a Christian is like riding a bicycle; you must either go on or you will go off.

GIRLS! HAVE BEAUTIFUL, LUSTROUS, FLUFFY HAIR—25 CENT DANDERINE

No more dandruff or falling hair!—A real surprise awaits you.

To be possessed of a head of heavy wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine. It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre as true as you will you cannot find a fra-of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once. If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.—Adv.

O.G.W! CORPSES! SPO-O-KS!—GO WHILE THE GOING IS GOOD.

Clinton, Ill., Jan. 6.—A pink striped shirt, maybe a few silk socks was the "haul" Sam Hawkins, smoke-tinted gentleman of leisure, hoped to make when he frisked the well Chicago drummer's suit case. Sam's no graveyard burglar.

He made a quick getaway with the grip into the alley. But "ghosts of Bill Johnson." Did any one see Sam Hawkins make his exit from the alley. He didn't have the suit case with him. He left it behind him—also he left behind a half dozen clammy cold legs, and a various assortment of white, curly arms and other appurtenances of the human framework. Sam had sure picked a dead one. It was a line of artificial limbs that fool drummer "drummed" and that reveal looking bag had nothing in it more cheering than wax legs and arms. There was nothing for a "culled" man to do under the circumstances but run. Sam ran. He's running yet as far as the Clinton coppers know.

The calls for evangelism are coming up from all over the land. Seven thousand of the choicest young people in our American colleges are Student Volunteers, willing to go to the ends of the earth for Christ's sake. Oh, that this missionary spirit might permeate the membership of the churches in all our home fields! That spirit that actuated the life of that martyred missionary, Horace Tracy Pitkin, who was murdered in the boxer insurrection. On that last night before his death, as he bade goodbye to his native assistant, he said, "Send word back to Mrs. Pitkin in America, that I died trusting in Jesus. And when our little Horace is twenty-four years of age, I want him to come back to China and take up the work which his father is now laying down." Do you think Pitkin's life was a failure? Then the life of William Wallace and Robert Bruce in the highlands of Scotland were failures. Then the life of Robert Emmet in Ireland, of Lafayette in France, and Kosciuszko on the plains of Poland were failures. Then the lives of Lincoln and Lovejoy were failures, and the life of Jesus Christ Himself, staggering up Calvary bearing the heavy cross, then His life was a failure. Oh, that man might be willing to fail for Christ's sake! We need a new Christianity. It is a new, old Christianity, the spirit of consecration that will say with Paul, "None of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy."

WON AND LOST MILLIONS ON RACETRACKS; STILL WEARS "LUCKY" OLD BEAVER HAT

Most Picturesque Figure of Paddock Has Been Arrested Fifty-Seven Times for Fast Driving.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—He sits often in the foyer of the Palace hotel here, in a big arm chair—a man of medium size with a conspicuous, big white beaver hat resting on his knee, accepting the attention he exerts much as a king accepts his right to rule.

He is "White Hat" Daniel McCarthy, who has won and lost more than a million dollars on the American turf, now 53 years old, although you'd set him down for 45.

The palmy days of racing have left in their wake no more picturesque figure than this man, who is known on every racing course from California to Maine. "White Hat" McCarthy took to fast horses when very young and has never quit them. In San Francisco alone he has been arrested fifty-seven times for fast driving. He continues to drive a speedy pair, Sydney B. and F. W. P., a 2:30 pair, although he is now immune from arrest.

His predilection for pranks is bound up in some of his numerous "phases." Once he left a horse unattended on the street, after having been repeatedly warned against it. The animal, although speedy, was gentle as a kitten. At a neighboring "barn-and" joint McCarthy had a very large doughnut specially baked to order. Tying it to a strand of black thread he fastened it to the horse's bit like a hitching weight and left him standing there.

When the officer on the beat discovered the horse he waited for McCarthy and placed him under arrest. "One good joke deserves another," chanted the officer.

"WHITE HAT" MCCARTHY.

McCarthy kept the peace until healed before the magistrate, and then argued his case on the ground that the doughnut was "a sinner" and sufficient to anchor down even the most fiery steed. The judge showed his joking spirit in turn by fining "White Hat" handsomely. McCarthy took it as quite a tribute to his comedy genius, and went his way chuckling.

"White Hat" doesn't remember just when he began racing horses. He was in the trotting game early and owned the famous mare Venus, from whose line came Lou Dillon, track king, whose 1:55 1/4 was a record until reduced to 1:55 by Chien. He was also owner of Dexter Prince, for which he refused $50,000.

McCarthy's first big winning was at Washington park in 1887, when he captured the American derby with S. H. Todd at 50 to 1, the purse being $15,000. In 1891 he made another "killing" with Sorrento by winning the July stake at Long Branch.

Just before this race McCarthy strolled into the betting ring and found his bag posted at 30 to 1 against.

"Give me $200 on Sorrento," he drawled laconically to the bookmaker.

"Want some more?" challenged the latter, accommodating him.

"Yep, $200 more," was the reply. "Make it $12,000 to $400," coolly responded Burton, the bookmaker. Then he promptly marked Sorrento up at 35 to 1 against.

In all McCarthy won $45,000 on that race.

He believes racing will return to its own again, and he believes that when it does he will amass another fortune.

"I believe," he said, "that the game will thrive again. The percentage should go to the state, and with the pari-mutuel and auction pools racing must be on the square."

BOSTON TEAMS ARE PICKED FOR FLAGS

Braves and Red Sox Are Likely Looking on the Early Dope.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Boston may have a world's series all to itself next fall. For the first time since Chicago enjoyed the honor of pulling off a real world's championship between its own Cubs and White Sox there is a better than even chance that another city may enjoy the same honor. The two Boston teams are favorites in their own leagues for next year's pennants.

The Red Sox are regarded as the most likely team in the American league, and the wise ones figure that the Braves should be able to repeat last year's victory in the National league. The only other city that ever has looked as if it had a chance for such an honor is Philadelphia. Three years ago, when the Phillies were making their strenuous bid for the National league leadership, it looked very much as if that city would win the flag in the two leagues, for the Athletics were then at the top of their game.

Bill Carrigan and his Red Sox are the envy of every manager in the American league. The runner-up in last year's race took like the real goods for the coming season because of the machine which shattered the $100,000 machine of the Mackmen. The Boston men should be a little stronger, if anything, than they were last year.

While there is nothing certain in baseball, the dope at present points to the Red Sox as the likely winners of next year's pennant on last year's showing. Accidents may shatter the prospects but Carrigan can keep his men going at the same pace they set last summer there is little doubt about the result. A slow start last spring kept the team out of the pennant last fall, for it was pretty generally conceded last September that if the Red Sox had had two weeks more they would have overtaken the Athletics, even though Connie Mack had all of his star players in the game.

Carrigan should be able to start where his team left off last fall. Owner Joe Lannin, of the Boston club, is a new man in the game, but he has shown himself a good baseball man by giving his manager every backing possible. Connie Mack last fall predicted that the pennant next year would go to the Red Sox.

The Braves, of course, are the favorites by long odds for the National league honors. Johnny Evers and his followers will be harder to beat next season than they were last because of the confidence instilled into the young players. Stallings and his Braves will need to fight with a little harder at times to come out ahead because every club in the league will be anxious to beat the champions, while last season there was none of that stubborn resistance which always comes to the champions.

While it may not be quite so easy for the Braves to win in their league as it will be for the Red Sox, there is a big percentage in favor of the Braves. The Giants will hardly be as good a team as last year unless Manager McGraw makes some trades and lands fresh men for the spots where speed is on the wane.

The Cubs should be a stronger team with Roger Bresnahan in the manager's position and during the fight in every game. The Pirates also should be able to make a much better showing than they did last year, so that the Braves will have harder teams to beat in through the league than last summer. The Cardinals will be just as strong as the Phillies and the Dodgers and Reds, but the Phillies now look weak.

While it is a long shot that two teams in the same town go through a season without bumping into each other, the Red Sox and Braves seem to be well rewarded from every side that misfortune are not likely to put them out of the running.

OFFER BIG PURSES FOR AUTO DRIVERS

Quarter of Million Probably Will Be Hung Up for Speed Demons.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—At least $200,000, conservatively estimated, will be offered in prize money this year for automobile racing, with the possibility that this amount may be increased to $400,000 before the season is out. Indianapolis, as usual, heads the list with a guaranteed cash purse of $50,000, and necessary prizes and trophies aggregating $26,000 more. The sure purses, carefully computed, seem to be as follows, in the order of their importance:

Indianapolis	$50,000
St. Louis	25,000
Omaha	25,000
Tacoma	15,000
Venice	15,000
Yanderbilt	10,000

Los Angeles-Phoenix	10,000
Oklahoma City	10,000
Galesburg	5,000
Galveston	5,000
Uniontown Hill climb	5,000

Total $206,000

Other purses which may be added, provided the plans of their promoters are realized, are Chicago $50,000, New York $50,000, Minneapolis $50,000, Detroit, $25,000, and Los Angeles $10,000, together with minor offerings by dirt tracks such as Kalamazoo, Peoria, Grand Rapids, etc., from $2,500 on down. Altogether the prospects are such that even the most doubting Thomas cannot refrain from entertaining the most sanguine opinion as to the future of the auto racing game.

An eight-cylinder racing car, the first of its kind, will be entered in the next Indianapolis 500-mile race May 29, if the plans of Arthur Klein, America's youngest registered driver, go through as scheduled. The car is of 370 cubic inches piston displacement, and only 1,750 pounds weight. Its estimated speed is over 110 miles an hour. A similar car, the twelve cylinder car of Jean Chassagne, holds the world's record of 107.85 miles an hour, so that with an experienced driver like Klein, who scored second and third in the Tacoma Polkath and Mantamarathon contests respectively, the new machine may be expected to make an excellent showing.

Billy Carlson, first entrant in the next Indianapolis 500 mile race, is now a benedict, his bride being Miss Margaret Mazzini, daughter of an old Grandee family of Santa Ana, Cal.

FEDERALS HANG UP VICTORY IN FIRST

Lyceum Basket Ball Team

Off to Great Start in Opening Game.

The Lyceum Federals made their debut last night before a large crowd in their opening game with the Corby hall team of Notre Dame and they finished the game a good five points ahead of their opponents. The Corby team outweighed them twenty pounds to the man but what the Federals lacked in weight they made up in speed and at no time was the outcome of the contest doubtful. There was an element of roughness but it only served to make the game more interesting and detracted nothing from it. The visitors used the same players that went up against the Zaneville bunch, and it must be admitted that Corby puts out some basketball team.

The glass backstop, so much talked of, were not used in last night's game owing to the carelessness of erection, but they will be in place by the time of the next game. A record crowd was in attendance, both the Lyceum followers and the Corby hall partisans, and they rooted hard for their respective teams.

Immediately after the tip-off Miller dropped one in giving the locals first blood, and a short time later Loos scored the second one, giving the Federals four. Thus the score stood until some admirable teamwork on the part of the visitors tied the score and a lucky shot gave them a two-point lead. Miller repeated with two more which left the athletes from South lead two behind, but in the last few minutes of the half Kirkland scored his first basket, tying the score. The half ended 8 to 8 with Corby still surprised at the easy proposition they expected to run up against.

The first five minutes of the second period was uneventful and neither side seemed able to find the basket but finally Fitzgerald fouled and Miller broke the tie by a successful free throw. Corby now woke up and got wise to what was going on. A spurt brought the ball down to the locals' goal and after several futile tries he scored, gaining a one point lead on the Federals. Soon they followed with a couple more and things began to look dark for the Lyceums, but the combination of Loos to Flaherty to Miller gave a goal and after the tip-off the same triple pass netted another one. Then Flaherty got one in from long range and soon things were again running smoothly for the locals. Also, encouraged by his teammate's successful shot, made the attempt and scored another for the Federals. A foul and two more baskets finished the scoring for the locals and a foul and another lucky basket put an end to Corby's gaining.

Miller, the star Lyceum forward, played the best game last night of all his basketball career. He was everywhere at once and his accuracy in basket shooting was what enabled the Federals to wallop the boys from Notre Dame. Flaherty and Loos showed well and the three mentioned form one of the strongest combinations working on a basketball court. Brown and Blee were the mainstays which served to hold Corby down and prevent her from scoring. The score

Federals, 21. Corby Hall, 17. Flaherty.....F..... Kenney Miller.....F..... Kirkland Loos.....C..... Fitzgerald Brown.....G..... Kelleher Blee.....G..... Finnegan Field goals—Flaherty, 2; Miller, 7; Loos, 1; Blee, 1; Kenney, 2; Kirkland, 3; Fitzgerald, 3. Free throws—Flaherty, 1; Miller, 1; Fitzgerald, 1. Referee—Kennedy.

The Preliminary. One of the contests for the amateur championship of the city was played last night as a curtain raiser for the big game. The Acollans and Nationals came together and the former came out second best. The game was fast and a good deal on the order of the one that followed put at no time did the Nationals seem in danger of losing. The Acollans play a nice speedy game but the Nationals are too fast for them. The score and line-up: Acollans, 15—G. Loos-Kinney, F. Doriot, F. McGuire, C. Rulo, G. Rahner, G. Nationals, 20—Hoffman, F. Stegner, F. Walda-Baade, C. Adams, G. Linnemeyer, G. Field goals—McGuire, 2; Rahner, 2; Kinney, 2; Hoffman, 3; Stegner, 3; Walda, 1; Baade, 2; Linnemeyer, 2. Free throws—Doriot, 3; Adams, 2. Referee—Spring.

FULLERTON SEES STAR SECOND BASEMAN IN PHELAN—A COMING EVERS.

Cub Bench Warmer Has Makings of Brilliant Infielder—His Career Almost Ruined by Bad Management.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton.)

Here is a prediction: Arthur Phelan will be one of the best infielders in America and so rated before the end of this season. Phelan was down at Fort Myers, Fla., when he read that Manager Bresnahan was looking for a second baseman and he at once wrote to President Thomas saying:

"Don't you and Roger overlook me while casting around for a second baseman. If you get a new man be sure to get a real good one or I will be forced to beat him out of his job."

That letter is enough. Phelan has found confidence in himself and he will be the second baseman—and one of the best. Last year his case was almost a tragedy. His career came near being ruined by bad management. Phelan came to the Cubs from Cincinnati. Two months after he was with the team he remarked to me: "I've learned more baseball playing alongside Evers three weeks than I ever learned in two years at Cincinnati."

I spoke to Evers of it and he remarked: "Phelan is coming at top speed. You can see him improving. He is bound to be one of the best men in the business." Unfortunately for Phelan O'Day got the club and Evers the can. O'Day brought with him prejudices against Phelan held over from his Cincinnati experience. It was laughable to see the Cubs scouring America for an infielder—with the best man in the business who was available sitting on their bench. Three National league managers were waiting for a chance to grab Phelan if the Cubs asked waivers—and not until the little fellow asserted himself did the management realize what they had.

OSSIAN WANTS TRY IN LOCAL CIRCLES

Another of the Small Towns

Anxious to Break Into

Basket Ball.

Are the Ossian Independents of the same class in basketball circles as Zaneville and South Whitley?

This will be answered on Thursday evening of this week when the players meet the St. Paul five at St. Paul's auditorium and make their bow to the Fort Wayne public.

Some of the basketball teams from the smaller towns are showing class in their performances and the fact has stirred up a lot of enthusiasm in the particular towns to which they belong.

Their showing has also created a lot of curiosity in Fort Wayne and patrons of the game are ready for most any sort of surprises as players unknown to the basketball public with little opportunity for training and practice and working under handicaps that have been truly discouraging have leaped into the glare of the spotlight and remained there.

Ossian has played here once and has obtained a hint of the sort of opposition it can expect. On this occasion it met the Concordia club and was defeated. Then the men went back home and began working on the weak spots and determined after a practice or two that they could cope with Fort Wayne players and this brought a request for a game with St. Paul.

The St. Paul team will have Wambagans and Gersberger working out in front, Trehr, will play center and Fenschler and Rebeleman will go guard duty. As a preliminary the club will offer the St. Paul Juniors and the Ironquils and the two clubs are capable of putting on a pretty scrappy sort of a curtain raiser. Walter Kennedy will be the referee and the seats are on sale at the St. Paul auditorium, Setzmeier's cigar store and the Koehliners' drug store.

MARRIED LIFE THE PAGE THAT BREAKS

McDougle Spent $1.75 on Wife and Then Sent Her to Ma.

According to a divorce complaint filed in the superior court, William R. McDougle found, after an experience of two weeks and spending $1.75 on his wife, that he could not afford matrimony at such a riotous pace of living, so he gave his wife a dollar and told her to go home to her ma at Warsaw, Ind. Indiana M. McDougle, who files the complaint, says she and William were legally mated on the 9th of May, last year, and that on the 25th of the same month he ravished himself of the dollar and packed her off to the parental roof-tree. She says that he never provided a house or room in which they might set up a domestic establishment, but "compelled her to work around and get a home wherever she could get in." All he ever gave her, she avers, was $2.75, including the dollar to get home, and never bought her any clothes of any sort. It is set out that he confessed to her that he was guilty of adultery. She has secured an order restraining the Perfection Biscuit company, by which the defendant is employed, from paying him his wages while the suit is pending.

NO OCCASION FOR ANY EXCITEMENT

Board is Not Going to Give Up Hanna Street to Railroad.

The board of works has received with some anxiety a report that Hanna street property owners are preparing to visit the board next Friday as an indignation committee to voice a stern protest against the vacating of the crossing of their street at the Pennsylvania and Wabash railway tracks. Friday is the day fixed for the hearing of the Wabash railroad on the track elevation resolutions, as they affect that road, and for the postponed hearing of the Pennsylvania railroad on the resolutions that relate to track elevation at Lafayette and Hanna streets.

Aroused by the statement that the Pennsylvania road would like to have the Hanna street crossing abandoned in order to make practicable the separation of its grade from the Wabash railroad, the Hanna street people are said to be getting ready to present themselves before the board at Friday's hearing to voice their indignation over such a proposal. The board hopes to be able before Friday to assure the property owners on Hanna street that no such proposal is before the board, that there is no purpose to consider such a proposal and that the threatened indignation meeting would be wholly useless and without point. The only matters that will be considered are the track elevation resolutions, including those that provide for grade separation of Hanna street from both the Pennsylvania and Wabash railroads. The resolutions deal with the relocation of grades made necessary by track elevation and contain no allusion even remotely to an abandonment of the Hanna street crossing. After the board has confirmed the resolutions they must go to the city council to be ratified and that body is not bound to approve the resolutions unless satisfied with them. The board of works has stated that abandonment of Hanna street is out of the question and will not be entertained, should such a proposal come formally before it.

WILL HOLD ANOTHER MEETING.

Opponents of Wabash Park Assessments to Meet in Smart School.

Another meeting of the opponents of the plan to enlarge Wabash park and to assess property owners in the northeast park district for the cost, will be held Friday night at the assembly room of James H. Smart school, on Pontiac street, will be the place. These hostile to the plan to enlarge the park are showing much aggressiveness and the movement has now an organized influence.

The meeting held by the opponents of the measure in Reinhardt's hall, Tuesday evening, was well attended, more than seventy people were present, the vast majority of them being opposed to the improvement. George Lew president and Mayor Hoesy, Frank E. Singrey, of the board of works, and Councilman Peter A. Offenloch, of the Seventh ward were among those whose presence was conspicuous. When, in response to Mayor Hoesy's request for an expression of sentiment, the chairman makes all those opposed to the park board's plan to raise their hands, sixty-six hands were counted. By a vote that was unanimous resolutions were adopted asking for repeal of the present park board law. Mayor Hoesy made a brief address in which he said he was not presuming to advise the people of the southeast park district and would not in any wise interfere with the park board's plans if a majority of the people of the district favored them, but that if a majority did not he would go as far as he could to support public sentiment in the district. Attorney Otto E. Tuelher, one of the leaders of the opposition, addressed the meeting and said that the $3.50 average of assessments would be but a small part of what the people of the district would have finally to pay for the improvement. Mr. Offenloch and Mr. Singrey spoke briefly.

ERROR IN STATE REPORTS.

Accounting Board Reveals Figures of City Lighting Plant.

Mayor Hoesy has discovered that in the fourth annual report of the department of inspection and supervision of public utilities of Indiana, commonly known as the state accounting board, an egregious blunder has crept into the figures showing the operation of the city electric light and power works. The figures in the report show that for 1912 there were earnings of $190,551.27, with an operating cost of $85,521.55, and that for 1913 there were earnings of $198,352.54 and an operating cost of $165,118.90. According to these figures there was a deficit of $25,759.24 in 1913. As a matter of fact there was a big surplus of revenues over expenses, just as there was in 1914, notwithstanding a huge expenditure for additional equipment and line extensions. Mayor Hoesy will inquire how the blunder occurred. His pride in the steadfast prosperity of the municipal lighting plant since it was established during his first administration makes him uncommonly sensitive to any misrepresentations that it has lost money.

RIISING WATER WORRIES BOARD.

The rise of the rivers due to the thaw and rains have renewed anxiety in the bosom of the board of works on account of the unfinished state of the Spy Run avenue retaining wall. Until the water goes down completion of the wall will be impossible and a big tide in the St. Joe would probably do much damage to Spy Run avenue.

FIRST MEETING FOR MEN IS BIG SUCCESS

Half Hour Service is Held at Patterson-Fletcher Store.

CRACKERJACK.

I was at the Lyon meeting last night for the first time and I think it was a crackerjack—Harry P. Fletcher, one of the proprietors of the Patterson-Fletcher Clothing store.

One hundred and twenty-three men, by actual count, attended the first men's meeting Wednesday morning at the Patterson-Fletcher clothing store, on Calhoun street.

Rev. H. H. Pitzer declared it to be the biggest first meeting of the kind he had ever attended. He said it was not often that merchants had provided such conveniences. However, it was worth Mr. Fletcher's while, for immediately after the service Loren G. Jones, of the Lyon party, purchased a new suit of clothes, being assisted in the selection by Mrs. Jones.

Two songs were sung by the men under the direction of Mr. Jones, with Mrs. Jones at the little organ used in meetings of this kind.

store, wondering what was going on. Many of them stepped in to find out for themselves and did not leave until the meeting was over. Mr. Jones sang a solo, "He Will Not Let Me Fall."

Short Talk By Pitzer.

Mr. Pitzer spoke for about twenty minutes on the things worth while and not worth while. The things not worth while, the speaker said, are: Laziness, dishonesty, greed and selfishness, while the things most worth while are: industry, honesty, generosity and unselfishness.

The morning men's meeting Thursday will be held at the store of the C. C. Schlatter Hardware company, at Clinton and Columbia streets.

Society

Timothy Costello, who for the past two weeks has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Costello, of Masterson avenue, left today for Campion college, Prairie du Chien. Mr. and Mrs. Costello accompanied their son as far as Chicago.

The country club dance at the Commercial club this evening is the chief attraction, socially, and attendance will be nothing daunted by unpleasant weather. Misses Esther Cover and Hilda C. Koehn, who had been spending the holiday week with their parents, left today for Toledo to resume their studies in the Law-Froebel kindergarten school.

Mrs. Samuel Moore and her granddaughter, Elizabeth Ellen Burrows, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Voirel since last July, will leave at noon tomorrow for their home in Waterloo, Iowa. Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Voirel are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Titus will leave tonight for Florida, where they will remain until next May. They will be with friends at St. Petersburg and at St. Cloud during the greater portion of their stay in that state.

"Yes, sir," replied the ticket seller. "What's the show tonight?"

"As You Like It."

"Wall, that's what I call accommodation!" said the native. "Seem as you give us our choice, mother and me'll take Romeo and Juliet."—Chicago News.

CORRECT POSITIONS for SOCIAL DANCERS

by ANNA PAVLOVA

MISS PAVLOVA AND HER PARTNER, M. IVAN CLUESINA, SHOWING HOW TO BRIDGE FOR THE "CLOSED POSITION"

By ANNA PAVLOVA.

To select the correct from the incorrect is the distinguishing sign of the good social dancer. It may be done instinctively, or through the exercise of care. But however it is accomplished, those who look on never fail to comment favorably.

The social dancer who executes steps and figures with ease, with grace and without exaggerations is the one who appears to best advantage to others; who shows respectful consideration for his partner and who deserves the utmost satisfaction from his own efforts. This is true, also, of the lady, who should at all hazards preserve her feminine dignity and attractiveness.

Is there anything more to be admired than a couple on a dancing floor that moves rhythmically with the pulsations of the music, without needless effort? I have seen such dancing, where each partner maintained an erect attitude wherever possible, and where the shoulders and arms were held quietly as they should be. I have likewise observed such a couple going through evolution after evolution with bodily ease and grace, never descending to the practices of the poor dancer by so much as the fraction of an inch.

Before starting for America this Fall I posed before the photograph camera with my partner, M. Ivan Cluesina, for several positions, the correctness of which is important to dancers. Three of these positions are "open" and two are "closed." I selected them because each one is frequently used in several of the dances now in vogue.

I want, first of all, to call attention to the pictures that are numbered one and two. They show the dancers preparing to come into a closed position, and the actual accomplishment of that position. Dancers should remember that right preparation is the greatest help to later accomplishment, and this surely is so in this instance.

MISS PAVLOVA AND HER PARTNER ILLUSTRATING THE FIVE POINTS OF THE "WALK-AROUND" POSITION

So, when ready to begin a waltz, or any other dance requiring a closed position, instead of starting without definite purpose to make a beginning, each dancer should approach the other with deliberation and erect body and in strict time to the music. As the partners draw nearer and touch hands they will be enabled to assume such an attitude as is shown in photograph number one.

The second photograph presents the dancers in the closed position, and its careful scrutiny discloses some important details that are of value to good dancing. One is that the cavalier does not hold his lady too close either for appearances sake or dancing ease. In the attitude assumed by myself and my partner we are sufficiently free, in every physical way, to dance with the utmost ease and grace.

It is not always easy to assume the half-open position, as seen in photograph number three, because there are many things to be done with precise correctness. The torso must be inclined slightly yet be comparatively erect; the elevated arm, for graceful effectiveness, cannot be extended too high, nor should the feet be noticeably far apart.

Nicety of balance and bearing in other often-used open positions may be seen in the photographs numbered four and five, the former showing the beginning of the "walk-around," which is used in one of the new social dances I have originated, and the latter the start of the "circular turn," performed alone by the lady with the assistance of her escort.

Social dancers who observe these details shown in the five photographs may always be sure of two things—that they will appear to advantage and that their movements may be made according to artistic principles.

DANCER BELIEVES TALENT INHERITED.

MISS GEORGENE HARVEY.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—In her own grace and conceded talent, Miss Georgene Harvey, of Berkeley, Cal., daughter of a line of distinguished ancestors, believes she has proven her contention that the ability to express art and personality through motion is inherited.

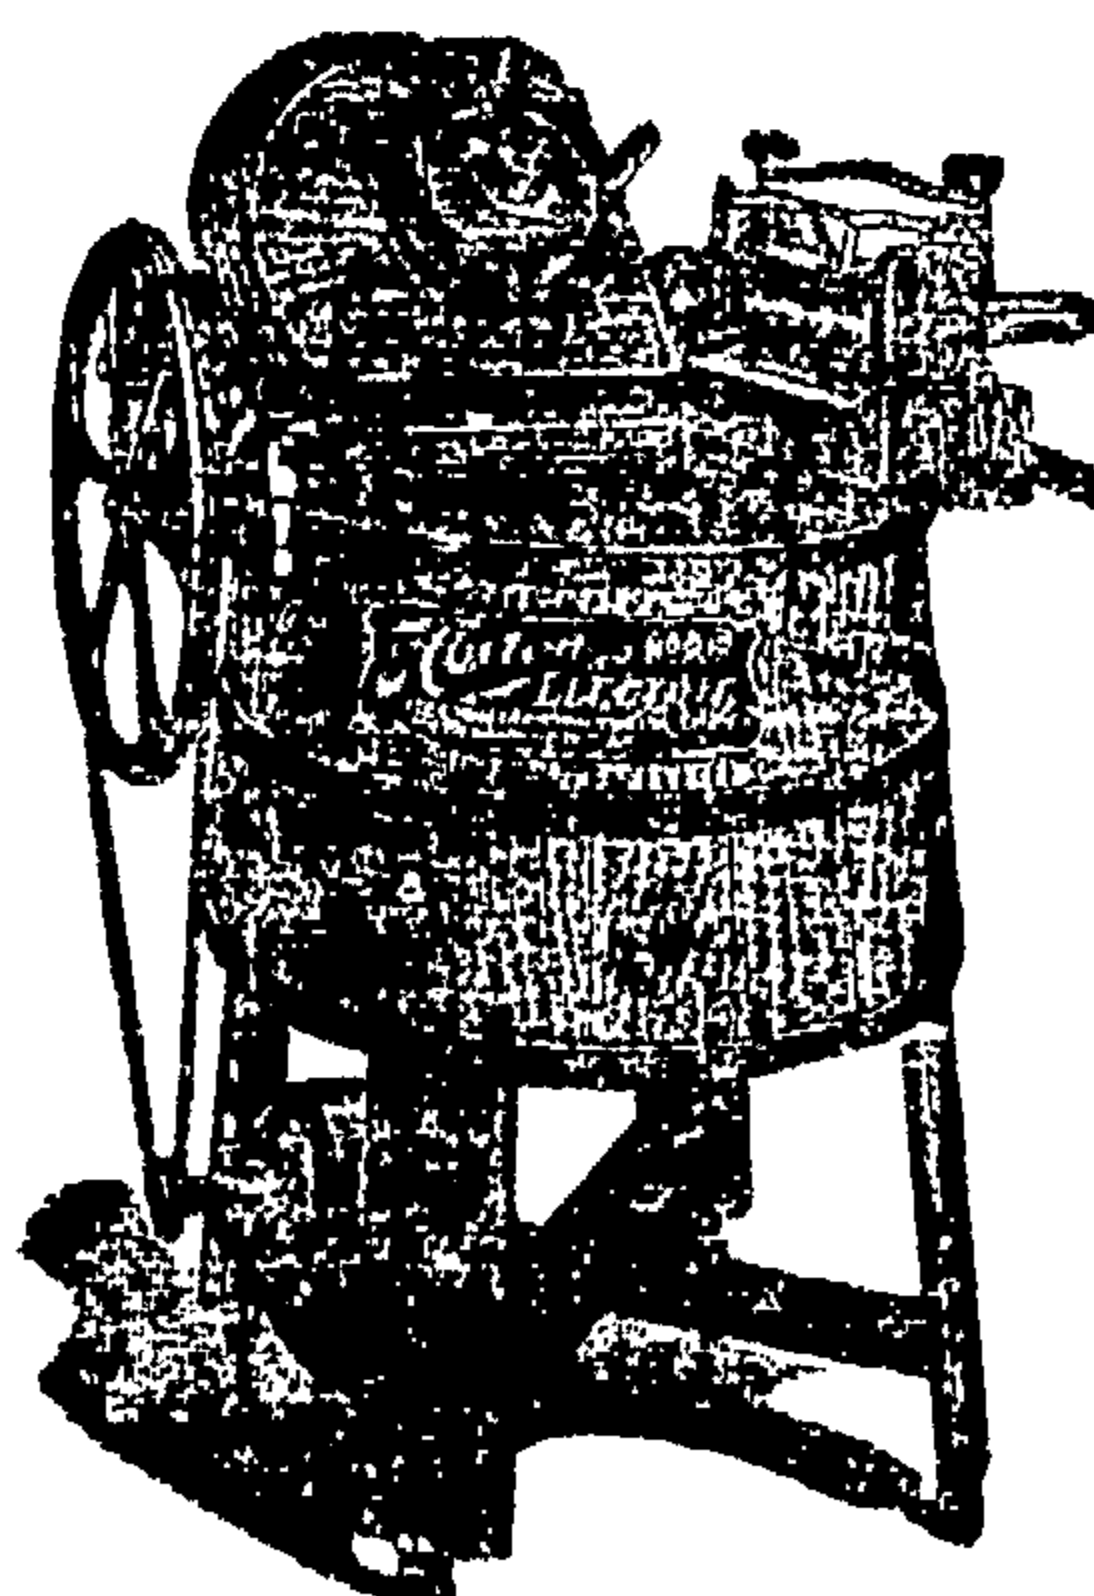

Miss Harvey, who is still in her teens, began to excite comment at the age of three, when she appeared in juvenile dances at a British Columbian exposition. She now bids fair to eclipse in terpsichorean art her mother, known to the professional stage of this country and Europe as Clarissa, and her grandmother, Mme. Foreman Emerick, an instructor in the classics, and one of the most talented pupils of La Jagu-arina.

Lela Allen made a business trip to Van Wert Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Koehran and daughter, Emily, from Indianapolis, left here Tuesday morning after spending the holidays as the guests of relatives. Mrs. Pearl Smith and Mrs. Ora Schonweitz made a business trip to Fort Wayne recently. Mrs. George Harrison, of Van Wert, was a business caller in Convoys this morning. After spending several weeks visiting relatives here John Cox returned to his home in Maples, Ind.

BIG TRACTION POWER PLANT THREATENED

As a result of a fire in the bunkers that feed the twelve boilers of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's power plant, on Spy Run avenue, Tuesday night, the entire plant was threatened with being put out of commission. The blaze was discovered about 11:15 o'clock and is believed to have been caused from spontaneous combustion. It is thought the fire had been smouldering for several days. Firemen from Nos. 1 and 6 engine houses responded and succeeded in extinguishing the fire before any serious damage was done, although an unusual quantity of water was required. While the water thrown on the blaze filled some of the boilers, every boiler was again in service Wednesday.

LYDIA LOPOKOVA, IN "JUST HERSELF"

New York, Jan. 6.—Broadway welcomed a new star this week—Lydia Lopokova, Russian dancer, who has learned to be a really-and-truly actress, and whose name now adorns the Playhouse, blazoned in costly electric lights. Harrison Grey Fiske is the manager who had sufficient faith in the little dancer's capabilities to give her the necessary schooling. The play in which she is presented is called "Just Herself." The title is descriptive—the piece was built for Miss Lopokova, and fits her exactly, embodying, of course, opportunities for her to dance. In these, it must be said, she is at her best. But she is very young, and very pretty, and she has plenty of opportunity to develop dramatically. The holidays have witnessed a regular epidemic of musical shows. One of them, which will undoubtedly stick around quite a while is, "Hello, Broadway," the revue written and staged by George M. Cohan, and in which he and William Collier are the star performers. Cohan is back to his dancing again, and the show is generally full of "pep." "Tonight's the Night," with the original London Gayety company, is a charming good musical production of the English brand, and has caught on well at the Shubert. "Lady Larceny," with its Claire featured, at the Casino, is lighter than the others, but has nevertheless a tuneful score and plenty of life.

DR. LYON IN FIRST AFTERNOON MEETING

In Fort Wayne, also will be here. Ministers within a radius of fifty miles of Fort Wayne are invited to attend, the purpose of the conference being to awaken the revival spirit in this section.

On Friday night a delegation from Roanoke will attend the Lyon meeting. On Wednesday night, January 13, a delegation from Oasien will be here. Other towns also are planning to send delegations.

A song service is held every noon at the Fort Wayne Electric works. A piano has been donated by the Packard company for the use of the men.

Indifferent Members Scored.

Indifferent church members were given a scolding Tuesday evening by Dr. Lyon on the third night of the tabernacle meetings. He said there was little difference today between the conduct of the church member and the non-church member.

The evangelist also attacked various methods adopted by many churches to raise money.

"You never knew of a person in your life won to Christ by a lottery game, bazaar or an ice cream social," he said.

Wednesday night Dr. Lyon will begin a series of sermons on the commandments.

"I am going to begin to hammer hard tomorrow," the evangelist announced Tuesday evening. "I serve notice now."

Total Collection.

The collection Tuesday night amounted to $108.48 as follows:

Donations	244	$ 2.44
Nickels	367	18.35
Quarters	523	52.30
Half-dollars	33	8.25
Dollars	3	3.00
Checks	1	20.00
Totals	1,170	$108.48

The total collection since the meetings started Sunday morning is $1,379.31.

Another wonderful song service under the direction of Mr. Jones was given Tuesday evening. As usual the preachers, moonbeams and sunbeams and others were asked to sing alone. Mr. Jones announced that on Wednesday night he would ask the reporters at the press table to sing alone.

Delegation From Decatur.

A delegation of sixty people came over from Decatur in a special car and occupied seats reserved for them near the front. The ministers who accompanied the delegation were: J. H. Rilling, Evangelical church; D. T. Stephenson, Methodist Episcopal; T. H. Haruan, United Brethren; W. H. Gleiser, Presbyterian; and Floyd Rogers, Baptist.

A tabernacle meeting is soon to start in Decatur under the leadership of Evangelist Honeywell, whom Dr. Lyon said he knew very well. Mr. Jones asked the delegation to stand so that everybody in the tabernacle could see them, which they did, amid applause. Then he asked them what song would they like to have sung and somebody suggested "Tell Us." Mr. Jones asked the married folks to sing. Then he asked all folks who wanted to be married to sing alone. At first there was a man and woman who sang a few lines but soon lost their nerve and did not finish.

The opening prayer was given by Rev. W. H. Gleiser, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Decatur and president of the minister's alliance at that place. He asked that the meetings may cause men to see life as they have not seen it before and to cause them to hear a voice they have never heard before. He asked for a great blessing in Fort Wayne during the next six weeks.

One of the features of the meeting Tuesday night was the special number by the choir consisting of about 500 voices entitled, "All Hail Immanuel." The big tabernacle was made to ring and there were tremendous applause.

Song Written by a Reporter.

Following the scripture reading by Dr. Lyon Mr. Jones sang as a solo: "Because His Name is Jesus." Mr. Jones explained that the words to the song were written by a newspaper reporter who had been an infidel. He had reported a series of revival meetings and had rejected the appeal of the evangelist to the last. The next day after the close of the meetings his body was found, death having come to him suddenly and without warning, and on his person was found the words which E. O. Excell has since set to music.

Dr. Lyon again lauded the newspapers of the city. He spoke of the editorials that had appeared in regard to the meetings and urged the people to send the papers broadcast over the country.

Quarter Night.

While time night was observed Tuesday night Dr. Lyon announced that Wednesday night would be quarter night. He said that there was about an average of one out of every five or six who attended Monday night's meeting who had contributed. The evangelist noticed that the boys seated in the front rows were contributing and congratulated them for doing so.

He announced that there had been good reports from the various morning prayer meetings. He asked that these meetings not be held over half an hour.

"When you pass a house where a prayer meeting is being held, don't stop to knock either before or after you get in," he urged.

The New, Old Christianity.

Dr. Lyon spoke Tuesday night on the subject of "The New, Old Christianity," pronounced by many as the best sermon he has delivered since the meetings began. At times the evangelist would almost fall to the floor in emphasizing a point and the next moment was leaping high into the air.

The evangelist said that there are many society women who will rave about a meeting of this kind because there might be some excitement, who will work herself into a frenzy over a game of five hundred, bridge or rummy.

"I have just as much respect for the gambler in the flames as I have for the gambler in the parlor," he said. He said he would like to see as much enthusiasm in the churches as there is in a political convention.

The evangelist declared that many people have joined church merely for social, political and business reasons, and that there never was a time when the church members were so rich and yet as stingy as they are now.

The new, old Christianity is the religion of Jesus Christ and the Apostle Paul.

"We are on the eve of the greatest religious awakening the world has ever known," he said. Following a dramatic close of his sermon the congregation was asked to sing "Rescue the Perishing."

Personal Workers' Meeting.

Following the regular meeting the personal workers gathered in the front of the tabernacle for a conference with Dr. Lyon. Between 500 and 600 remained. Dr. Lyon said that the success of the campaign does not depend so much on the preaching or the singing as it does in the personal work. He urged every Christian to learn how to do personal work. When he asked how many had been led to Christ by a personal worker practically every hand went up.

Cards on which the names of those from whom the worker is to pray were distributed. On the cards is printed the following: "I covenant to pray at least once a day by name and labor for the following persons that they may be saved before our union campaign closes." The evangelist urged that both sides of the cards be filled. Personal workers' meetings will be held every other night. The personal workers were also urged to get a copy of a little book entitled, "Without Excuse," which answers almost every argument that may be presented for not making a public decision for Christ.

Led by a Girl.

There were four persons in attendance at a prayer meeting Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Nancy Hill, residing on Little street. Miss Helen Swaim, 15 years old, led the service. Each of the four persons in attendance took part.

Great preparations are being made for the boys' and girls' meeting Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the tabernacle. Mr. Jones has promised to perform a number of tricks, being a magician as well as a musician.

Good Street Car Service.

Splendid street car service is being provided by the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company. To facilitate matters two men have been stationed outside of the tabernacle at the close of the meetings to announce the different cars.

New features will be added from time to time to make the meetings more interesting and to provide something different. Dr. Lyon is not a quitter and is a hard worker. As a matter of fact he seems to grow in strength as the meetings progress. While he is a worker, he expects others to work as well. Every Christian has something to do. When things are not moving along just as he believes they should, he doesn't hesitate to criticize and try and remedy the trouble.

Frequent meetings are to be held with the executive committee, at which time matters pertaining to the meetings will be discussed at length.

Boys' Meeting.

The boys of Fort Wayne have caught the revival spirit. Tuesday afternoon the boys began coming to the tabernacle as early as 8 o'clock. The call had been made through the daily press and announcements made in the various churches and from the tabernacle pulpit last Sunday that boys would be needed to put out ten thousand door-knobs advertising Dr. Lyon's sermons of January 6, 7 and 8. Clifford Hutchison, chairman of the distributing section of the distribution to the boys of the hangers. He had originally divided the city into fifteen sections and had thought that he might have trouble in having that many boys respond. Instead of not having enough boys, it became a question of knowing what to do with the boys who came. By actual count by Rev. Edward H. Clifford, of the East Greighton Avenue Church of Christ, who assisted Mr. Hutchison, there were over seventy boys who came to the big tabernacle.

Car Fare Refused.

Mr. Hutchison suggested to the boys that he would pay their car fare to their respective districts. This suggestion was disdainfully refused. "No," said one boy, "we've got legs and we can walk." The first boy was started at 3:15 and the last boy left at 4:45. Some of the boys were new boys and had to tell their papers before going to their districts.

Occupied Reserved Seats.

The "door knob hangers" not the pieces of cardboard with the holes for the door knobs, but the boys who did the "hanging" occupied reserved seats in the front section directly in front of the pulpit. Just before the sermon Dr. Lyon made reference to the boys and their work.

Names of Boys.

The boys who aided in distributing the door knob hangers, and who were present last night were: Allen Woods, Edwin Kierner, Herman Cox, Harold Nipper, Clair Bennett, Oscar Watts, Paul Trough, Hugh Kiefer, Thurlie Whitledge, Elsworth Burriss, Fletcher Green, Emil Green, Paul Eckenbarger, Fred Ranshott, Kenneth George, Edward Walke, Glenn Burchard, Ernest Green, John Gene, Carl Dutton, Cyril Cubb, Edward Schold and Fred Chapman.

Women's Meeting.

Mrs. Barr and Mrs. Jones met with a large company of ladies at the Y. W. C. A., Tuesday afternoon, to arrange for the women's work of the city.

The following are the women chosen as chairman of the various departments and they will select their helpers from the church women: President, Mrs. Thieme; secretary, Mrs. Jacobs; chairman of committees; parlor meetings, Mrs. George Evans; store, Mrs. B. P. Moorman; factory, Mrs. A. H. Perfect; Thursday, Mrs. J. B. Meriwether and Mrs. Wagner; transportation, Mrs. Jacobs; music, Mrs. Stapleford; professional, Dr. Calvin. Another meeting will be held on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

COLORED CLUB IS RAIDED BY POLICE

Rich Brown and Two Score Patrons Thrown Into a Panic by Cops.

The so-called Stoenberg constitutional amendment, which authorizes classification of property for assessment, will be up for consideration. This measure provides for the abolition of the general property tax as the foundation of the state's taxing powers. In the event of its approval by the coming legislature it will go to the people for ratification. It was passed by the 1913 legislature.

Equitable distribution of taxes is the primary object of all agitation for tax reform say leaders in the propaganda. It is argued that under the present system that the tendency has been for investors to buy exempted municipal securities and thereby escape the payment of taxes on tangible property.

COLORED CLUB IS RAIDED BY POLICE

Rich Brown and Two Score Patrons Thrown Into a Panic by Cops.

The city court Wednesday morning resembled a stated meeting of the Major G. Will Wilson Afro-American Republican club. Rich Brown, manager of the Eclipse Athletic club, on Calhoun street, and more than a score of his patrons who were present when Captain Richard Kelly and a squad of police raided the place at 10:30 Tuesday night, were present along with another score of interested colored friends. Brown was charged in two affidavits with selling liquor without a license and with keeping a place where liquors were sold in violation of the law. Brown's attorney, Frank A. Enrick, secured a continuance until Friday morning and Brown's bond was fixed at $300 for each charge. Jim Stewart, Joe Alsop, Harry Murray, Charles Watson and Charles J. Morgan, negroes, were held under bond of $25 each as witnesses. A dozen other men and half a dozen women, all colored, who were caught in the raid, were booked as witnesses, but were allowed to go on their promise to be present Friday morning. The Eclipse Athletic club was thronged with colored folk when the raid came off. Upstairs and downstairs the rooms were a scene of animation. Beer and whisky were being swilled and the officers seized some of both as evidence. Twenty-three colored men and women were corralled by the officers, but not all of whom were present when the police arrived were gathered in. From a second story window half a score of men leaped to the roof of a shed in the rear and thence to the ground, making their escape. The place has been under police surveillance for some time under suspicion that an illegal traffic in drinks was going on under the guise of a club. Brown was called to the police headquarters some days ago and questioned by Chief Leaz, who told the negro that his club could not run. The order was not obeyed and the raid was the consequence. The Crescent club occupies the rooms formerly used by the Marcelline Inn, a restaurant for colored people, on Calhoun street, just south of Grand.

Woman May Have Been Assaulted

Eugene Cook was sent to jail in default of $100 bond to await appearance for trial Saturday morning on a drunk charge, and meanwhile the police will try to ascertain if he did not commit an assault on Bertha Evans, aged 34, who was found at 10 o'clock Tuesday night suffering from a badly fractured hip at 441 East Berry street. A call was sent to the station for the patrol wagon to take an injured woman to the hospital, but the patrol was away on other duty at the time and Detective Sergeants Immet and Ruffell were sent to the Berry street place to investigate. They found the Evans woman in the hall loudly screaming with pain and unable to move. From her and the crowd of seven or eight men and women about her the officers got the story that she had slipped on the icy pavement in front of the house and injured herself. Her clothing was dry and bore no evidence that she had recently had a fall in the slush. She was taken to St. Joseph hospital, where Police Surgeon J. Frank Dinnen found she had a badly fractured hip. Cook was arrested some time later at the transfer corner. He was drunk, on the verge of temens and had a partly emptied quart bottle of whisky in his pocket. He and the woman had been together downtown earlier in the evening, and are said to have been drinking. It is thought Cook may have knocked the woman downstairs at the Berry street lodging house. The Evans woman came here a few weeks ago from Huntington, where her mother, Mrs. Mary Mann, resides. Cook is a paroled convict, having served three years for shooting at an officer on the race track at Montpelier, Ind.

"IRON MAN" OF ARCTIC AND SALVAGE HUSKIES LEAVE WILDS TO SEE LAND OF SOFT DELIGHTS

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—John Johnson, "The Iron Man of Alaska," and his pack of 320,000 Siberian wolf dogs, winners of this year's all-Alaska sweepstake race, have come down here to loaf a little while in the land of soft delights.

With Johnson is Bill Brady, another celebrity of the "land that God forgot," and his string of prize huskies, valued at $20,000.

John and Bill and their shaggy canine friends were a little shy and awkward when they trotted down the gangplank at the wharf here. Asphalt streets and skyscrapers were strange to feet and eyes accustomed to snows and the long, hard trails.

Lean and hard they were—both men and dogs—their bodies stripped to the fighting weight of bare muscle and sinew, the northland demands of its fittest creatures. An extra pound of flesh may weigh like a ton in the strenuous sport to which John and Bill and their dogs have given distinction. It means the difference between losing and winning a $10,000 prize purse, and $10,000 is a fair week's income along the Yukon today.

Twice Johnson has earned the purse and the greater glory that goes with it by "mushing" his prize dogs over a 408-mile course of trackless snow in the Arctic wilderness. It is his wonderful endurance under this acid test that has won for him the title of "Iron Man."

During the three days and nights it takes to strain through from Nome to the finishing post at Candle Creek, Johnson does not sleep. Only a few mouthfuls of food pass his lips, and scarcely any water. The dogs run the gruelling race under the same conditions. In 1910, when he won his first sweepstake, Johnson did not once stop to rest. This year he allowed himself a few minutes in breathing spells, finding that the short pauses benefited him and his dogs.

The man who can do that is quite naturally the idol of his fellows on the other side of 53.

The dogs, too, come in for their share of worship—those who live to drag themselves to the winning post.

The drivers in the all-Alaska race, inaugurated by the Nome Kennel club in 1908, may go as they please. The only condition is that they bring in every dog, dead or alive, with which they started.

haunted dogs and one dead on his sled. His record for the 408-mile course, never beaten, is 74 hours and 14 minutes, which is remarkable time when the rough country over which the trail leads is considered. On the way Johnson feeds his wolf hounds biscuits made of graham flour, eggs, cream and sugar, only small portions being doled out to sustain their fires of endurance. "You can't get over the country on a full stomach," explained the greatest of northern dog mushers.

While in San Francisco, where Johnson and Brady expect to stage Alaskan dog-racing scenes at the 1915 exposition, the $30,000 beauties will be fed on a fish diet until they get accustomed to the rations of bread, milk and biscuit it is intended to substitute after a time.

This is Johnson's first visit to San Francisco since he won the $10,000 prize purse in 1910.

Johnson's $30,000 prize-winning dog team with which he captured the 1914 $10,000 all-Alaska sweepstake, and below, Johnson as he looks when on the trail.

In one of his races Johnson finished Francisco in ten years. Formerly he often made this port as a sailor, having graduated from the fo'c's'le to champion dog driver a decade ago.

SLASHES THROAT WITH RAZOR

DeKalb County Farm Hand, Gloomy From Drink, Tries Suicide.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 6.—John Comnater, aged 50, a farm hand in the employ of Oscar Fulk, in Smithfield township, this county, tried to end his life Tuesday afternoon by slashing his throat with a razor. He inflicted a bad gash and Dr. Swartz, of Waterloo, the medical attendant, says the man may yet die from his injury. Comnater appeared at the Fulk home about a year ago, just recovering from a prolonged debauch. He was taken in and proving to be a good worker had been kept. He got on periodical drinks and was getting over one Tuesday when despondency caused him to seek to end his life. Comnater says he has a wife in Ohio, who refuses to live with him and drove him away from home. He was in the dining room at the Fulk home when he slashed his throat with the razor.

TWO NEAR DEATH IN WATER

Decatur, Ind., Jan. 6.—Frank Johnson and Walter Stahley, two young boys of Wahab township, came near drowning in the Wahab river. The boys were on their way to school and had dared each other to cross the river, and finally both started. The Stahley lad went ahead, the Johnson boy following. All at once Stahley gave a frightened cry

SLIP ON ICE; HORSE PAWS HIM

Decatur, Ind., Jan. 6.—Merle Sampson, of west of the city, was the victim of one of the most peculiar slip-on-the-ice accidents that have happened. He had been to Craigville on business and on returning to his home tied his horse outside, before going into the house for something. He slipped and fell in such a manner that his animal's heavy hoof was set on his chest, however, without injuring him internally, though the hoof marks were plainly visible.

POULTRY SHOW CALLED OFF

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 6.—Joseph Grover, president of the DeKalb County Poultry association, because of a lack of interest on the part of its members, has called off the fifth annual poultry show of the organization that was to have opened here this morning. Mr. Grover said Tuesday afternoon that more than usual interest in the project had been manifested by fanciers outside the city, but the members of the local association had failed to show an interest necessary to the success of the exhibition. For the past four years the association has held its annual show in Auburn and each succeeding exhibition eclipsed its former one.

Van Wert, Ohio, Jan. 6.—Henry D. Wilson, for the past four years sheriff of Van Wert county, has surrendered his office to E. E. Bevington, whose election to that position is contested by J. Herman Gunsett. During his term Sheriff Wilson distinguished himself by an uncommon degree of efficiency and had become notable for his success in detecting and arresting criminals. As a mark of the esteem in which they held him the officers in the court house presented him with a handsome gold ring emblematic of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, of which he is a member.

HORSE GETS HIGH SIGN AND GALLOPS

The equine came trotting east on Wayne street about 5 o'clock Monday evening, going at a smart, but lawful clip, drawing a Coverdale & Archer grocery delivery wagon. Traffic Officer Al Adkins, on duty at Wayne and Calhoun streets, saw the approach of the outfit, gave the rig a high sign that it had the right of way to cross Calhoun street. As the horse got the intersection there arose a hue and cry from bystanders.

"Whoa! Stop it! Catch 'em! Stop that horse! Runaway!"

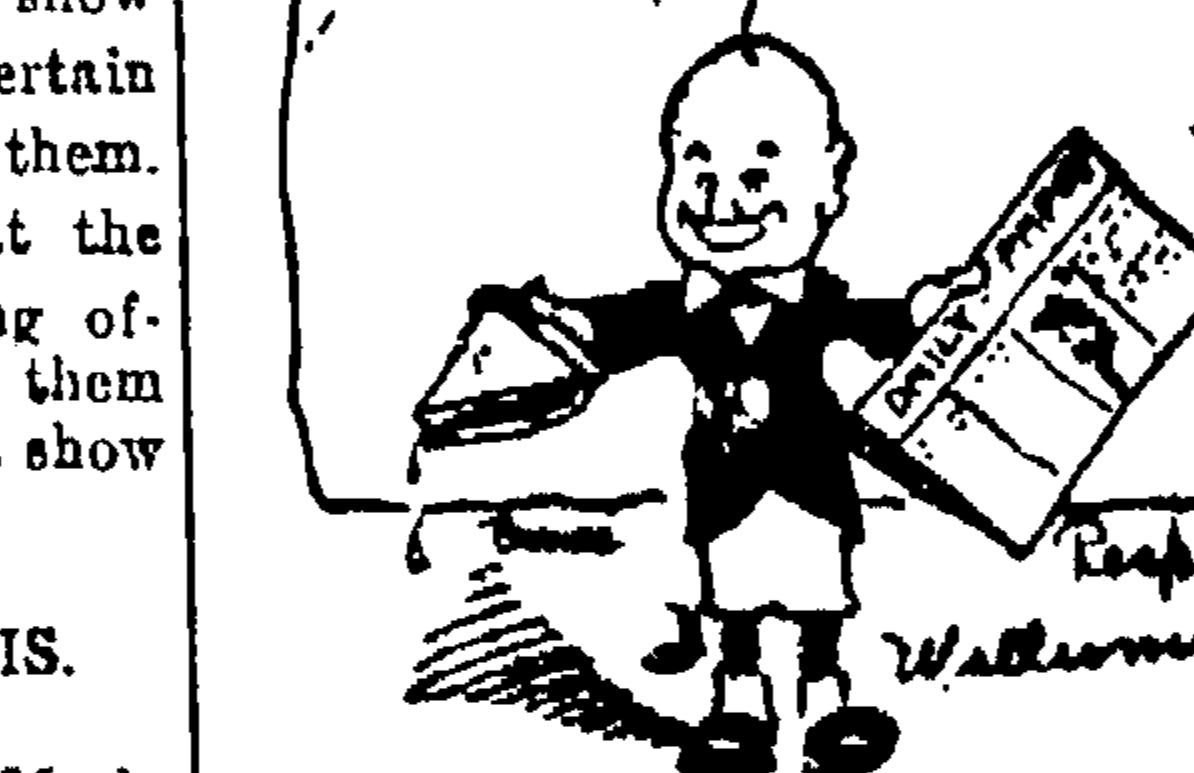

And then there was a runaway sure enough. The animal frightened by the noise in the street dashed east on Wayne street at home stretch speed and was caught farther east when a Purag Water company driver lashed his team ahead of the runaway and turned his wagon across the street as a barrier. There was no damage.

A storm curtain in the front of the grocery wagon had prevented Officer Adkins from seeing that the rig had no driver, but bystanders on the side line saw it and made the affair worth while with their noise by starting a real runaway. The driver had left the wagon for a moment and his animal evidently thought he was gone too long and started on a business-like trot to go where he was going.

Mrs. Mary Fels, who shared her husband's social interests during his life, but kept always in the background, has taken his place and she will carry on his plans for the betterment of social conditions.

Mrs. Fels is now making an extended tour in the west in the interests of the single-tax doctrine.

Every available fireman that could be spared was called on to help.

Fire Commissioner Adamson, who assumed personal charge of the situation, sent men scouring throughout the city with orders to bring every pump or available to the scene.

Congestion, the like of which the city has seldom seen, prevailed at almost every subway station. At the Brooklyn bridge the Manhattan entrance was choked by tens of thousands. For fifty minutes detachments of police reserves struggled with the crowds there before order could be restored. Elevated trains and surface cars were packed to overflowing all over the city with the throngs that were turned away from the subway.

Sixty to One Hospital.

Sixty persons were taken in an unconscious condition from the scene of the fire to the Flower hospital. Other hospitals received many victims as well. Ventilator gratings were taken up from the sidewalks around the Fifth and Fifty-ninth street stations and many of the injured were removed in this manner.

Fire Commissioner Adamson received reports from battalion chiefs to the effect that the fire was confined to two subway cars, that several persons had been killed and a great many injured and overcome.

this one exception, none had been fatally injured.

Due to Collision.

Unofficial reports gave the cause of the fire as a collision between express trains. At the time of the fire the subway contained smoke from a previous fire, extinguished only a few minutes before at the Spring street station.

It was shortly before 9:30 o'clock that wisps of smoke began to curl from the manholes along Broadway between the two stations. The spot where the fire burned first was opposite Fifty-sixth street. Hampered in their efforts to reach the blaze the firemen dug into the pavement with their axes. They succeeded in making a hole above the subway at 53rd street.

Flames From a Crater.

From this opening heaved a volume of smoke and flames as if from a crater. Hoses were directed through the opening and even hand extinguishers were used.

For ten blocks the streets were lined with the ambulances that came from all over the city. A caisson thrown around Broadway by the police held in check tens of thousands of spectators.

The transportation tie up resulting from the fire spread to the Bronx and to Brooklyn and tens of thousands of persons struggled at elevated railway and subway stations in those boroughs in an effort to reach Manhattan.

Beginning the Rescue.

As the fire began to cool long streams of firemen, each carrying in his arms an unconscious victim, entered the two stations. They were taken to the outer air and the firemen went back for more.

Baffled in attempts to reach the victims who lay close to the burning cars, Inspector Egan of the bureau of combustible, dispatched messengers by automobiles for dynamite. He said that he would use this, if necessary to rip up the streets and thus afford the firemen an entrance through which they could work unhindered.

For the first time in the history of the fire department a special alarm called out firemen and battalion chiefs without apparatus to fight the flames and care for the injured.

It Came Suddenly.

The early tie up was sudden. Trains came slowly to a standstill and remained stationary, some of them between stations. Smoke from burning insulation at the Spring street station filled the subway for blocks. A mile away the fumes afforded throngs of passengers who crowded the station platforms.

All along the line the sale of tickets was stopped. Surface cars and elevator trains were badly congested and all subway stations were filled to overflowing with struggling crowds. Many persons, imprisoned on trains stalled between stations were overcome by smoke, and taken out momentarily by the police.

The tie up started at 8 o'clock this morning, the beginning of the rush hour. An hour and a half later a slow express service was started, only to be halted by the discovery of fire. Three alarms were turned in. Eight ambulances were sent to the scene. More were called for immediately.

Carry Out Victims.

THE MARKETS

WHEAT PRICES ARE STILL ASCENDING

The wheat prices at the local markets Wednesday reached a price which has not been paid for the grain in this city for the last four years. Dealers in grain offered $1.39 a bushel for it on the markets today and they state that there is no possible chance at the present time for the price to go lower but that it has a tendency to go upward, and that without a doubt it will remain in the region of these prices for several weeks.

A dealer remarked Wednesday morning that almost four years ago farmers received $1.35 a bushel for wheat but that it only remained at that price a few days and then dropped 15 cents. The only cause that he knew of for the price to go up so high was the great export demand of the country.

As a consequence of the prices on grain reaching this level the prices on flour, bran and middlings also took a jump. One dollar was added to the price on flour per barrel and $2 a ton on bran and middlings. All other markets were quiet Wednesday, and the city scalemaster reports but three loads of produce.

WHEAT PRICES ARE STILL ASCENDING

The wheat prices at the local markets Wednesday reached a price which has not been paid for the grain in this city for the last four years. Dealers in grain offered $1.39 a bushel for it on the markets today and they state that there is no possible chance at the present time for the price to go lower but that it has a tendency to go upward, and that without a doubt it will remain in the region of these prices for several weeks.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Selling instead of buying became the most popular course today in the wheat market here. Lower prices at Liverpool helped traders to see the need of being conservative after a sudden almost vertical advance of more than 10c a bushel.

The close was unsettled, 1/4c to 1/2c 1/4c decline.

Quotations thereafter opening 1/4c to 1/2c lower, steadied at a point, 1/4c to 1/2c under last night's level.

The close was nervous, 1/4c to 1/2c to 1/4c net lower.

Corn weakened with wheat. Opening quotations, which were unchanged to 1/4c, were followed by the market becoming general, but being narrowed to about 1/2c down from the previous close.

In oats, as in other grain, the bulls were forced to give ground.

Packers unloaded provisions. The result was an all around moderate setback.

WOMAN TO JUDGE HER SEX FROM BENCH IN CITY POLICE COURT.

MRS. GEORGIA P. BULLOCK.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—A woman has been empowered to sit in judgment upon a woman accused of crime, a portentous innovation fathered here by Police Judge Thomas P. White. The new tribunal is to be known as "The Women's Court," and will be presided over by Mrs. Georgia P. Bullock, well known attorney and student of criminology.

For the time being Judge White will sit with Mrs. Bullock, merely to legalize the latter's decisions, but she will tell him what to do. To give Mrs. Bullock full power to hand down judgments in the cases of women and juveniles accused of misdemeanor legislative endorsement is necessary, and such a bill is now being drafted by Judge White to be presented at the January session of the law makers.

The new tribunal is the first one of its kind in the country.

The proceedings will be held behind closed doors to protect women from blackmailers who have made a practice of taking names and addresses of female defendants to extort money from them.

Mrs. Bullock will question prisoners and witnesses. Then she will instruct Judge White what to do. In addition to her work in court, she will talk with women prisoners in jail, and will have charge of a detail of women investigators to conduct outside inquiries.

At a fixed hour every day she will be in her chambers, adjoining the courtroom, to talk with perplexed and troubled women in private.

Mrs. Bullock as judge of the women's court, has agreed to serve without pay until the anticipated legislative act which will enable her to draw a salary.

Judges of the California appellate court, of superior courts and Chief of Police Sebastian have heartily endorsed the creation of this new tribunal and the appointment of Mrs. Bullock as unofficial magistrate.

Both Judge White and Mrs. Bullock expect this court to be a great aid in securing a justice that does not affront humane considerations in connection with the cases of women and juveniles charged with misdemeanors. One of the most prolific sources of confirmed criminality, they point out, is the practice of compelling women defendants to face a crowd of morbidly curious men in the courtroom, there to reveal their lapse if guilty, or to be ogled and looked at as if innocent.

Mrs. Bullock is a graduate of the University of Southern California law school and has practiced in criminal courts extensively.
